NEELY VICTORY HELD LIKELY IN WEST VIRIGNIA

Former Senator Hopes for Majority of 50,000.

PREDICTED MARGIN UNDER THAT FIGURE

Millionaire Coal Man Is Opponent Chosen by Republicans.

DEMOCRATS COUNT ON GAINS IN HOUSE

Jones Has Commitment of Many Mine Operators but They Are Inactive.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

Charleston, W. Va., Oct. 20.—Former Senator M. M. Neely is one of those who is likely to be restored to good standing in our exclusive Senate Club this year.

Some months ago his election was considered so certain that the Republican senatorial nomination was having difficulty in finding takers. Senator Goff was advised by physicians that his health would not permit of his making such a fight as any Republican would have to make this year, so he announced his retirement.

Then just about the time it looked as though Mr. Neely might win by default, to speak hyperbole, the Republicans rap across James Elwood Jones, multimillionaire coal operator who lives in Washington, anyway, and for whom the State would not have to pay railroad fare in the event he was chosen for the Senate. Back in the days when Mr. Coolidge's economy was the byword this might have had its appeal, but now the stress is on spending.

Mr. Jones Wins Primary.

However, Republican hopes perked up when Mr. Jones won the primary and there came to be so much froth on the campaign that there was talk of the outcome being in doubt. I have come to the conclusion, though, that the Republican politicians' main hope now is to save the rest of the ticket through the considerable assistance that one of Mr. Jones' affluence can render rather than the election of Mr. Jones himself.

It is believed that Mr. Neely will win by at least 35,000. He himself believes it will be by more than 50,000 and he is one of those men with the peculiar gift of correctly gauging his chances.

It is argued, and probably truthfully so, that Mr. Neely has not the strength now that he had two years ago when he lost by only 9,000, while Mr. Hoover was carrying the State by more than 100,000. He has been out of office for two years and without the opportunity to do the many little things that intrench a man in public office. Mr. Jones, too, being a coal operator, should be able to carry with him a number of the coal operators with whom Mr. Neely has heretofore been particularly strong.

Operators Not Active.

The fact, however, that the operators are not anything like as active in this campaign as they were for Neely two years ago, although many are personally committed to Mr. Jones, indicates that Mr. Neely still stands in considerable favor with them.

Organized labor is in here waging a vigorous campaign for Mr. Neely because Mr. Jones in his mines operates under the so-called yellow dog contract, the very fiery instrument that cost Judge Parker his Supreme Court place. The miners are unorganised but that is no reason why union agitators can not do a lot among them and it probably is another reason, too, why the operators do not want to make any issue of Jones.

The railroad labor vote is another factor in this State and the railroad

Plants at Danville Once Held Example Of Industrial Utopia

Employes Now Out on Strike Were Participants in Management of Cotton Mills at One Time—Union, Which Is Present Issue, Came at Their Request.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

Danville, Va., Oct. 20.—Ten years ago this city was looked upon as a sort of industrial Utopia. A novel and idealistic scheme for handling the problems of the cotton mill workers was in effect, and it was working out in highly successful fashion.

The workers and the company had a system of government modeled somewhat after the Government of the United States itself. First, there was a house of representatives composed of weavers, loom fixers and the like. Then there was the senate. This was composed of the foremen or overseers. And finally there was the cabinet, made up of the president of the cotton mill and a few other executives.

If an employe wanted to bring about a reform, he introduced, or had introduced a bill in the house of representatives. If this was passed, it then went to the senate. If that body concurred, the measure then went to the cabinet, which could either approve it or veto it.

The system was called "industrial democracy," and it worked. At least it worked for a number of years. How well may be judged from the fact that on one occasion the employes, through their house of representatives, actually voted to reduce their own wages.

Today, however, the cotton mill workers have turned on "industrial democracy." It is not industrial democracy, they say, but industrial "autocracy."

Today Danville is the scene of the most serious strike in the United States. Four thousand mill workers are walking the streets, the largest cotton goods manufacturing plant in the Southland is idle, and the city itself is beginning to feel the pinch that inevitably accompanies such an economic let-down.

Two Methodist ministers here, for example, have had to call on the Methodist Conference in Norfolk to subsidize them, so greatly have the church offerings fallen off.

The strike has been on for three weeks now. In that time, there have been two incidents that might be listed under the head of disorders. A couple of Negroes who refused to strike were "taken for a ride" and thrashed, and a bomb was exploded in

LOAN AGENT, GUILTY, TO LEAVE DISTRICT

Marcus Himmelfarb Is Given Suspended Sentence to Quit Town.

MAN CHANGED HIS PLEA

Marcus Himmelfarb, who operated the National Loan Co., near Ninth and G streets northwest, until he was arrested several weeks ago for operating without a license, was convicted in Police Court yesterday and given a suspended sentence of $100 fine or 30 days in jail.

The sentence was suspended on condition that Himmelfarb winds up his business and leaves the District "within a reasonable time." Assistant Corporation Counsel Thomas F. Cameron, who built up and prosecuted the case against the lender, said last night that he will keep Himmelfarb under close surveillance to see that he obeys the court instructions.

Himmelfarb was arrested after two rookie policemen from the Traffic Bureau, Lester Howard and Jerome McConville, working on their first assignment, each borrowed $50 from Himmelfarb and signed notes in which they each agreed to pay back $70 for the $50 received within six months.

The law provides that any person, or group of persons, charging more than a gross of 6 per cent for loans they make must obtain a license from the District, for which they must post bond of $5,000, and that in no case may any lender charge more than 1 per cent a month, which must cover not only interest, but all brokerage, commissions and other fees.

Violation of any provision of this law obligates the lender to forfeit all interest and other charges and,

CHRIST DISCIPLES ASSAIL NEW CULTS

S. Lee Sadler Says Dogmas Hinder Advance of Church.

OPEN FORUM IS HELD

Assailing the cults and creeds that have sprung up since the war, S. Lee Sadler, of Greenville, N. C., last night urged the World Convention of Churches of Christ to return to the "passion and power of the Apostles in efforts to save a "distracted, disillusioned, indifferent world." Mr. Sadler's address climaxed a day devoted to the origin and achievements of the Christian Church in many countries, including Soviet Russia, England, New Zealand and Japan. Sessions were held jointly in the Washington Auditorium and Constitution Hall to accommodate the thousands of delegates in attendance.

Speaking on the "The Church Invincible," Mr. Sadler rapped the "fundamental paganism" which he said was responsible for depleted church coffers. "There is something wrong with a congregation that buys new automobiles and radios, but can not finance their church budget," he explained. "The greatest discredit to the church is the selfish lives of members who require material things, but by their niggardly treatment keep the church impotent."

Attacking dogmas as hindrances to Christianity, Mr. Sadler said that the great fundamentals of Christian religion were not given by dogma or decree, but by experience and contact with Christ. "We should proclaim basic truths," he added, "for we are not sent out to create a message, but to proclaim a Gospel."

While Mr. Sadler was speaking in the auditorium, an address along identical lines was being delivered at

WOMAN NAMES SON SLAYER OF BUSH, IS CLAIM

He Threatened to Kill Her, If She Talked, Mother Says.

HUNT INTENSIFIED FOR W. J. CARNELL

Mahoney, Under Arrest, Denying Guilt, Will Fight Return.

POLICE BUILT CASE FROM THIN CLEW

Third Man Who Figured in Pistol Deal Is Now Being Sought.

The capture of W. C. Mahoney in Pittsburgh, Pa., in connection with the slaying of Louis Bush, unfolded the story of a mother who, police say, had knowledge that her son committed the murder and she held her tongue in fear of him.

William J. Carnell, 31 years old, who escaped when Mahoney was arrested, is the son of Mrs. Sarah Margaret Sullivan, 60 years old, of 825 Fifth street northwest, who, authorities say, told them that on the night of the murder Carnell compelled her to wash the blood stains from his clothes.

As the mother remained in the protection of the House of Detention, police plans were initiated for a further search for Carnell, who, they say, was a "trigger man" in the killing. Mahoney is charged by them with being at the scene of the slaying of Mr. Bush in the rear of his home, October 6.

Third Man Being Sought.

It was learned by The Washington Post last night that a third man is sought in connection with the killing. This man is believed by authorities to have provided the gun which was used in the attempted holdup of the wealthy bus owner and philanthropist.

In the interval, word came to Washington last night that Mahoney told Pittsburgh detectives he would fight removal to the District. Mahoney's decision came as a surprise to the Pittsburgh detectives, who say that earlier in the day he had told them he "wanted to go back" with Detective Sergt. Thomas Sweeney, who left Washington yesterday for Pittsburgh.

Sergt. Sweeney has in his possession a warrant obtained yesterday from United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage, charging Mahoney with the murder. No ward had been recived from him at local headquarters last night.

Indictments to Be Sought.

Inspector William S. Shelby and Capt. Edward J. Kelly, who directed the man hunt, will today institute moves to place the case against Mahoney and Carnell before a grand jury for indictments to facilitate the removal of the suspect to this city.

Mahoney was brought before the police court in Pittsburgh yesterday, where he went through the formality of a hearing. At that time he is said to have indicated his willingness to waive extradition proceedings.

What police claim to be the solution of the mystery came after more than two weeks of diligent search in the development of a meager clew in the form of a hand print which was found on an automobile in Bush's garage in the rear of his home at 3534 Fulton street northwest, where the murder occurred.

Inspector Shelby and Capt. Kelly, who directed the investigation,

ELECTRIC RATE CUT FORECAST FOR NEXT YEAR

Prediction Comes After Utilities Group Meets With Power Heads.

TO BE 'SUBSTANTIAL,' SAYS WILLIAM F. HAM

SALE OF FOURTEENTH STREET PLANT TOPIC

Cost Figure Retirement of Building Disputed by Commission.

"Substantial reduction" in electricity rates for next year was forecast yesterday by William F. Ham, president of the Potomac Electric Power Co.

Mr. Ham's forecast was made following a conference between company officers and the Public Utilities Commission in the District Building.

The meeting was held behind closed doors at the instance of the Utilities Commission, of which Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrcik, retired, is chairman. The meeting, commission officials said, was not a "formal" one.

Mr. Ham's prophecy of reduced rates next year was based on the volume of business done so far this year by his company. Annual reductions in the electric rates have almost ceased to be news because of their regularity since the existing agreement was made between the company and the Utilities Commission.

Based on Business Volume.

Under this agreement the company has annually made a high rate of return on its valuation, but no one has seemed to mind that because each year the rates have been reduced to consumers.

The meeting yesterday was not held primarily to discuss rates for next year. That subject will not be taken up for decision until near the end of the year. The prediction made following the meeting yesterday that rates again would be lowered was based on the volume of business done by the company so far this year.

Treatment of taxes paid by the company, how the sale of its Fourteenth street property to the Federal Government would be carried in the accounts and other questions were discussed at the meeting.

It is no secret that members of the commission have felt dissatisfied with some of the things done by the electric company in the past and want the company to give prompter attention to communications from the utilities commission.

Retirement of Plant.

The commission, it was said, recently told the company that unless formal reply was given to communications or complaints forwarded by the commission within ten days the commission would call a formal public hearing on each subject and assess the cost against the company.

The question of the retirement of the Fourteenth street plant has been under discussion for weeks. The company proposed to retire the plant at its cost figure. Commission experts, however, disagreed with this, declaring that the plant had been put into the paper valuation of the company at a much higher figure than its cost. The plant should be retired at the figure it was included in the valuation, they contended. The commission fixed no figure, but asked the company what figure it thought was proper. Earl V. Fisher, executive secretary of the commission, said after the meeting yesterday that no definite figure had been fixed at the meeting.

HERBERT CAMPBELL GOES ON TRIAL TODAY IN BAKER GIRL KILLING

HERBERT M. CAMPBELL.

Expert Declares Death Slug Is Bigger Than Gun of Accused.

DISTRICT CRIME SITE ALSO TO BE DISPUTED

COLLINS AND SMITH HEAD LEGAL ARRAY

Wheat Bans Photographers From Courthouse; Few Will See Trial.

In the close arena of the District Supreme Court, Herbert M. Campbell will today begin a battle for his life with the Government, his adversary, demanding his life on its contention that he slew Mary Baker.

Not only will it be a trial of Campbell, says his attorney, Charles Henry Smith, but it will be a trial of the science of ballistics, upon which the weight of the Government case hinges.

It will be a struggle of experts against experts, chemists against chemists, with stories by 44 witnesses of the Government pitted against narrations of 24 witnesses for the defense, which will be backed by documentary evidence.

Trump Card of Defense.

Dr. Albert H. Hamilton, defense ballistic expert, last night divulged his trump card which he will fling before the Government ballistic experts, Col. Calvin Goddard and Dr. Wilmer Souder, who say that Campbell's pistol is the death weapon.

Dr. Hamilton, it was learned by The Washington Post last night, will contend that the bore of the barrel of Campbell's gun is fifteen-one-thousandths of an inch narrower in diameter than the diameter of the mortal bullets found in Miss Baker's body.

"This," said Dr. Hamilton, "makes it an impossibility that the Campbell pistol could have fired the death bullets."

"Aside from all discussion of dissimilarity of traces on test bullets and the mortal bullets, the difference in ammunition, the variance of the makes of gun, it is absurd to say that Campbell's gun fired the death bullets.

"The mortal bullets, had they been fired from the Campbell's gun, would have been reduced in diameter by 15 one thousandths because the bore of Campbell's pistol is so much smaller than the diameter of the mortal bullets."

Difference in Pistol.

Hamilton says that there is a difference of this amount in the Spanish-made Campbell pistol and the American-made weapon, which, he contends, fired the death shots.

There is every indication that Mr. Smith will strenuously attempt to break down the Government argument the crime was mommitted in the District. This argument is based upon stories of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh R. Wood and Francis T. Rice that they heard shots as Mary Baker's assailant turned the car north into Seventeenth street after attacking her in the Ellipse.

Mr. Smith will, if necessary, bring the jurors to a Model A Ford car, in which the Government says the murder was committed, to demonstrate that no man could fire shots into the girl, while making a right angle turn, and in addition, leave no powder burns on clothing, which Mr. Hamilton reported.

Transfer of Campbell

Campbell will be transferred from the District jail to the court about 9 o'clock and will remain in a cell in the basement until his case is ready for trial.

Britain Breaks Faith, Says Jewish Congress

Closing Session Assails London as Failing in Palestine.

A resolution deploring the conditions now existing in Palestine, and denouncing the British government as not having kept faith with them in helping to establish Palestine as the national Jewish home, was adopted at the closing session of the American Jewish Congress, in the Willard Hotel, yesterday.

Declaring that the approval of the report of Sir John Hope Simpson, appointed by the British government to investigate Palestine conditions, constituted a repudiation of the pledge given by Great Britain to the Jewish people in the Balfour declaration of November 2, 1917, and that the report as approved was biased and contrary to the word of the British government when they first took over the trusteeship of Palestine, the congress was thrown into a heated debate when the subject was put before the members at the opening of the session.

Following a discussion on the alleged atrociousness and brutality of the riots and other measures used against the Jewish population of Palestine by anti-Jewish elements combating Zionism and seeking to frustrate Jewish aspirations there, it was resolved that the administrative committee of the American Jewish Congress should convene as soon as possible to take such further action in regard to the resolution as seemed advisable.

Reports on charges of discrimination practiced against the Jewish race in employment and in educational institutions were read to the assemblage by chairmen of committees appointed to collect data on the situation. Rabbi J. X. Cohen, secretary Zionist Chief Resigns in Protest at Stand on Mandate.

London, Oct. 20 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The British government this evening issued a new declaration of policy regarding its administration of the Palestine mandate—a declaration which Dr. Chaim Weizmann, president of the Jewish Agency and the Zionist organization, tonight declared to be in conflict with the previous policy of the present and prior British governments.

The government declaration states that its policy follows closely the policies expressed in four previous declarations on the administration of Palestine.

Dr. Weizmann takes violent exception to this statement, holding that the present government declaration will restrict Jewish immigration and check purchases of lands from the Arabs for settlement by Jews, thus interfering with the whole plan for establishment of a Jewish national home.

Today he sent a letter of protest to the colonial secretary, Lord Passfield (the former Sidney Webb) in which he stated that he is resigning his positions as president of the Jewish Agency and the Zionist organization and calling a meeting of the congress and council of those organizations "to take such action as the situation requires."

Questioned tonight as to what form this action might take, Dr. Weizmann said it might result in transfer of the headquarters of both organizations from London to the United States.

This suggestion immediately raised the question in the minds of some British persons who heard of Dr. Weizmann's remark, whether such action would create another "Irish problem."

Husband to Judge if Wife Poisoned Him, Killed Child

Denver Detective, Ill in Hospital, Will Decide Course of Police Toward Woman in Custody, Who Protests Innocence.

Denver, Oct. 20 (A.P.).—Authorities tonight sought to obtain statements from Leo O'Loughlin, city detective, that would absolve or accuse his wife in the mysterious death last Tuesday of 10-year-old Leona O'Loughlin, the officer's daughter by a former marriage.

If the husband believes his wife is innocent, she probably will be released from jail and an entirely fresh start made in the investigation, Detective Chief A. T. Clark said. If the husband thinks the woman placed ground glass in the food she served last Tuesday night, took the child from her bed to a city lake and hit her with an automobile tool, then threw the body into the water, first degree murder will be charged, Clark asserted.

Although a maze of clews combined to weave a web of circumstantial evidence that led to her arrest, Mrs. O'Loughlin has steafastly denied she had any part in the child's death. After several hours of grilling, during which time she often was on the verge of collapse, the woman was returned to her jail cell late today, and police turned to their fellow officer for additional information.

O'Loughlin, ill at a hospital from the effects of eating ground glass, today was informed the body of his daughter was found last Friday, floating in Berkeley Lake. Every effort had been made to conceal news of the tragedy from the officer, who has been critically ill since shortly after his daughter's disappearance.

The detective's intuition finally pierced the wall of secrecy, and he elicited from a brother virtual admission the girl was dead. O'Loughlin stood the shock of the news well and shortly afterward informed Chief Clark he was ready to assist in any way possible.

Only O'Loughlin will know whether his wife's detailed statements are wholly correct, officers said.

Calvin Coolidge

Says: Anybody with any experience in public life can see that the next session of every legislative body in the country, from the Congress down, will be deluged with all kinds of proposed nostrums for preventing depressions in industry and agriculture with resulting unemployment. Already business is beginning to shudder at the prospect. Instead of being able to look to government generally for encouragement and relief, it recognizes that these proposals will be a deterrent to business recovery.

At the bottom of all these measures will be found an appropriation carrying a large expenditure of public money which would result in more taxes. If business can be let alone and assured of reasonable freedom from governmental interference and increased taxes, that will do more than all kinds of legislation to relieve depression. Local governments are justified in spending all the money necessary for direct relief of distress. But the Nation and the States will only increase the difficulties by undertaking to restore confidence through legislation. It will be the part of wisdom to give business a free hand to supply its own remedies. This is no time to take counsel of the legislative visionaries.

Cabinet Group Will Start Jobless Aid Parley Today

Discussions to Begin as First Biting Weather Grips Capital; Head of Westinghouse Board Confers With Hoover on Business Conditions.

(Associated Press.)

Winter's crunching tread shuffled into step with the President's unemployment committee yesterday to bring the first biting weather of the season to the Capital on the same day that the group was to meet to seek means of shielding the Nation's unemployed from distress during the cold months.

Freezing temperatures were forecast for last night, while members of the Cabinet committee were fixing today for a meeting to discuss how the Nation can cooperate with local government and private industry in dealing with unemployment during the winter.

Secretary Lamont, after a conference with President Hoover, indicated that, as chairan of the Cabinet committee appointed Saturday, he would summon his associates to a session immediately following the regular Cabinet gathering.

Secretaries Hyde, Hurley, Wilbur, Davis and Mellon, with the addition of Eugene Meyer, governor of the Federal Reserve Board, constitute membership of the President's committee and with one or two exceptions are expected to be on hand.

In advance of the session, Secretary Lamont made a visit to New York to gather opinion of business leaders on the outlook, while a number of economic and industrial studies have been made for the President both by official organizations and by semiprivate institutions, such as the Chamber of Commerce of the United States under whose jurisdiction the business survey system has been kept in operation since last fall.

Results of the inquiry will not be known until the committee assembles today, but it was intimated that the administration contemplated seeking large relief appropriations from Congress.

Several of those associated with Mr. Lamont in preparing preliminary data were prominent in the conduct of the Harding unemployment conference of 1921, which President Hoover directed as Secretary of Commerce. Prof. John M. Gries, who

NEWS of SUBURBAN Washington and the Surrounding States

William H. Collins and Mr. Smith in selection of the twelve men who will determine Campbell's fate.

In view of the widespread notoriety incident to the strange murder case they expect that trouble will be found in choosing jurors who have not formed opinions in the case which would not change by presentation of evidence for either side.

Ballistics to be Issue.

Ballistics testimony and conscientious objections to imposition of capital punishment will also enter into interrogation of prospective jurors.

The defense has indicated that it will accept no juror who considers the science of ballistics as infallible. This will be done in view of conflicting opinions regarding identity of Campbell's weapon which have been given by experts.

Mr. Smith last night said that he will not make his opening address to the jury until after completion of presentation of the Government's evidence. He declined to give his reason for this move.

Prosecution Is Reticent.

Mr. Collins, who will be assisted in the prosecution by Assistant United States Attorneys John Sirica and James Kirkland, would not say last night what the context of his address to the jury will be.

The defendant will take the stand in his own behalf, according to Mr. Smith. Mr. Smith, Lucien Vandoren and Herbert Ward, his associate defense attorneys, yesterday held a consultation in which final plans for the defense were laid.

Upon the conclusion of the conference, Mr. Smith said, "We are ready for the case to go." Mr. Hamilton yesterday submitted his final report to Mr. Smith.

Special Venire May Be Called.

The jury panel for Judge Adkins' court is composed of 26 members. This panel is expected to be exhausted before the judging twelve are selected. In that event, the panel for other criminal courts and law courts will be summoned and if a jury is not thus chosen, a special venire will have to be called.

Chief Justice Wheat yesterday issued an order that no photographers would be permitted in the courthouse during the trial.

Because of the widespread interest in the trial no spectators will be admitted until the jury has been chosen and all the witnesses have been seated. Admission will be by subpenas and passes.

Campbell Is Confident.

Campbell in the District Jail yesterday told Mr. Smith "I will sleep better tonight. It is the trial I have been wanting. Vindication will be mine before many days." Mr. Smith declared that his client was in better spirits than he had been since his arrest.

Mildred Sperry and Olga Skinner, housemates of the murdered girl, will be in court. "We do not know Campbell and never saw him before his arrest. We think Mary was killed by someone who had never seen her before that night," they said.

Down in Oak Grove, Va., at the bereaved home of the girl, a telephone rang and a voice asked:

"Will you be at the trial tomorrow, Dr. Baker?"

And a quaking voice, the one heard after he viewed his daughter's mutilated body said:

"No, we are cherishing her memory; but trying hard to forget her death."

RUM LAW ATTACKED BY FORMER SENATOR

Thomas Hits "Hypocrisy" of "Statement" Who Still Defend Prohibition.

CRUSADERS HOLD RALLY

Branding prohibition as the "greatest curse ever imposed upon an intelligent people," former Senator Charles S. Thomas, of Colorado, told the Washington Crusaders last night that the dry law had made this country the "most lawless on earth."

Speaking at a membership rally of the antiprohibition organization, the former governor and veteran senator assailed the "jelly-back statesmen whose hypocrisy and cravenness makes possible the continuance of this misguided, despicable law."

"I will wager my hat," he said, "that I can take a drink with every member of the United States Senate, with the exception of about six, if I approach them 'confidentially.' I was a member of the Senate when the eighteenth amendment was adopted, but I was ill and did not vote on it. I might have voted for it at that time, for I am for temperance. If I had voted for this law, however, I would have been explaining and apologizing ever since."

Admitting that many prohibitionists were sincere, Mr. Thomas said "honest fanaticism" was the most dangerous force in the world. "Fanatics," he said, "are blinded to consequences and conditions. Reformers have all but ruined this country, and it is up to your growing organization to redeem the Government."

Executive Commander John F. Dryden presided at the meeting, which was called to hear reports from about 350 member solicitors.

UNION AID TO FACE CONTEMPT CHARGE

Secretary of Coal Teamsters Charged With Evasion in Chicago Case.

FREED IN BOND OF $1,000

Chicago, Oct. 20 (A.P.).—John Sheridan, jr., secretary treasurer of the Coal Teamsters Union, was cited for contempt by the county grand jury today because, it was charged, he evaded and obstructed questions concerning George "Red" Barker's release from Pontiac Reformatory after being returned there for parole violation.

Sheridan was released under $1,000 bond for hearing Thursday. His union, according to Assistant State's Attorney Homer Dodge, furnished $11,000 in attorneys' fees to obtain Barker's release on habeas corpus action before Judge T. N. Green at Peoria last year.

The habeas corpus writ was issued in Peoria while Barker was in jail facing charges of violating a parole from a sentence of one to ten years for robbery—the same charges upon which he was finally returned to prison by Judge John P. McGoorty last week.

State Senator Victor P. Michel, who represented Barker in the Peoria action in company with Chauncy H. Jenkins, former director of public welfare in Illinois, appeared before the jury late today. While he waited to testify he declared to newspapermen that the $11,000 fee was "nobody's business." He filed the habeas corpus action before the late Judge Green in Peoria, he said, because it was more convenient, Peoria being his home.

He denied the charge that the State Board of Pardons and Paroles was not represented at the hearing, saying that Mrs. Nell Keller, secretary of the board, was present.

"I take exception to Judge McGoorty's statement that Judge Green did not have jurisdiction," he said. "As I understand the law, any superior court in the State had jurisdiction in habeas corpus rulings."

Plenty of Thanksgiving Turkeys Promised by U.

(Associated Press.)

In spite of the drought, there will be an adequate supply of turkeys for Thanksgiving. Although the turkey supply as a whole is 3 per cent smaller than a year ago, the Department of Agriculture announced yesterday, it is still larger than either in 1927 or 1928.

The slight decrease this fall was attributed to the drought and smaller hatchings as a result of lower prices a year ago.

TWO DIE, PAIR HURT AS BARGE BLOWS UP

BOATS ARE DESTROYED

Troy, N. Y., Oct. 20 (A.P.).—Two men were killed, two others were severely burned, and two tugboats and an oil tank barge were destroyed in a gasoline explosion aboard the barge in the Hudson River today.

The cause of the explosion is not known, but there was a terrific blast aboard the barge which enveloped that craft and the two tugs tied alongside in flames. The detonation shattered all windows in five blocks of River street, this city, and blew all the glass out of three blocks of buildings in Watervliet, on the opposite bank of the river.

At the instant of the blast Capt. John Auckerman, of Brooklyn, master of the tug Dynamic, yelled to the six or seven members of his crew to jump overboard, which they did. All were picked up shortly afterward except one man, who was not immediately accounted for but who is believed to have been among those rescued.

Dead Were Aboard Tug.

The dead and injured were on board the tug Craig. The two injured were taken to the Troy Hospital as soon as they could be removed from the blazing tug.

The known dead are Fred Denoyers, of Pleasantdale, a former member of the Craig's crew, and a man believed to be Philip Gallineau, of Waterford, a deckhand.

The force of the explosion was so terrific that a door of one of the tugs landed on a junk pile several blocks away. A fire hydrant weighing 500 pounds was thrown 500 feet and a heavy section of boiler from one of the vessels fell nearly 1,000 feet distant.

Smoke Covers River.

The sound of the blast was likened to a muffled detonation of dynamite, followed immediately by a tremendous volume of black smoke which covered the river in an almost impenetrable blanket.

Before the smoke was dispelled every river craft in the vicinity had cast off its mooring lines and was proceeding to the rescue of the survivors. The tug Sunoco Sun maneuvered close to the burning craft and her crew saved a number of men who were swimming in the river after jumping overboard from one the burning tugs.

Thousands of spectators flocked to the banks on both sides of the Hudson. Public School No. 9, about four blocks from the scene of the explosion, rocked on its foundation, but no child was injured and there was no damage to the school property. The teachers had little trouble in quieting their pupils, but scores of hysterical mothers hurried to the school, to see if their little ones were safe.

47 May Be Suspended In Live Stock Boycott

(Associated Press.)

Forty-seven commission men and dealers in the St. Louis market were ordered yesterday by the Secretary of Agriculture to show cause why they should not be suspended from operation on charges that they had boycotted live stock cooperatives.

A referee for the department, yet to be designated, will hear evidence at East St. Louis on November 6, where the commission men and dealers have been summoned to present evidence in refutation of complaints.

Good Crops Reported By West Virginia Man

Beverly, W. Va., Oct. 20.—Notwithstanding the fact that drought and other conditions have been highly unfavorable for potato production this season in central West Virginia, Willis D. Barlow, of this town, reports a yield of 1,570 bushels on three and a half acres of his farm. The potatoes in many instances weighed from 2½ to 5 pounds each.

He says that he sprayed the plants no fewer than eight times.

PAYING FOR OUR DEMANDS

It is entirely possible that a merchant could sell foodstuffs cheaper if he did not spend so much on store equipment—for sanitation, refrigeration, etc.—but who would buy, regardless of price, if not protected by these modern safeguards of health and quality? . . . The prices of generations ago are not criterions of value today. We can only make fair comparison within the past six years and upon this basis present commodity prices are at their lowest level. It is real economy to stock your pantry now—and advertisements in The Post will provide a sound standard of price and quality.

SENATOR IMMUNITY CASE REVIEW DENIED

Supreme Court Refuses to Consider Damage Plea Against Couzens.

AGREE TO HEAR 58 SUITS

(Associated Press.)

Senatorial immunity, prohibition, railroads and natural gas were mixed with a wide variety of contentions from which the Supreme Court yesterday selected 58 cases to review.

It waived aside 89 other controversies with a refusal to review, permitting the decisions of the lower courts to stand. The 147 cases disposed of yesterday completed the preliminary review of the 350 suits that accumulated during the summer recess.

The senatorial immunity case, involving a suit for damages by Howe P. Cochran, of Washington, D. C., for injuries he claimed resulted from a speech Senator Couzens, of Michigan made in the Senate, was among those the court refused to review.

Limited Review for Rum Case.

Seven prohibition cases were placed alongside it, but the court granted a limited review to one which raised taxing and not prohibition enforcement questions.

Four railroad cases were among those the court agreed to review. It consented to decide whether regular rates must be charged for hauling private passenger cars for other companies; whether the Interstate Commerce Commission can enforce its valuation of the Atlanta, Birmingham and Coast Railroad; to determine for the Missouri Pacific if the Arkansas full-train crew laws are valid, and to decide whether petroleum railroad rates in Indiana were valid.

Among others it agreed to pass upon were several by chocolate manufacturers to determine whether chocolate is candy under the taxing laws.

Chain Store Tax Case.

Whether natural gas brought into Ohio by the East Ohio Co. from outside States can be taxed by Ohio; whether chain stores can be required to take out a license and pay a tax for each store, in a case brought by the Indiana State board of tax commissioners; the validity of the Missouri law regulating the fees employment agencies may charge and also on the validity of the tax imposed by Tennessee on each bus operated by motor transit companies.

Among those it refused to decide wasthe right of James Hamilton Lewis, the Democratic seantorial candidate in Illinois, to bring a suit as counsel in the name of the legal representative of a former client, and several cases from Texas holding that owners of copyright music were entitled to damages from proprietors of motion picture houses who played copyright music rolls without the consent of the copyright owners.

The Supreme Court yesterday announced it had probable jurisdiction over the appeal of Thomas M. Wampler, attacking the Maryland game laws which prohibited him from erecting a hunting blind in front of his property on the Potomac River in Charles County. The court advanced the case for hearing on November 24.

Court to Hear Arguments On Paper Suppression Law

(Associated Press.)

The publishers of the Minneapolis Saturday Press gained a point yesterday in their attack upon the Minnesota newspaper suppression law.

Appealing from a permanent injunction forbidding further publication of the periodical, they were told by the Supreme Court that it would hear oral argument in their case and then decide whether it merits a review.

The periodical was suppressed under a Minnesota law, enacted in 1925, which empowers one judge, sitting as a court of equity, to suppress any publication printing "malicious, scandalous and defamatory matter."

Review of Hotel Firm Suit Against Wardman Denied

(Associated Press.)

The Supreme Court yesterday refused to pass on the controversy between the Annapolis Co. and Harry Wardman and others arising out of the sale under a mortgage of hotel property belonging to the company. The company contended that the hotel furniture and equipment had erroneously been held by the lower courts to be covered by the mortgage.

Cashier and Guard Lose $16,000 to Bandit Trio

Dallas, Tex., Oct. 20 (A.P.).—Three men slugged and robbed B. W. Moore, cashier of the Union Terminals, and C. H. Murray, special guard, of between $16,000 and $17,000 in cash today. The robbery occurred in a busy shopping district. The cashier and his guard were on their way to a bank when the men drove up in an automobile.

Moore was taken to a hospital in a serious condition. Murray was merely stunned. After grabbing the money the men returned to their automobile and sped away.

Nuts and Cider-Time!

The crispness of Autumn is in the air—promise of long, cozy evenings with a heaping bowl of nuts and a tall glass of well-iced cider at your elbow. Put your brown jug of cider into your American Ice-chilled refrigerator. The icy coldness lends a new zest to the delicious tang of cider. Try it and the chances are you will never again care for it warm. American Ice is so pure that it can be used in all iced beverages. It is frozen from the same high-quality drinking water that comes to your home. But even that standard is not high enough for the American Ice Company. Kansas State Wins In Dairy Judging Individual Honors go to Illinois Student at Contest.

Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 20 (A.P.).—A team of dairy products judges from Kansas State Agricultural College tonight won sweepstakes honors in the annual international judging contest of the American Dairy Science Association here. O. E. Ross, of the University of Illinois, won the individual judging competition. Fifty-one students from seventeen schools participated.

Mississippi A. and M. College won second place in team judging, the University of Nebraska won third place and the only Canadian team entered, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, Ont., was fourth.

The others placed in this order: Michigan State, Oregon Agricultural College, University of Wisconsin, University of Illinois, Ohio State University, University of California, Pennsylvania State College, Purdue University, West Virginia University, Connecticut Agricultural College, Massachusetts Agricultural College, Iowa State College and University of Tennessee.

HIGH COURT REFUSES TO REVIEW DRY CASE

Reconsideration of Decision as to Constitutionality Again Declined.

COPELAND PLEA DENIED

(Associated Press.)

Once more the Supreme Court has declined to reconsider its decision upholding the constitutionality of the Volstead law.

The question bobbed up again yesterday in an attack on the validity of the enforcement act, brought to the court by A. Stanley Copeland, of Buffalo. The court, for a second time, refused to review his case.

In all, eight cases involving national prohibition came up at yesterday's session. Reviews were denied in seven of them and in the eighth a limited review was granted. This involved a controversy presented by the V. Loewers Gambrinus Brewery Co., of New York City, which contended that the Government had refused to make proper allowances in fixing its taxes for 1918 and 1919 for depreciation in the value of its property caused by national prohibition.

The court, through Chief Justice Hughes, announced that it would confine its action to passing on whether the company was entitled to any deduction for obsolescence of its tangible property and that the case would be taken up when another now pending, presenting substantially the same issue, is reached for oral argument.

The court refused to review convictions of Edward Blanckard at Dallas, Tex.; of J. S. Czitko Cvitkovich and others at Seattle, Wash.; of Edwin C. Kudy, of Milwaukee, Wis., and Byron Langtry, formerly of St. Joseph County, Mich.; of Samuel and Louis Malinow at Baltimore, Md.; of John R. Smyth, at Floras Lake, Oreg., and of Paul Corbis and Florindo Lucioni, at Cleveland, Ohio.

Several of these petitioners claimed that their convictions were illegal on the alleged ground that evidence presented against them had been obtained by unlawful search and seizure and others attacked the indictments on which they had been tried.

DEBT MORATORIUM FOR ALLIES DENIED

Officials Here, However, Silent on Meeting of Schacht and Hoover.

GOLD WORRIES BANKERS

New York, Oct. 20.—A Washington dispatch to the New York World today follows:

Dr. Hjalmar Schacht's visit today with President Hoover and Secretary Mellon, and his presence at a private dinner yesterday at Secretary of State Stimson's home, which Mr. Mellon, among others, attended, were shrouded in the utmost secrecy here today save for official denials that the administration is considering a possible or potential moratorium of allied debt payments to the United States.

Dr. Schacht's prediction that Germany will ultimately declare a moratorium, as permitted under the Young plan, suspending the major part of debt payments to the allied nations, were reiterated when he emerged from a 30-minute conversation on Saturday with Secretary Stimson. But whether he discussed that theme and its consequences in forced suspension of allied debt payments to the United States with Mr. Stimson, Mr. Hoover, Mr. Mellon or other administration officials can only be conjectured. Officially, a blanket of official silence covers the subject here.

Plan Declared Drafted.

An unconfirmed report circulated today was that George L. Harrison, governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, is to discuss with Treasury officials a tentative draft plan for a moratorium in allied debt payments to this country, predicated upon the assumption of a future suspension in Germany reparation payments. Treasury officials, however, denied that the subject had been even considered, though without denying the existence of the reported draft plan.

According to rumor, this draft plan was drawn up in the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.

That prominent bankers and financiers have brought to the attention of the White House and Treasury the subject of gold concentration in the United States and in France and the dangers of a continuing drainage of gold reserves from other countries is well established, though, again, official comment or confirmation is being withheld. Dr. Schacht apparently shares the view that a German moratorium or a suspension of debt payments to the United States, would be only a temporary expedient unless means are devised to diminish the concentration of gold. According to this view, depressed world conditions and the fall of commodity prices, are consequences of the unbalanced gold movements.

Gold Flow Important.

On this subject a dispatch sent to the London Times by its correspondent here, after talking with prominent bankers, says:

"The visit of Dr. Schacht, however, was not necessary to persuade financial powers of America that events are moving toward a crisis—and toward a crisis demanding larger remedial measures than the expedient of a moratorium. The importance as one of the principal factors in the present world depression of the flow of gold to the United States and France is giving the deepest concern in New York and Washington. Experts of competent Government departments have for some time past had this aspect of the international situation under consideration.

"The opinions of the President on this subject are, of course, unknown, but no responsible inquirer need be long in doubt as to the views of the country's leading bankers. They make no concealment of their anxiety lest conditions as they exist may not place too great a strain upon the gold standard as an international system and some of them are eloquent upon the part which the tariff and other policies of the world's greatest creditor nation are playing in exacerbation on these conditions. Yet the development of American policy is not a question for the financier alone. It is determined in large part by the politician."

Dr. Schacht, former president of the Reichsbank, reiterated here that that since 1924 Germany has borrowed nearly twice what she has paid in reparations, a condition, he stresses, which can not continue indefinitely.

Delicate Instruments Set For Eclipse of Sun Today

Moon Will Take 93 Seconds Totally to Obscure Fiery Sphere, 93,000,000 Miles Away, for Benefit of Savants in South Seas.

Niafou Island, South Pacific, Oct. 20 (A.P.).—Scientists from far-away United States and New Zealand were hoping tonight for clear skies during the 93-second total eclipse of the sun here tomorrow.

At 9:09 a. m., local time (1:09 p. m., Pacific Coast time) the moon, passing between the sun and earth, will cast a 4-mile shadow band upon the South Pacific Ocean from near New Guinea Island to the tip of South America.

In this brief period the scientists, with giant cameras, spectroscopes and telescopes, will endeavor to learn more of the secrets of the sun, 93,000,000 miles away.

Aided by an expedition of the United States Naval Observatory, directed by Commander C. H. J. Keppler, the astronomers have placed in position 65 and 63 foot cameras and huge spectroscopes to photograph the corona and chromosphere surrounding the obscured sun.

By means of shadowy bands upon photographic plates and by delicate instruments, they hope to learn more about the sun's power to send light rays from the stars, as predicted by Albert Einstein, German scientist. Already the sun, its white corona and red chromosphere have been made to yield the story of many of their components—sodium, iron, helium and others.

Dr. Stanley A. Mitchell, director of Leander McCormick Observatory of the University of Virginia, leader of many expeditions into the earth's far places, is chief of the observers from the United States eager to study atoms in the sun's atmosphere. So tiny that hundreds of them must be bunched for microscopic vision, they yet will yield their constituents to scientific study—if the sky is clear.

For four days the sun has been unclouded. No earthquakes have been felt for months that might disturb delicate balances of scientific instruments. Natives, docile and curious, have prayed for success.

Standing by at the radio mast erected ashore by Marines and sailors of the U. S. S. Tanager, operators are ready to flash results to the world.

CRIME UNIT AVERTS BREAK ON RUM ISSUE

SPRING WRANGLE CITED

(Associated Press.)

The recent decision of the Hoover Law Enforcement Commission to make the report on prohibition its immediate business may have averted a break up within the commission membership.

Judge William S. Kenyon, of Iowa, led a movement to force the prohibition report and little surprise was expressed in commission headquarters yesterday at reports that he at one time considered resigning.

The jurist was supported in his demand that the commission report on prohibition "without any pussyfooting" by Kenneth Mackintosh, of Washington, and Henry W. Anderson, of Virginia. All three are Republicans and regarded as advocates of prohibition.

After a long wrangle at its opening session here early this month, the commission acceded to demands that it work out the prohibition problem. No report is expected before Congress meets early in December, however.

Senator Glass (Democrat), Virginia, led a movement in the Senate last session to force the commission to confine its activities to a study of prohibition. At the same time, it has now developed, Judge Kenyon and insurgent members of the commission were seeking to force an immediate report on the subject.

The commission ordered further investigation of the wet and dry problem during the summer, and under leadership of Chairman Wickersham is now engaged in drafting the report.

North Carolina Man Held Up, $1,500 Taken

Rocky Mount, N. C., Oct. 20 (A. P.).—Two unmasked men early today held up Leroy James, 30, of Rocky Mount, robbed him of $40 and jewelry valued at $1,500 and left him tied in his automobile on a deserted road 10 miles from here.

James said the men ran from behind his home as he drove into his garage at 1:30 a. m. and, while one covered him with a pistol the other tied him. He said he was then struck upon the head and lost consciousness. He regained consciousness to find himself tied in his automobile on the lonely road.

MARRIAGE ADMITTED BY BALCHEN, AIRMAN

Byrd's Friend Wed Saturday in New Jersey Town to Norway Sweetheart.

HOPED TO KEEP SECRET

Hasbrouck Heights, N. J., Oct. 20 (A. P.).—Before Bernt Balchen, comrade of Admiral Byrd in the Polar wastes, left his native Norway four years ago he became engaged to Miss Emmy Soerlie, of Oslo, his childhood sweetheart. Today it became known that last Saturday he and Miss Soerlie were married.

The wedding was in a church in Coytesville, N. J., and the only attendants were Peter J. Siccardi, chief of Bergen County traffic police, and Mrs. Siccardi. The bride then went to Balchen's apartment, near Fokker Field here, where the flier is employed.

They had hoped to keep their secret until Balchen had completed some experimental work he was engaged in, but the secret leaked out today. Balchen shyly acknowledged their marriage, then dashed away and whisked his wife off on a wedding trip to save her from the publicity he always has disliked.

Balchen, a flier in the Norwegian navy during his early twenties, first attracted general attention when he flew over the Arctic wastes five years ago in search of the late Roald Amundsen, then missing.

Amundsen was found and the following year took Balchen along to Spitzbergen on the expedition to fly over the North Pole in the dirigible Norge.

There Balchen met Byrd, who was himself preparing for an airplane flight over the pole. Balchen was of some assistance to Byrd, and the two became close friends. Byrd, after his flight to the pole, brought Balchen back to the United States. Later the young Norseman, who is only 30 years old now, flew across the Atlantic with Byrd and then went to the South Pole with him.

After returning from Antarctica Balchen went back to work as test pilot for the Fokker Aircraft Corporation, and Miss Soerlie came to America to keep the promise she had made in their homeland.

$100 Purchase on Time By Each Family Urged

A plan for using consumer credit under which each family in the Nation would buy $100 worth of goods on an extended payment plan was proposed to President Hoover yesterday by Julian Goldman, of New York, head of a chain of stores.

Goldman told the President that if every family would use its credit to the extent of $100 it would mean expenditure of $3,000,000,000, using up the surplus manufactures and providing new employment in industry.

CLEAN BILL GIVEN TENNESSEE BY NYE

Senator Hears of Unusual Voting Methods as Quiz Ends in Memphis.

CIGAR BOX HELD BALLOTS

Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 20 (A.P.).—The Senate campaign funds committee announced tonight, at the conclusion of its public hearings in Tennessee, that it had found no basis for any charges serious enough to disqualify Cordell Hull of Senator W. E. Brock, victors in this State's senatorial primary. Hull was nominated for the long term and Senator Brock for the short term.

Chairman Gerald P. Nye and Senator Robert Wagner, of the committee, announced simultaneously that they found "no substantial grounds for the more serious charges" preferred in connection with the conduct of the primary last August in Memphis and Shelby county.

A hearing into this county's primary ended tonight. Hearings at Nashville into primaries in other sections concluded last week, and brought similar announcements regarding the senatorial races.

Leaves for Omaha.

Chairman Nye left tonight for Omaha, Nebr. He said "there is a bare possibility" that he may reopen hearings immediately into Nebraska's Republican primary.

Senator Wagner said he would go immediately to New York to take part in the fall campaign there, and will speak Thursday at Buffalo. They were the only committee members here.

Senator Nye, who ~~~~ he holds the ballot sacred, was told here today how they vote in some rural counties where a cigar box is good enough to receive any man's choice.

The Senate campaign funds committee chairman alternately smiled and showed amazement as James M. Chamberlain, chairman of the Democratic executive committee and primary board in Macon County, Tenn., testified that party membership requirements and poll tax payments were waived in the August primary there.

Dispensed With Booths.

Nye told Chamberlain that while sitting at Nashville last week the committee heard J. P. Owen, defeated candidate for the Lower House of Congress, charge that ballots were marked for voters before they entered.

"Why, there weren't any booths," Chamberlain replied. "We just had ballots and boxes out there on tables. Anybody could get an extra ballot, I guess, if they wanted to. But I don't believe that ever happened. In fact, I know it didn't."

Senator Nye asked what provision was made to prevent ballots going astray.

"Well, sir," said Chamberlain, "I guess there wasn't any. The ballots were on the tables. I swept some up off the floor at my place the next day. But nobody would take any. Their hand would be called if they were caught."

Senator Nye interposed:

"I am one of those who feel that one of the most sacred things in our democracy is the conduct of the ballot."

Harrison Returns, Thrusting at G.O.P.

Conditions Bad in South, Senator Says; "Starvation Committee" Cited.

(Associated Press.)

Returning to the Capital from a trip through the South, Senator Harrison (Democrat), Mississippi, yesterday asserted business conditions were "bad and the administration has done nothing to improve them."

"The most unique thing in American history," said Senator Harrison, "is the appointment by the President of a Cabinet committee to prevent starvation. For a long time the administration refused to admit conditions, but now the President has appointed a starvation committee and the Republicans like cry babies are saying 'don't blame us.'"

The Mississippian expressed confidence in the Democratic outlook in the election and notified the Democratic national committee he was ready to return to the campaign front. He likely will be sent into some of the "border States," including West Virginia, Kentucky and Oklahoma.

BRAZIL'S SEA COAST CLAIMED BY REBELS

Occupy All but Three of States, Split Federals, Asserts Statement.

CAMPOS MENACE DENIED

Buenos Aires, Oct. 20 (A.P.).—Occupation of all the seaboard states of Brazil except Rio de Janeiro, Sao Paulo, and Bahia, was claimed by the insurgents in a statement issued today by their foreign representative, Lindolfo Collor.

The statement said rebel soldiers from Minas Geraes had occupied the State of Espirito Santo, driving a wedge between the federal states of Rio de Janeiro and Bahia and isolating the Northern Federal army.

It reported fighing was in progress in all three of the States controlled by the federals. Martial law was said to have been declared by the government in Dio de Janeiro and Sao Daulo.

On the Southern border of Sao Paulo State, the rebels claimed to have driven the federals beyond the Itarare and Paranapanema Rivers, which the insurgent troops had begun crossing at various points. The rebels said the federal retreat was so hasty the pursuing forces had lost contact with term.

Announcement of the occupation of Espirito Santo and of the federal flight came as an official message from Curityba, State of Parana.

The fighting brought about by the revolutionary movement, which began October 3, as a result of dissatisfaction in the southern states over the national elections held last spring, is developing principally in four areas.

Four Battle Fronts.

These are in Sao Paulo-Parana, where rebel armies are pushing over a 200-mile front to gain the rich metropolis of Sao Paulo; in Minas Geraes, a large state northwest of the federal district which supplies much of Rio de Janeiro's food; in the far northeast, where a revolutionary army is marching south with the hope of capturing Bahia and ultimately driving on to the federal capital, and in the vicinity of Florianopolis, the island capital of Santa Catharina, which is the only region now held by the federals south of Sao Paulo.

The most recent claims of both sides may be summarized as follows:

Federals assert—

That all positions in the Sao Paulo-Parana sector are being maintained.

That advances are being made in southern Minas Geraes.

That Campos, an important sugar-making center in the State of Rio de Janeiro, 137 miles northeast of the federal capital, has never been menaced by rebels from Minas Geraes, as reported in revolutionary communiques.

That the federal armies have the most men and the best modern equipment for warfare.

Claims Made by Rebels.

Rebels assert—

That Espirito Santo, a seaboard state lying between two loyal states—Bahia to the north and Rio de Janeiro to the south—has been captured, with its capital, Victoria, seized.

That Bahai has been entered from the southwest, with five towns taken by Minas Geraes rebels, while the Pernambuco army of Capt. Juarez Tavora is entering the State from the north.

That the rebels' advance along the Sao Paulo-Parana fronts continues.

A dispatch from Rio de Janeiro today said that four American airplanes, belonging to the Sao Paulo state police, were doing service against the rebels. They have been equipped with machine guns and also are used for bombing, although the missiles must be dropped by hand because the machines have no bomb racks.

Foreign Money Is Shut Out.

Beirut, Syria, Oct. 20 (A.P.).—The Lebanese republic has decreed that only Lebanese-Syrian money shall be legal tender, thus shutting out French and Turkish coins and the Egyptian pound.

The Listening Post

By CARLISLE BARGERON

CHARLESTON, W. Va.—As I flit about on the railroads of the country my mind keeps recurring to the suddenness with which this wet judgment day has swept upon us. The tragedy of it, or the humor, according to the way you react, is that it has caught many of those whom we have come to call "good fellows" unprepared.

Take poor old Roy Fitzgerald out in the Dayton (Ohio) district now.

For years it has been said of him that although he voted dry he was a good fellow and that he could be counted upon when the break came to be among the first to switch.

• • • •

FRIENDS often besought Roy to repent, to make himself right because in his young manhood he had been looked upon by his fellow Daytonians as a very courageous young man.

But Roy always held to the belief that death would be preceded by an illness, so to speak. He thought there would be plenty of time for one to make himself right. He was a great believer in those death-bed repentances, so to speak.

So he continued, as the wets look upon it, to live in doubt.

NOW look what has happened. It isn't that political death has swept upon Roy. But what has struck him has rendered him speechless. He finds the day of judgment when the wets shall stand on this side and the drys on the other, here facing him and he with a paralysis of the political vocal chords.

He can't make himself right. It is too late. This thing has come bounding suddenly out of the sky to smite him, to leave him blue in the face, mutely protesting at the unfairness of it. If he had just some warning his friends say he could have been depended upon to set himself right.

Now as he lies flat aback, so to speak, a comparatively young Democrat, Byron B. Harlan, is hammering away at him, relentlessly and unabashed.

The pastor of Harlan's Methodist Church delivers a sermon from the pulpit attacking Harlan and Harlan comes back:

"As a member of your congregation I demand the right to make reply from the same pulpit." It is not known how he will come out.

But old Roy, he just lies there squirming. You can't depend too much on warnings of disaster. You should always be prepared.

HYDE LAUDS TARIFF IN MISSOURI SPEECH

Labels Shouse His Favorite Fiction Writer in Denying Chairman's Statements.

SAYS CHARGES DREAMY

Cape Girardeau, Mo., Oct. 20 (A.P.). The new tariff act was termed "a distinct gain for agriculture" by Arthur Hyde, Secretary of Agriculture and former Missouri Governor, in an address here tonight.

The Secretary's address was the first on a tour of Missouri in behalf of Republican congressional candidates.

"For agriculture the tariff act is a distinct gain," he said. "Actually and potentially it increases the tariff production for the American farmer. It will hold the American market for the American farmer.

Secretary Hyde used the occasion to deny some of the tariff statements of Jouett Shouse, chairman of the Democratic national committee, whom he called his "favorite fiction writer."

"Along last July," Secretary Hyde said, "I made an analysis of the new tariff law and said: 'Assuming that the rate increases on agricultural products were entirely effective, the average income per farm (on the basis of 1928 production and prices) would be increased to about $150. The average expenditure per farm would be increased about $48, by increases on commodities purchased. The net balance in change of duties, therefore, would be about $102 per farm in favor of the farmer.'

"Immediately the pack was in full cry. Two Democratic senators went on the radio to explain what a great blunder I had made, and Mr. Jouett Shouse, my favorite fiction writer, honored my statement by saying:

"'The new tariff imposes upon the consumers of America an additional burden of living costs that will aggregate a billion dollars a year, and in the distribution of advantages arising from the enactment each farmer will be assessed $10 for every $1 of possible benefit.'"

Such charges, Secretary Hyde said, "run out of the domain of reason into the land of dreams."

COX GIVES PROMISE OF TARIFF'S REPEAL

Says Democrats Will Rescind Measure Without Any Ceremony.

LAYS SLUMP TO G. O. P.

Lima, Ohio, Oct. 20 (A.P.).—James M. Cox, Democratic presidential nominee in 1920, in a political address here tonight, said that while he did not speak for the party, if a Democratic House and Senate are elected at the November election "the existing tariff law will be repealed without hearing or other ceremonies."

He added that "the schedules which will and doubtless should be retained are those relating to agriculture. They are probably no more harmful than helpful." This was Mr. Cox's first speaking appearance in the Ohio Democratic campaign.

The logical consequences of a Democratic Congress, Mr. Cox said, would be that "we will destroy the depression now hanging over business. We will reestablish the cordial relations with the nations of the earth. We will say to our manufacturers that it is not necessary for them to build plants in foreign countries."

"Any further readjustments of the tariff," he said, "should only come after a complete investigation by a tariff commission made up of economic specialists—not a commission constituted, in part, by representatives of special interests."

"Not only have Republican leaders throughout the years claimed a monopoly on our prosperity, but in too many instances they have treated the American people as children. It was under the threat of prolonged tariff discussions and resulting instability in business that they were enabled to continue their control of the Government.

"In this campaign we hear nothing said about patent rights, but a member of the Cabinet, Mr. Davis, of the Labor Department, asserts that if a Democratic House is elected this year, then the tariff question will be prolonged for three years, with little or no hope of recovery in business.

"It will be very difficult for Mr. Davis to convince any one that business can be any worse than it is now, in any circumstances."

POLICE CLAIM THAT MOTHER NAMED SON AS BUSH SLAYER

queried every hospital and physician in the city to determine if any one had appeared for treatment for a head wound, Bush having told them that he had struck his assailant over the head with the pistol during the struggle.

When this failed to develop anything tangible, they ordered an exhaustive search through the records of all known criminals in the District Identification Bureau. All convicts who had been released from Occoquan and the District Jail were scrutinized.

Finally they came across Carnell's name and could not determine his whereabouts on the night of the fatal assault. He was released from Occoquan two months ago after a term on a larceny conviction. Pursuing this meager clew they finally evolved the case which they say they will present against the men.

Learned of Pistol Deal.

In their search for Carnell in his usual haunts, the detectives say, they obtained information that a pistol had been purchased in the District on September 15, which had found its way into Carnell's hands.

They established an acquaintanceship between Carnell and Mahoney, the latter having worked for the bus owner, and only last week had been employed for two days as a lecturer and driver on a sightseeing bus.

In their reconstruction of the crime Inspector Shelby and Capt. Kelly said Carnell and Mahoney, and possibly the purchaser of the pistol, went to the vicinity of the Bush home. Inspector Shelby said they have placed Carnell in the vicinity.

Because Mahoney was known to the victim, they believe, he was selected to remain in an automobile, which remained nearby while Carnell secreted himself in the dark recesses of the garage.

Bush Struck With Weapon.

"Carnell," they said, "ordered the elderly philanthropist to throw up his hands, and a struggle ensued. In this fight Carnell was struck over the head. The pistol was wrested from Carnell's possession, and Bush struck him on the head."

Carnell regained the weapon, they believe, and mortally wounded the victim, causing his death in Emergency Hospital a few days later.

When Mahoney heard the shots, said Inspector Shelby, he fled in the automobile, leaving Carnell behind. Then, according to the story told by Mrs. Sullivan to the police, Carnell went to their home, which was then on Sixth street near D street northwest.

His coat was spotted with blood, she said. Under threat of death if she divulged his act to the police, she said, he compelled her to wash bloodstains from his clothing.

In the homicide room at headquarters is a blood-stained shirt and a necktie to bear out this story. Mrs. Sullivan had moved secretly to the Fifth street address to avoid the vengeance promised by her son.

All through Saturday afternoon and Saturday night squads of homicide men combed through Carnell's haunts and "hide-outs" missing him in some of the places by minutes.

On Sunday morning they went to the offices of the Colonial Stages at 1421 Pennsylvania avenue with pictures of the two men. One of the employes there recognized the picture of Mahoney. Police were told that he and another man had been in the office on the previous night and purchased tickets for Los Angeles.

They exhibited a large roll of bills at the time, police were told, which later proved to have been obtained through the sale of a car.

Identified by Photograph.

The authorities showed the agent a picture of Carnell and he identified him as Mooney's companion who had left at 9 o'clock that morning on a bus.

Authorities wired to the Pittsburgh police the numbers of the tickets carried by the two men. An attempt was made by police to obtain an airplane to overtake the bus before its arrival in Pittsburgh.

They were unsuccessful and instructions were wired to apprehend the men. On Sunday night the detectives waited for word of the capture. The telephone rang in the homicide room and Pittsburgh announced that Mahoney had been apprehended, Carnell had escaped in the confusion.

Boys Dynamite Church As Lark, They Confess

Columbia, S. C., Oct. 20 (A.P.).—Two youths who confessed to dynamiting a church as a lark were arrested today and a third is sought.

Henry Steadman, 17, and Wallace Northcutt, 17, admitted stealing dynamite from the Camp Jackson Armory and exploding it in the baptismal font of Beulah Baptist Church, Richland County. They named another youth as a companion. The font was wrecked and the church windows shattered.

NEELY HELD LIKELY TO WIN SENATE RACE

Railroads Are Issue.

Incidentally, there are many among the employing element of this State who believe that while the yellow dog contract was the instrument used to "get" Judge Parker the real influence behind his defeat was the Pennsylvania power in Washington, working in round-about ways and channels. The Pennsylvania interests were after the judge, one is told, because on the Circuit Court of Appeals he upheld West Virginia in its fight against the preferential coal rate, which Pennsylvania enjoys over this State.

Democrats cite this as another reason why the State should not continue to eat at the Republican table with Pennsylvania and just get the crumbs, but should join with the Democrats where it will be honored with ice cream and cake, the Democrats being so flattered by having such a State as West Virginia with them.

In addition to Mr. Neely the Democrats should retain the Sixth Congressional District and pick up the Third and Fourth at least. They hold the Sixth now, but it is being contested by Fred O. Blue, of Charleston, who was the State's first prohibition administrator and who wrote the State's first dry law, whereupon, by the exercise of an amazing wit, the people came to call it the Blue law. Mr. Blue considered making the senatorial race, but decided he would not be the "sacrifice" when it now looks as though he will be just that in the congressional fight.

Other Democratic Hopes.

The Democrats have a good chance, too, in the Second District where a young up and coming youngster, who knows everybody in the district, Jennings Randolph, is putting red coals under the feet of Representative Bowman.

Prohibition has not entered into the campaign except that a few days ago it occurred to the Republicans that Neely might profit some from the growing wet sentiment. So they set about to make him say definitely that he was dry, which Mr. Neely did with forceful alacrity.

The idea was to make him say "I'm dry, too," and he did.

ELECTRICITY PLANS AT LORTON HELD UP

$55,000 FUND AT HAND

Plans of District Commissioners to buy electric current for the workhouse and reformatory from the Virginia Public Service Corporation, rather than to manufacture current in a plant at the reformatory at Lorton, Va., received a setback yesterday when William W. Bride, corporation counsel, told the Commissioners that they were without authority to enter into the proposed contract with the private corporation.

The $55,000 appropriated for development of the municipal plant may not be used for any other purpose, Mr. Bride told the Commissioners, and added that they were without authority to enter into a contract for more than a year without specific authorization by Congress.

Dr. Luther Reichelderfer, president of the Board of Commissioners; Maj. John C. Gotwals, Engineer Commissioner, and other District officials went to the District penal institutions yesterday on an inspection trip.

The Commissioners have been seeking approval of the Budget Bureau for their plan to let the $55,000 already appropriated lapse into the Treasury, strike out pending estimates of $38,500 for completion of the municipal plant and substitute a provision for payment of the bills of the private company under the proposed five-year contract.

District officials have declared that the deal with the Virginia company would save money to the District, but these estimates were not accompanied by any figures showing what would be the unit cost of producing current in the municipal plant.

The United States Bureau of Efficiency also has taken a hand in the matter, it was learned yesterday, and is making an investigation of the subject to determine the relative merits of the two plans.

Rover Explains Padlock Policy

Reply to Crusaders Says That Nuisance on U. S. Soil Is Abated.

Replying to a letter from the Crusaders, antiprohibition organization, which had requested that he state the policy to be followed regarding Government property on Tenth street, near C street, where alleged liquor law violations have taken place, United States Attorney Leo A. Rover yesterday explained why no padlock action had been brought.

Declaring that whenever law violations are reported to his office, such action as he deems advisable is immediately taken, Mr. Rover, in his reply, said:

"However, in fairness to all concerned, it should be said that after my office was advised of the alleged violations on the premises mentioned in your letter, which violations were allegedly committed by certain subtenants, and not by the tenant, in accordance with the same procedure which is following by this office in the case of properties owned by private persons, I promptly notified the department of the Government in charge of this property, of these violations, whereupon that department promptly evicted the offending subtenants, thereby causing a complete abatement of the nuisance."

LENDER IS FOUND GUILTY IN COURT

in addition, 25 per cent of the amount actually loaned. Thus under the law Himmelfarb is entitled to collect only $37.50 each from the two policemen.

Mr. Cameron said last night he intends to see if it will be possible under the police regulations to arrange that Howard and McConville may receive the $12.50 each as a bonus for their excellent work in obtaining the evidence against Himmelfarb.

Through his attorney, Charles S. Baker, Himmelfarb yesterday withdrew his previous plea of not guilty and substituted a plea of guilty to the charge. The fine imposed is one-half of the maximum of $200 provided by the law, while the alternative 30-day jail term is the maximum.

DANVILLE WAS ONCE CALLED SORT OF INDUSTRIAL UTOPIA

the front yard of Jerry E. Wentz, an overseer at the cotton plant. The strikers, however, charge that this was a trick—that somebody inimical to their cause tossed the bomb simply in order to discredit them.

To the visitor, the city appears to be remarkably calm. The pickets who surround the cotton mills to discourage strike breakers at first employed a blockade. Then they resorted to what is popularly called the "razz." But now that a local court has restrained them from using strong-arm methods and abusive language, they have fallen back on a gesture that was widely used at the recent world series. This consists of holding the hand to the nose and clutching the nose between the index finger and the thumb to indicate that the strike breaker is offensive to the striker's sense of smell.

Prayer Meetings on Picket Line.

Prayer meetings on the picket line are a common spectacle at night.

Certainly the strike leaders do not want any physical violence. Just yesterday they put through a resolution urging everybody to observe the law and to maintain order. Also they have taken steps to keep Communists out of the controversy. Two of these now are under arrest here on the complaint of the strikers.

"There is only one red that appeals to us," a union official shouted at a mass meeting yesterday, "and that is the red in Old Glory."

Three things led up to the strike, according to the strikers. They were as follows:

First, after a visit by efficiency engineers, the cotton mill company instituted the so-called "stretch-out system," where an employe had been required to handle ten looms, say, he now was forced to handle twenty looms.

Second, in January the cotton mill company ordered a 10 per cent reduction in wages, without allowing the industrial "congress" any say in the matter.

Third, the company would not permit the mill workers to organize and affiliate with the American Federation of Labor.

Appears to Be Real Issue.

This last—the right of the workers to organize their own union, would seem to be the real issue, the one question that is keeping employes and employer apart.

The central figure in the controversy is Harry R. Fitzgerald, president of the Riverside & Dan River Co., the firm that operates the two big cotton mills involved in the strike.

It was Fitzgerald who set out to create an industrial Utopia here eleven years or so ago.

An idealist, it was he who gave the workers their congress; it was he who provided little white painted company houses for them and allowed them to rent them for $3 or less a week; it was he who provided a kindergarten for their kids, and it was he who got them a Y. M. C. A. and an infirmary.

And, as has been said, this industrial democracy of his worked. The mill company made money, and so did the employes. From a Northern standpoint, of course, the wages were low, but they certainly were higher than those paid in most of the Southern mill towns. Then, say the strikers, came the inauguration of the "stretch-out system" two years ago and the 10 per cent pay cut last winter.

Conferences Prove Fruitless.

After a series of fruitless conferences, the mill workers sent a committee to see President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor. He, in turn, sent Francis J. Gorman here. Gorman is vice president of the United Textile Workers of America, which now is trying to organize the entire South.

Gorman soon had 4,000, or about 90 per cent, of the mill workers signed. A local organization was established and Buford Nash was elected president.

Mr. Fitzgerald, head of the mill company, declined to deal with the union leaders, branding them as "foreign agitators," and finally, on September 29, the strike was called.

Mediation Was Offered.

Gov. John Garland Pollard of Virginia, offered to send a committee of mediation here to try and bring employer and employes together. But while the employes welcomed his offer, Mr. Fitzgerald replied that there was nothing to mediate.

The argument made by the strikers and the one made by Mr. Fitzgerald in justifying their positions will be outlined in subsequent articles.

Meanwhile, only one good thing can be said to have resulted from the strike thus far, the school enrollment has increased considerably, a number of the younger strikers having decided to return to their studies while the controversy is on.

Patent Suit Lost By Radio Concern

Grigsby-Grunow Enjoined From Using Manavox Amplifiers.

San Francisco, Oct. 20 (A.P.).—The Magnavox Co. won a sweeping decree in Federal court here today which upheld its radio patents and granted an injunction against Grigsby-Grunow Co., Chicago, radio manufacturers.

Suit was started two years ago against the Frederick H. Thompson Co., local agents for the Grigsby-Grunow, charging infringement of three patents for amplifying and electrodynamic receivers.

Judge St. Sure held the defendant had infringed the patents. Magnavox then sued Grigsby-Grunow in Los Angeles. By the terms of the decree the Grigsby-Grunow Co. was held to be "in privity" with the Thompson Co. and the latter was perpetually enjoined from making or selling radio apparatus embodying Magnavox patents. An accounting was ordered.

Letter of Washington To Greene Brings $875

New York, Oct. 20 (N.Y.W.N.S.). A two-page letter by Washington to Gen. Nathaniel Greene July 20, 1776, to clear up any personal misunderstanding, brought $875 today from C. Retz, agent, at a sale of autographs for various collectors in the American-Anderson galleries.

The Pennsylvania Historical Society bought a manuscript history of the first steam war vessel, dated September 9, 1814, together with letters by Robert Fulton, for $280, and the draft of a William Penn manuscript, 1662 for $675.

Dr. A. S. Rosenbach bought a letter by Francis Lewis, a New York signer of the Declaration of Independence, writing about that document, for $575. E. Weyhe got a musical composition by Mozart for $375.

Adopted Girl, Six, Feared Kidnaped

Foster Mother Detects Odor of Chloroform on Making Discovery in Home

Colorado Springs, Colo., Oct. 20 (A.P.).—A search was started today for the 6-year-old adopted daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Conrad, wealthy ranchers, believed kidnaped last night for ransom.

Mrs. Conrad said she woke this morning in the room which she occupied with the child and detected a strong odor of chloroform. The little girl was missing from her bed. Investigation determined the screen on the window of the room had been slashed and footprints were discovered outside the window of the room.

Neither the Conrads nor authorities believe the kidnaper will do bodily harm to the child, holding to the theory that the girl will be held for ransom. The Conrads do not believe the parents of the child are in any way involved in her disappearance.

And so, interested as I always am in modern developments, I consider that your use of the Ultra Violet Ray in your Toasting of LUCKY STRIKE is a distinct contribution of which the public will wholeheartedly approve."

August Heckscher

Consistent with its policy of laying the facts before the public, The American Tobacco Company has invited Mr. August Heckscher to review the reports of the distinguished men who have witnessed LUCKY STRIKE'S famous Toasting Process. The statement of Mr. Heckscher appears on this page.

LUCKY STRIKE—the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—THEN—"IT'S TOASTED." Everyone knows that heat purifies and so TOASTING removes harmful irritants that cause throat irritation and coughing. No wonder 20,679 physicians have stated LUCKIES to be less irritating! Everyone knows that sunshine mellows—that's why TOASTING includes the use of the Ultra Violet Ray.

CIGARETTE THIEVES VISIT MANY STORES

Sanitary Grovery Heaviest Loser, Robber Taking 40 Cartons.

MINOR THEFTS REPORTED

There seems to be a shortage of cigarettes among the underworld element in Washington, according to several larceny reports made to police yesterday.

A. W. Orndorff, manager of a Sanitary Grocery Store at Seventeenth and R streets northwest, told police that some one entered his store over Sunday and took 40 cartons of cigarettes valued at more than $59. He named three suspected persons whom police are investigating.

Simultaneously a report came to the police that a Piggly-Wiggly store at 1821 K street northwest had been entered during the same time and $10 worth of cigarettes taken from there.

The proprietor of an Eleventh street grocery store, Morris Berger, in a report, said that in addition to a small lot of his cigarettes which were missing, thieves took soft drinks, cakes and candy from his establishment Sunday afternoon, entering by breaking a panel from a rear door.

Handbag Is Stolen.

Later in the day another report was made by Jamelia Day, proprietor of a delicatessen store at 1716 Seventeenth street northwest, who stated that two cartons of cigarettes were stolen from her place of business early yesterday morning.

Harry T. McCue, of 1768 Pennsylvania avenue northwest reported that four cartons of cigarettes were taken from his store at that address, in addition to $60 ni silver and 300 pennies.

William D. Hauser, of East Radford, Va., yesterday afternoon told police that a handbag belonging to him had been stolen from the bus terminal on New York avenue northwest, and that it contained more than $200 worth of clothing.

Tailor Shop Entered.

Alphonso McDaniels, of 1704 Vermont avenue northwest, yesterday reported the theft of shirts valued at $20 and a gold cameo pni worth $20 from his home at that address.

Harry Rosenstein, 510 Fifth street northwest, yesterday reported his tailor shop at 600 E street entered by cutting a screen. Only 35 cents was left in the cash register for the intruders.

Max David, 709 Seventh street northwest, reported to police yesterday that clothing valued at $17 had been stolen from him at that address within the past two days.

HOOVER RECEIVES JEWISH DELEGATES

ZIONISTS STIRRED TO ANGER BY BRITISH PALESTINE STAND

lem" between the United States and Great Britain.

The government's new statement of its Palestine policy was promulgated after receipt and study of a long report on immigration, land settlement and development, issued here simultaneously and prepared by Sir John Hope Simpson, who was sent to Palestine several months ago to make an investigation of those questions as a result of the report of the Shaw commission of inquiry into the Palestine Arab uprising against the Jews in August, 1929.

The British government's statement of policy is a threefold declaration covering, first, the national governmental organization in Palestine; second, the immigration question, and third, land questions. The statement contends that the policy is based on the government's declaration of 1922, when Winston Churchill was colonial secretary—a declaration which Dr. Weizmann accepted on behalf of the Zionists, and upon the terms of the League of Nations mandate.

"It is essential at the outset," the declaration states, "that his majesty's government should make it clear that they will not be moved by any pressure of threats from the path laid down in the mandate and from pursuit of a policy which aims at promoting the interests of the inhabitants of Palestine, both Arabs and Jews, in a manner consistent with the obligations which the mandate imposes."

As regards the political phase of the new declaration, the government announces it intends to set up a legislative council on the lines indicated in the 1922 statement of policy. This council will consist of a high commissioner in Palestine and 22 members, of whom 10 will be officially appointed members and 12 unofficially elected members.

Will Fill Vacancies.

In the event of some unofficial members not being elected, as was the case in 1923, when a similar plan failed because the Arabs boycotted the elections, the government will appoint the requisite number of unofficial members who are not elected.

To this part of the government pronouncement Zionists expressed no disapproval.

The government declaration also announces the intention of keeping in Palestine for the present two battalions of infantry and that, in addition, two squadrons of aircraft and four sections of armored cars will be available in Palestine and Trans-Jordania. These are parts of the forces rushed to Palestine during the disorders of August, 1929. It also indicates further strengthening of the Palestine police force.

This statement of security measures is also accepted without comment by the Zionists. But then follow the pronouncements on land and immigration policies to which they take violent exception. In its discussion of the land question the government declaration says:

"It can now definitely be stated that at the present time and with the present methods of Arab cultivation there remains no margin of land available for agricultural settlement by new immigrants with the exception of such undeveloped land as the various Jewish agencies held in reserve.

Land Needed by Arabs.

Provision of a margin available for settlement depends upon the progress made in increasing the productivity of land already occupied. Jewish settlers have had every advantage that capital, science and organization could give them. To these and to the energy of the settlers themselves their remarkable progress is due. On the other hand, the Arab population, while lacking the advantages enjoyed by Jewish settlers, has, by excess of births over deaths, increased with great rapidity, while the land available for its subsistance has decreased materially. This area has passed into Jewish hands."

The Zionist impression of this declaration is that it means, for the time being at least, government prohibition of further land purchase by Jews from Arabs—one of the demands the PaPlestine Arab delegation made of the British government when it came to London last summer.

On the immigration question the government declaration indicates that a new policy considerably restricting Jewish immigration into Palestine will be followed and that the government itself from now on would exercise greater control over immigration and leave less authority to the Jewish agency in imimgration matters than heretofore.

BRITAIN DENOUNCED BY JEWISH CONGRESS of the committee that investigated employment conditions, addressed the congress in the absence of David L. Podell, chairman of the committee.

In the report on discrimination in employment it was stated that "the alarming spread of the practice of discrimination against Jews in employment had aroused the attention not only of Jewish leaders, but of liberal-minded non-Jews as well." "The state of affairs is so serious," the report said, "that it can no longer be tactfully ignored in the hope that it is merely a passing phenomenon, and it is imperative that the investigation begun should be continued on a wider and more extensive scale."

The report on discrimination in colleges reads in part: "The situation of discrimination against Jews in schools, and particularly in medical schools, is quite serious and can not fail to affect adversely the morals of Jewish students and scholars."

"These undesirable practices extend also to other phases of academic life," the report declared. "Peculiar psychological tests and a variety of devices have been introduced by committees on admission, whose primary objective is very frequently the exclusion of Jewish candidates."

After reading of the reports a resolution was adopted authorizing the executive committee of the congress to establish a bureau of research in the fields of discrimination, to remedy the situation as far as possible.

Reception by Hoover.

Members of the congress were received by President Hoover at the White House yesterday afternoon.

The three-day session closed last night with the election of officers and addresses by delegates from the several States. Those who were elected to officiate for the coming year are Dr. Stephen S. Wise, honorary president; Bernard S. Deutsch, president; Nathan D. Perlman, Robert Szold, Carl Sherman, Mrs. Archibald Silverman, Judge William M. Lewis, and Baruch Zuckerman, vice presidents; Dr. Joseph Tenenbaum, chairman executive committee; Jacob Leichtman, treasurer; Bernard G. Richards, executive director; Myer Brown, Jacob Ginsburg, Judge Gustave Hartman, Prof. M. M. Kaplan, Rabbi B. L. Leventhal, Judge Aaron J. Levy, the Rev. Hirsh Masliansky, Benjamin Winter, and Leo Wolfson, honorary vice presidents.

Winmills Ready To Quit Hospital

Warrenton Couple, Injured in Tallyho Accident, Improved.

Special to The Washington Post.

Warrenton, Va., Oct. 20.—Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Winmill, injured Sunday when their four-horse tallyho overturned in front of the courthouse here, are expected to leave the Fauquier Hospital tomorrow, following treatment by Dr. Peter Hoguet, of New York.

Dr. Hoguet, called by the patients immediately after the accident, flew from New York to Warrenton to treat Mr. and Mrs. Winmill. They were badly bruised and shocked when the tallyho overturned in making a turn.

Other passengers in the tallyho were Mrs. Winmill's father, Mr. Townsend, of New York, and Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Grace, of this city. Mr. Winmill is a members of the New York brokerage firm of Gude, Winmill & Co., and holds a seat on the New York Stock Exchange. The Winmills were recently hosts at their fashionable country estate to Mrs. Elizabeth Walter Converse, of Washington, and Mr. David Drage, of Kansas City, who were killed returning to the Capital when their motor car struck a pole.

District Building Chief Puts Tariff on Bottles

District employes have been leaving too many milk bottles and soft drink bottles in their offices, charwomen of the District Building complained to E. P. Brooke, superintendent of the building, and Mr. Brooke yesterday ordered that a two-cent deposit be required on all bottles at the small lunch stand in the District Building.

The two cents will be returned to persons who bring back their bottles and the building superintendent is hopeful that the surcharge will induce employes to return the bottles rather than leave them about the building for cleaners to remove nightly.

$116,949 Levy Refund To Railway Is Urged

(Associated Press.)

The office of Representative Garner (Democrat), Texas, reported yesterday the Internal Revenue Bureau had recommended to the joint congressional committee on internal revenue a tax refund of $116,949 to the Western Maryland Railroad Co. of Baltimore for overassessments in 1924 and 1925.

Mr. Garner is a minority member of the committee, which acts on all tax refunds approved by the Treasury in excess of $75,000.

WARDMAN RECEIVER PETITION OVERRULED

Alexandria Judge Grants Injunction in Matter of Dissolution.

MEETING SET FOR NOV. 12

Application for a receiver for the Wardman Mortgage & Discount Corporation, brought by Robert B. Smythe and others in the Corporation Court in Alexandria, by Attorney Harry F. Kennedy, has been overruled by Judge William P. Woolls, presiding, pending submission of evidence. The court at the same time entered an injunction halting the meeting of the corporation for the purpose of dissolving until November 12, this decision having been reached after consultation between Gardner L. Boothe, counsel for the Wardman corporation, and Attorney Kennedy, for the complainants.

The order of the court reads, in part, as follows:

It is adjudged, ordered and decreed that the complainants do proceed to take such testimony as they may desire, to take and conclude the same not later than November 3, and the defendants do then proceed to take and to conclude same not later than November 10, in order that appropriate action may be taken in this cause in order that this cause may be disposed of prior to November 12, the date to which the stockholders' meeting by stipulation of counsel will be adjourned.

In consideration of stipulation, the motion of complainants for injunction is hereby overruled with leave to renew said motion or motions if they are so advised after taking the testimony as herein provided for.

Boy, 11, Released In Liquor Charge

Board of Public Welfare to Make Investigation of Lad's Case.

Thomas Thompson, 11-year-old boy who was arrested by Sixth Precinct policemen Saturday and charged with transporting a half-gallon of alleged liquor, was yesterday placed on probation in Juvenile Court.

The boy was released in the custody of his parents, subject to call, on a petition to turn him over to the Board of Public Welfare in the event that investigators find that he is not being reared properly.

He was carrying the liquor wrapped in a red cloth when he was stopped by the policemen in an alley in the rear of his home on Massachusetts avenue near First street northwest. Police say that he was making a delivery for another person.

Nicaragua's Arms Purchase Watched

Customs Men Told to See That Exports Be Guarded to Honduras.

(Associated Press.)

Acting on information that Nicaraguan insurgents may be obtaining rifles and ammunition from the United States by way of Honduras, the Customs Bureau yesterday instructed its collectors to take special precautions against such exportations.

Commissioner of Customs Eble informed the collectors that he had been told by the State Department that applications had been recieved for shipment of "considerable amounts of small caliber rifles and cartridges to certain firms in Honduras suspected of trafficking with Nicaraguan bandits."

"The bureau is advised that there appears to be reason for believing the rifles and cartridges may actually be of larger caliber than is specified in the application," he added.

Every One's Wearing . . .

BLACK

. . . because it's smart

That's one of the amazing things about black—no matter how popular it is—it continues to be smart, and individual. Black frocks for street and afternoon in a variety of material are now "being worn." Many of the sophisticated younger set are even going in for black for evening wear. And black coats are the last word in sophisticated elegance.

Lynchburg Planning Big Halloween Fete

Special to The Washington Post.

Lynchburg, Va., Oct. 19.—Plans are shaping for the largest Halloween jamboree ever staged here. For the event of October 31, committees have secured more than 50 floats for the parade and a number of organizations will take part in the parade.

The program at the Municipal Auditorium will be a Halloween extravaganza, which is to be staged on an elevated stage 50 by 40 feet. Main street is to be elaborately decorated for the carnival to be staged there after the stadium extravaganza.

Fine Pleats Revived In Varied Versions

Paris, Oct. 20 (A.P.).—There is a heap of fine pleating on winter clothes of all types. Paris even pretends to pleat wool crepes by stitching them into fine cartridge-pleat formations.

Where pleating is impractical fine shirring sometimes is used. Much of the pleating on afternoon and evening dresses is in fan form. Occasionally whole skirts are fan pleated, but the fan-pleated godet is more usual.

UNEMPLOYMENT RELIEF.

The Cabinet committee on unemployment meets today at the call of its chairman, Secretary Lamont, to formulate a preliminary plan looking toward the prevention of suffering during the winter months. The committee's first concern is the setting up of an extensive organization through which relief may be dispensed and the activities of the participating public and private agencies may be coordinated. The committee will be handicapped in that no positive estimates as to the extent of unemployment are available, but the need for emergency action becomes increasingly apparent as the first cold spell of the year lingers and social service centers everywhere report an unusually heavy demand for assistance. Unquestionably, all hands will have to turn to to help the unemployed through their distress. It is one of the committee's principal duties to see that unemployment relief is not dumped in the lap of a single interest—to see that all who should participate in the project lend their cooperation and that the various and sundry relief programs are coordinated.

The Government will do its share. In 1926, Congress authorized $568,000,000 for new Federal buildings, of which $165,000,000 has been actually appropriated. The Treasury has secured authorization thus far for 535 individual projects costing $365,000,000. Many contracts remain to be let and if additional funds are made available by Congress the work can go forward. One of the first duties of the committee is to ascertain how much of the work authorized in the public buildings act can be inaugurated at an early date. By increasing Federal highway funds, by inaugurating the postoffice building program and in other ways, the Government can set in motion powerful influences for the provision of work for those who otherwise would be unemployed over the winter.

The States will do their part. In Illinois, New York, Ohio and elsewhere, comprehensive relief programs are under way. If the Federal highway fund is increased, the States will have to match the Government allotment, under the law, on a 50-50 basis and, in the South particularly, an extensive road-building program can be inaugurated to provide work for thousands. In addition, the States may be depended upon to expand wherever possible the program of permanent improvement construction that was inaugurated earlier in the year.

But the principal burden of supplying jobs will devolve upon industry. In certain lines of activity it may be possible to inaugurate heavy production schedules now instead of postponing intensive activity until spring. In other industries there may be further need of permanent improvements that can be undertaken now as well as at some time in the future. Plants can be reconditioned, new facilities added and construction undertaken with double effect. Not only will the money paid out in wages during the winter swell the buying power of the people and speed the return of prosperity, but plants and equipment can be put in first class order at minimum expense against the day when every facility will be needed to supply the great demand for goods that will be unleashed when the economic machine starts hitting on all cylinders again.

America does not face an engulfing catastrophe. The country is sound. Its natural resources are as large as ever. Its buying power is only temporarily diminished. The Cabinet committee on unemployment can face its task serene in the knowledge that the foundations upon which the American economic system is reared are sound. America faces the future confidently. The country will come through the unemployment emergency with flying colors.

"IMPARTIAL" SURVEY.

The psychological moment for proclaiming the Democratic victory in November has arrived. Jouett Shouse, chairman of the party's executive committee, has let it be known that the Democrats will sweep the country and send to Washington a majority in the House of Representatives. The secret had been closely guarded until Mr. Shouse made a "dispassionate summary of the facts," and decided to let the country know that the Republicans are fighting a losing battle. In fairness to the Republicans he has concealed in his own bosom the true state of public opinion until now. With election just around the corner, he feels that he can proclaim the bounties of a Democratic legislature without disconcerting the Grand Old Party too much. A note of something akin to kindly solicitation can be detected in his voice as he assigns the sorrowing Republican party to a back seat.

The "dispassionate calculations" of Mr. Shouse are counterbalanced, however, by the statement of Representative Will R. Wood, chairman of the national Republican congressional committee. Mr. Wood is equally confident that the Republicans will retain control of both houses of Congress. He sees in the Democratic survey "such stuff as dreams are made of," and is not at all intimidated by that repulsive word "licked" which Mr. Shouse has added to his political vocabulary.

Mr. Shouse is not so certain about the Senate. He restrains his enthusiasm and predicts "many gains" with only a hint that these will be sufficient to make the Senate Democratic. A few weeks ago he was chiding newspapermen for quoting him as claiming a majority in the House. It doesn't do to claim too much. That gives the game away, making it appear that something besides "dispassionate surveys" enters into his prognostications. But the nature of his claims for the House suggests that another "impartial investigation" will throw a Senate majority into the lap of Democracy before election day.

All observers are inclined to believe that the Republicans will suffer some losses in the House. Victory is conceded to the Democratic candidates in several instances. Mr. Shouse has made bold to claim not only those seats, but all other seats in the doubtful class. His figures show a "minimum gain of 60 seats." That includes all that are conceded to the Democrats and all that are considered doubtful by nonpartisan observers. But apparently such a prediction seemed tame in the light of Democratic forecasts in previous years. So Mr. Shouse reaches out into the doubtful class for another dozen Republican seats, and, after allowing full consideration for overoptimism, declares: "I firmly believe that the overturn will be nearer 70 than 60."

The naivety of political forecasters is astounding. Year after year they continue their attempts to deceive the public by picturing imaginary landslides in their favor. The public is gullible in many respects, but it has learned to discount these statements to their true worth, which is nothing. The very idea of a campaign chairman making an impartial survey is absurd. Mr. Shouse has spoken his hopes and aspirations, and no amount of camouflage will elevate his statement to anything more than campaign propaganda.

KIWANIS CLUB'S GOOD WORK.

Washington owes the Kiwanis Club a vote of thanks for the work it has done for crippled children. A pamphlet on the orthopedic and welfare work of the club reveals that 325 cases have been treated since this work was inaugurated in 1923. Dozens of children suffering from paralysis and rickets, many with clubfeet, curvature of the spine, mental defects, appendicitis and numerous other ailments have been restored to health and given a bright outlook on the future.

Physicians who are members of the club have done the major part of the medical work, but nonmembers have also cooperated when asked. Operations were performed in 107 cases, some of the little patients undergoing two, three, or even four operations. In some instances adults were given treatment. The club is continuing its work as heretofore, and has 108 active cases still under its care.

There are few, if any, ways in which a club might render greater service to the community in which it functions. The cripples who have been restored to health and activity may be counted as so many unfortunate individuals made happy and useful. Underprivileged children have been sought out from the homes of the poor without discrimination, and the club has contributed generously of both funds and services to their welfare.

The club's activities have not been confined to orthopedic work, however. Having sensed the importance of giving special attention to crippled children, Kiwanis members worked indefatigably for schools in which they might gain at once health and education. The club was largely responsible for the legislation enacted by Congress providing two such schools for Washington. Its work elicits commendation from the community as well as gratitude from the families benefited.

DANGERS IN THE HOME.

The statement is frequently made that more accidents occur in the home than on the street, on railway trains, or in airplanes. It does not follow, however, that the home is a more dangerous place than the street, a train or a plane. Considering the amount of time that is spent in the home, it is perhaps the safest place in the world. Nevertheless, thousands of needless accidents occur to people who believe themselves secure in their own homes.

A pamphlet prepared by the National Life Insurance Co. with the cooperation of the National Safety Council shows that 24,000 persons lost their lives last year through home accidents. Most of these accidents were due to carelessness and might have been prevented. The suffering, sorrow and damage that may arise from careless habits about the home is appalling when considered in the aggregate.

More than one-third of these accidents were a result of falls. Use of boxes in place of stepladders, poorly lighted halls and stairs, slippery floors, skidding rugs, toys or similar articles left on floors or stairs, slippery bathtubs and icy steps are the principal causes. The most simple precautions will prevent accidents of this kind.

Twenty-eight hundred children under 5 years of age die in the United States each year as the result of burns. Hundreds of adults lose their lives, and the property damage runs into many millions. Accidents of this kind are nearly always due to some one's carelessness. Matches are left where children can get them. Gasoline, kerosene and cleaning fluids are left exposed, and open fires unprotected. Playing in the vicinity of stoves, bonfires or fireworks is especially dangerous for children.

Gas was the source of 2,800 deaths in 1928. The danger may be removed by having all appliances and connections properly adjusted and fitted, by turning off the gas when not in use, by teaching children that it is dangerous, and by taking precautions against a gas jet being extinguished by wind or a boiling pot. Hundreds of deaths from asphyxiation might be prevented by opening garage doors before starting automobile motors.

Electricity is also dangerous. Fires may be started by defective wiring, poorly fitted appliances, worn-out cords, or by failure to turn off the current when not in use. Death may result from touching exposed current-bearing wires. The final major source of home accidents arises from the use or careless handling of poison. Such accidents can be avoided by keeping all medicines properly labeled and in a cabinet beyond the reach of children.

Means of making the home safe are available to every family. It remains for each family to recognize its own careless habits and to apply the simple precautions that make the home safe.

Michigan barbers are accepting wheat in payment of haircuts. This suggests that the barber and not the customer may get singed after the haircut.

"SHORT SELLING"

From the New York Times.

With trade depression continuing in spite of recent assurances that it would surely end with the arrival of autumn, and with the stock market also falling below the prices reached in last summer's drastic downward readjustment, it was not perhaps surprising that search for something peculiar and abnormal in the way of cause should have begun. The average man does not apply severe logic in his reasoning on such matters. It was at least a convenient supposition that business must be hesitating because of the bad stock market, and Wall street itself had been reporting, every day, that "bear selling" had emphasized the market's unsettlement. Hence the demand from irritated watchers of the situation that the evil influence of such stock market operations be ended by suspension or outright prohibition of "short sales."

Such action is undoubtedly possible. Mr. Untermyer correctly states that the stock exchange itself "has it within its power to prevent or restrict short selling." Yet even so hostile a critic as he has heretofore been of stock exchange machinery is careful to add that whether such action would be advisable "is quite another thing." The stock exchange authorities have given public warning that the speculative seller of stocks whose purposes were shown by deliberate circulation of disturbing rumors would be severely disciplined. But they, too, have declared through their president that, since "normal short selling is an essential part of a free market for securities," prohibition of such sales "might result in the destruction of the market," and would be, therefore, in any case "too high a price to pay for the elimination of the few who abuse this legitimate practice." President Hoover lately talked the matter over with the stock exchange authorities, but the White House version of the interview was careful to point out that the Government had no idea of interfering with the policies of the stock exchange.

Why this unanimity of attitude against the prevention of "short selling?" The answer of any one familiar with markets probably would be that, so long as stock market valuations can be influenced on the side of rising prices by speculative buying conducted with borrowed money, equilibrium is impossible except through permitting sales conducted through deliveries made with borrowed stocks. Either practice is open to abuse, which it is the duty of the exchange authorities to restrain. The abuse of "bidding up the market" by speculation based on brokers' loans is not often recognized by the public, though its evil results ought to be reasonably evident to any one who remembers 1929. Yet it is plainly impossible to abolish "buying on a margin," unless by reducing all transactions to a basis of cash purchases—which would preclude an immense part of legitimate investment business. This being true, it ought to be evident that prohibition of "short sales" would expose the market to the extreme and dangerous maladjustment which so one-sided a proviso would inevitably create. Our "crashes" would be vastly more ruinous; our recoveries, with the necessary "bear repurchases" eliminated, far less emphatic. The market would have become a trap for the unwary, with no automatic safeguard.

This is not the first occasion on which "suppression of bear sales" has been vehemently urged. After the panic of 1907, under circumstances closely resembling those which now exist, demands for such action forced Gov. Hughes to appoint an impartial committee to investigate the question. This committee contained not one member of the stock exchange; it was made up of such eminent economists, jurists and practical business men as Mr. Horace White, Judge Samuel H. Ordway, Mr. Edward D. Page and Prof. John B. Clark, of Columbia. In its unanimous report of 1909 the committee found that the gravest evil of the stock market was "pyramiding" of speculation for the rise on the basis of previous paper profits, now used as "margin" for still larger ventures.

Of "bear operations" it had this to say:

"We have been strongly urged to advise the prohibition or limitation of short sales, not only on the theory that it is wrong to agree to sell what one does not possess, but that such sales reduce the market price of the securities involved. We do not think that it is wrong to agree to sell something that one does not now possess, but expects to obtain later. Contracts and agreements to sell, and deliver in the future, property which one does not possess at the time of the contract are common in all kinds of business. The man who has 'sold short' must some day buy in order to return the stock which he has borrowed to make the short sales. Short sellers endeavor to select times when prices seem high in order to sell and times when prices seem low in order to buy, their action in both cases serving to lessen advances and diminish declines of price."

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

WHEN I WAS BEING RUSHED.

The boy has gone to college and we're lonely as can be,
But his letters bring a lot of joy to mother and to me.
"I'm being rushed," he tells us. "I had breakfast yesterday
With the Upsi Epsa Etas, and I dined with Ex Owe Jay!
As I strolled along the campus came a senior up to me
And he whispered: 'Sunday evening come and sup with A. B. C.'"

Oh, the college that I went to was the big world's ceaseless grind,
And the letters of our youngster bring those early days to mind.
With a chuckle I recall them, and the things men said and did
As they welcomed into business just another eager kid.
At the tricks they played upon me in my ignorance I blushed,
It was all so very different when I was being rushed.

For a left-hand wrench they sent me;
for a round square I was chased;
I was called to look at type lice, and a spray of ink I faced.
It was: "Hey, there! Get a move on!
Run these proofs to Brown and
Black
Stop at Goats and Suits for copy and be sure you hurry back!"
In that school of harsh experience oft my cheeks with shame were flushed,
But I learned what legs were made for
when I was being rushed.

Those old days gave us no emblems
we could pin upon our vests,
But they did initiate us, and they gave us all the tests.
And much like these college "rush-ings" when at last probation ends
In the ranks of those we've worked with we have found our lifetime friends.
So I chuckle recollecting all the type
I've cleaned and brushed, Saying: "Mother, as a youngster, there's no doubt that I was rushed."

John Bull's Dilemma.

If They Disturb Camp Meetin', They Also Scorn the Sheriff.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THE most dangerous sign of the times, from the standpoint of the conservative and the so-called capitalist, is not the occasional violence of dissatisfied workers but the increasing contempt for religion and religious authorities.

Rebellion against established authority and rebellion against orthodox religion go hand in hand. That is history, repeated again and again.

A new religion is preached by a reformer. He is an enemy of the established religion and he and his followers are outcasts. They are persecuted and thrive on persecution.

In the course of time the new religion makes friends among the great and becomes respectable. That is the beginning of the end. In a little while its high priests are fat conservatives who accept the support of the powerful and pay for it by keeping the people quiet.

Grown fat and prosperous, the religion that began in rebellion now teaches the poor the virtues of humility and submission. It is a useful ally of the ruling powers. And as an ally it must stand or fall.

When rebels begin their work with torch and sword, they slaughter priest along with kings. They are in rebellion against all authority—religious as well as secular.

Russia's present effort to overthrow the established religion is not unique in history. It is a normal part of revolution.

The French revolution was fostered by enemies of the church and its chief defenders were called atheists. The gutters of Paris ran with the blood of those butchered by enemies of religion.

The official religion of America, when the Revolution began, required worship of the Trinity. Churchmen were allies of the Government and their word was law.

And the leaders of the Revolution were without exception rebels against the established religion. Such men as Jefferson, Madison, Franklin, Washington, John Adams and Thomas Paine were Unitarians and Deists, accepting Nature's God but denying the Trinity of orthodox religion. They were hated and feared by the ecclesiastic authorities as they were by Tories.

When men rebel against the form of government, they rebel against the religion that supports it. And when they begin to mock religion, they are in spiritual rebellion against the rules of their government, also.

When the people throw stones at the high priests, the king's commands are a waste of breath.

PRO AND CON

Various Aspects of Political Issues Discussed by the Press.

Dream of New York Wets.

Houston Post-Dispatch.

It might be supposed that when Republican Nominee Tuttle did a flop from dry to wet to get the nomination in New York State, the liquor issue vanished out of the campaign. But not so. Democratic wets are strongly determined to reelect Roosevelt, because they believe his reelection will cinch control of the national Democratic party by the wets, assure a wet nominee in 1932 and give additional impetus to the reaction against prohibition that has appeared in the primaries this year. Republican wets, on the other hand, who hitherto have had to swallow prohibition, are jubilant that their State platform and their gubernatorial candidate are, for the first time since the amendment was adopted, frankly wet. They think they see a chance to nullify the advantage the Democrats have had in the past by being the wet party in New York. And, of course, they, too, desire to facilitate the return of the beer keg and the demijohn.

Prize Mixed Metaphor.

Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A large number of delighted correspondents have clipped from the political news of the Plain Dealer this sentence, containing the loveliest mixed metaphor of the year: "But the Ohioan made it plain that he would leave no stone unturned to stamp out such whispers if they materialized." The rhetoric textbooks must be revised to include this one.

Don't Want Too Big a Victory.

New Orleans Times-Picayune.

Some of the shrewdest of the Democratic leaders are hoping that their party's congressional gain will not be sweeping enough to give it a majority in either house. They foresee unhappy and troublesome times for the next Congress and desire for strategic reasons that the responsibility for what it does and fails to do shall be lodged squarely with the Republicans. A Democratic majority in the House would give the Republicans an "alibi" that undoubtedly would be worked to the limit of its possibilities in the presidential campaign of 1932. Hence the intimation that the Democratic strategists, or some of them, are secretly hoping for congressional gains in November that will constitute an unmistakable and emphatic rebuke to the Republicans—yet leave the G. O. P. with nominal majorities in both houses and so force it to accept responsibility for the congressional acts of omission and commission during the trying biennium just ahead.

Morrow's Position.

Louisville Courier-Journal.

For Dwight Morrow to have remained silent would have been to give countenance to the prediction that he would be the President's opponent before the Republican national convention. Such an attitude would be fatal to any aspirant's chances. If a President isn't a candidate, he is likely to have something to say about who is to be the candidate, and his favor would not fall on one whose nomination might be construed into the triumph of a rival.

Mr. Morrow will not be an opponent of Herbert Hoover for the Republican presidential nomination, but his forthright declaration of allegiance places him in a position to be considered for the nomination as a friend of the administration in the event the President is persuaded not to seek a second term. Mr. Morrow loses no ground by running for one office at a time.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

A Rule Against the Loaning of Stocks Without the Owner's Consent Would Effectively Halt Abuses of Short Selling.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It has been interesting to follow the discussions which have resulted from James W. Gerard's advocacy of a ban on the short-selling of stocks. As is usual, the truth lies somewhere in the middle ground. In fact, it lies in "the square deal." A square deal in the loaning of stocks for use as deliveries against short sales is so simple of accomplishment that there should be no cavilling about its introduction into the rules of the New York Stock Exchange by a prohibition against loans of customer-owned or margined stocks without their consent first having been obtained.

No reasonable person would advocate an invasion of private rights through denying to the owner the privilege of lending or to the margin customer the privilege of consenting to the loan of his stock. If either were so short-sighted as not to be able to recognize that he might be "aiding and abetting" the enemy to his own interests, he would be in need of some other protection than that which the New York Stock Exchange fairly could be expected to afford to him. Southern Flier at the Night Football Game—Meadow Lark or Flicker Halts Awhile.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Friday evening I went out to Griffith Stadium to see the George Washington-South Dakota football game. Though the game was well played and very interesting, an incident occurred at about 9:30 that caused my interest to center upon it instead of the game. This was the appearance of a bird flitting about the brilliant lights. After circling the field several times the bird came to rest at a point where the home plate used to be, and, as I was seated directly behind this point, I was able to get a fairly good view of the unexpected visitor.

This bird belonged to one of two species, namely, the flicker or meadow lark. I am inclined to believe that it was a meadow lark, as it walked instead of hopping, as the flicker usually does. Both the meadow lark and the flicker show a marked white spot on the rump when in flight. Something frightened the bird and it flew up, when I noticed the white rump. I was again led to believe that it was a meadow lark, for it soared into the air, whereas a flicker propels itself forward by short swift flits of the wings.

This bird probably remained in the North because of the warm weather that we have had for the past few weeks. When it turned cold Friday evening the bird began its southern journey, and the bright lights of the stadium attracted it, where it came to rest for a few moments, after which it resumed its southerly journey. Most birds when migrating fly at night, which accounts for this feathered visitor at the football game.

Woman's Opinion on Prohibition Repeal—Fears Return of the Saloon.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The wets can not expect to win their fight against prohibition without a more definite program and a satisfactory substitute for the present prohibition law.

There are many persons who are in favor of temperance but who are not in favor of the present prohibition law and the method of enforcement; but what assurance have they that repeal or modification does not mean a return to the saloon, with its drunken brawls and murders? The present growing generation has no conception of the horrors of the saloon and street drunkenness of the past when on some city blocks every house was occupied by a saloon, and many men could not resist the temptation but went from one saloon to another to stand at the bar and drink as long as they were able to stagger.

Women and children in those days always avoided passing a saloon, as a drunken sot with a gun in his hand was liable to come tumbling out of the door. When laws were passed to close saloons on election day, as it was dangerous for men, women and children to venture on the streets, the back door of the saloon was always conveniently left open.

Liquor laws have never been enforced or obeyed. There will always be opposition to them whether they are State or Federal laws. Modification, with 48 different State laws, is no guarantee against the saloon, nor would it be guarantee that State laws would or could be enforced. With the use of the automobile offenders could evade State laws as well as Federal laws. Take, for example, the State of New York, including the largest city in this country, with its five boroughs. What of the liquor laws there? What of the saloon there?

A bird in the hand is worth two in the bush.

Says Rare "Maiden Hair" Trees Here Should Not Be Sacrificed.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: While en route to Boston from his home in California a few days ago Dr. Arthur D. Haughton, M. A., Ph. D., who is president emeritus of the Cactus Society of America, was told that the rare "maiden hair" trees on Thirteenth street, near the Agricultural Department buildings, were to be sacrificed. Dr. Haughton turned as with horror from the thought and said that the Federal and District officers had no idea what they were about to do. These same trees, he declared, were more valuable than all the modern buildings that are to replace them. The trees are known as Gingto biloba, he said, and 50 years ago were pronounced the finest specimens to be found anywhere. They are survivals of a former geological epoch and the most ancient trees in existence, dating back as far as the Coal Age.

Do let every one help to preserve them and to so place the buildings as not to let the trees be destroyed. In Paris some years ago, while repairing the Avenue Bosquet, trees as large or larger than these "maiden hair" were dug up, with sufficient earth, and taken out of Paris. They were replanted and treated, and when returned to Paris were as fresh as ever and never dropped their leaves. Can not we do as much?

GEN. WEYLER DIES; MERCILESS IN CUBA

Brought on Spanish-American War by His Concentration Camps.

REFUSES STATE FUNERAL

Madrid, Oct. 20 (A.P.).—Valeriano Weyler, ranking captain general of the Spanish army, and chiefly remembered for his stern policies in Cuba just before the Spanish-American War, died today. He was 92 years old.

Three times this year the aged veteran fought off attacks of illness, each thought to be his last. He held on despite all predictions until a fall from a horse last month weakened him.

Shortly before his death, it was learned tonight, the old warrior added a codicil to his will ordering that he be buried without state honors and with the most moderate funeral possible.

"In my time I have seen much of the honors of the world," he dictated, "and I know they are worth nothing."

Wishes to Be Followed.

Tonight the family appeared determined to carry out Gen. Weyler's last wishes as far as possible. Unless the relatives yield it is believed that the captain general will be buried without pomp or ceremony tomorrow afternoon in the family plot at San Lofenzo Cemetery, where lie his wife and a daughter.

Gen. Weyler, regarded by Spain as its most loyal and efficient soldier, is remembered by Americans as a merciless ruler in Cuba, who had much to do with bringing on the Spanish-American War.

When Weyler was sent to Cuba to succeed Marshal Campos, whose dealings with insurrectos were regarded as too mild, he began a policy of inexorable repression. One act required all inhabitants of insurgent provinces to concentrate near military camps, thus depriving them of their homes, normal occupations and associations. They were massed in such numbers that they could not be properly fed and sheltered, and Gen. Fitzhugh Lee, then Consul General of the United States at Havana, is authority for the estimate that probably 200,000 of the rural population of Cuba died of starvation or resultant causes during the concentration period.

Recalled After U. S. Pressure.

Under pressure from the United States, Gen. Weyler was recalled by Spain in October, 1897, less than two years of his merciless rule having elapsed.

Havana, Oct. 20 (A.P.).—Associated Press dispatches telling of Weyler's death were read to President Machado here shortly before noon today, and it was indicated that the executive might send an official message of condolence to Spain, showing that Cuba would not be vindictive toward him in death.

Lansing, Mich., Oct. 20 (A.P.).—Gov. Fred W. Green, commander in chief of the United Spanish War Veterans today declined to comment on the death in Madrid of Capt. Gen. Valeriano Weyler, commander of Spain's forces in Cuba during the Spanish-American War.

(Associated Press.)

Gen. Valeriano Weyler, ranking captain general of the Spanish army, who died yesterday in Madrid, was described last night in a statement by the Spanish Embassy as a soldier who had achieved lasting military glory.

The statement said Gen. Weyler had been accused without proof of excessive severity and of having caused misery in gathering Cubans in insurgent areas into reconcentration camps before the Spanish-American War.

"He was relieved of his command in 1897, the statement added, "when he, it was said, had pacified the Occidental provinces and was sanguine of pacifying the rest of the island."

Gen. Weyler was said to have displayed military genius in Cuba as early as 1868 when, as a chief of staff, he was several times nominated by Havana merchants for a brigadiership in the loyal volunteer corps of the island, but was denied the post because of his youth.

An avowed opponent of increased autonomy for Spain's colonies he was sent to Cuba as general-in-chief in 1896, where, the embassy said, "he labored without rest to extinguish the insurrection," until a change of government at home brought about his recall.

Inverted Flying Mark Claimed.

Muenster, Germany, Oct. 20 (A.P.). Werner Weichelt, chief pilot of the local aviation school, today claimed another record for flying upside down. He carried a passenger in this position for 38 minutes 40 seconds. On September 22 Weichelt flew upside down, solo, for 46 minutes 53.2 seconds.

MEXICANS WILL AID FISH INQUIRY GROUP

Chief of Police States He Is Willing to Exchange Data on Communists.

NOVEMBER TRIP SEEN

Mexico City, Oct. 20 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The Mexican police are ready to cooperate with the congressional committee headed by Representative Hamilton Fish which has been investigating Communist activities in the United States, Gen. Jose Mijares Palencia, chief of police of the federal district (in which Mexico City is located), announced today following a conference with Foreign Minister Genaro Estrada.

"I think it would be better," Gen. Mijares said, "if the American police got in touch with us. Let it be police dealing with police. I am informed that the Fish committee is undertaking a serious investigation of Communist activities and that Representative Fish is a young man of magnificent antecedents."

(Copyright, 1930.)

Informed of the dispatch from Mexico City stating the readiness of the authorities there to exchange information on Communist activities, Chairman Hamilton Fish, jr., of the House select committee for investigation of Communists, said yesterday that he would at once approach Ambassador Tellez and the State Department with the purpose of sending representatives of the committee to Mexico City from New Orleans about November 15.

Mr. Fish will appoint two members of the committee, a secretary and possibly the sergeant at arms of the House, to make the trip, by boat and probably by way of Vera Cruz. He himself will be unable to go because of existing engagements.

The committee expects to leave Washington for New Orleans about November 10 via Chattanooga, Atlanta and Birmingham.

The general told the press, however, he lacked authority to speak for the government in regard to suggestions that Mexico officially cooperate.

Mysterious Blast Hurts Five Persons

Two Buildings Wrecked by Explosion; Girl May Not Live.

Palestine, Tex., Oct. 20 (A.P.).—A mysterious explosion injured five persons, one probably fatally, and wrecked two business houses on the main street here today.

Miss Marie Moser, 19, working in the insurance office of her father, M. E. Moser, is in a critical condition in a hospital. Doctors said she had little chance to live. Her father was extricated from the wreckage with serious burns and internal injuries. Jewett Lamier, who was in the door of a shoe shop adjoining the Moser office, was burned and bruised.

T. A. Fitzgerald received a broken leg and other injuries, and H. T. Fotopoulos, who operated a shoe store adjoining the Moser office, was seriously burned and received other undetermined injuries. There was a division of opinion whether nitroglycerine caused the blast or a gas pocket formed in pipes beneath the floor.

POST-WAR DOGMAS AND CULTS HIT BY DISCIPLES SPEAKER

Constitution Hall by Elijah V. Stivers, of Eugene, Oreg. Special music and Scripture reading preceded the addresses.

Prior to last night's session thousands of the delegates attended a vesper service in the recently dedicated National City Christian Church at Thomas Circle, where George A. Campbell, of St. Louis, Mo., delivered a sermon directed against doubt concerning Christ.

"Christians are too much in the questioning mood," he asserted. "The church is hesitating in daringness and adventure, and as well in deep contentment. We may well ask if the church as a whole is possessed with a passion to proclaim the Great Commission of Our Lord to all peoples."

Declaring that faith has been threatened at other times, but has never been overthrown, the speaker said that "from periods of obscuring belief the church has risen to greater purity and power. This is my faith with regard to our own age. It shall come forth as gold."

The morning session was turned into open forums on the origin of the Christian Church in America and foreign lands. H. H. Peters, of Bloomington, Ill., presided at the gathering in the auditorium, while Mrs. Florence Miller Black directed an equally large meeting in Constitution Hall.

Speakers and their subjects were: "How We Begun in Great Britain," William Robinson, of Birmingham, England, and George Scharff, of Liverpool, England; "Beginnings 'Neath the Southern Cross," A. A. Creamer and Miss Jean Dick, both of Auckland, New Zealand; "Beginnings 'Neath the Southern Cross in Australia," William Morrow, of Adelaide, Australia, and T. E. Rofe, of Sydney; "First Fruits in Canada," Hugh Kilgour, of Toronto, and W. H. Harding, of Summerside, P. E. I., Canada; "The Movement Begins in the United States," William Briney, Louisville, Ky., and Jesse F. Holt, Sherman, Tex.; "Early Attempts in World Missions," Mrs. J. M. Stearns, of New York City, and George A. Miller, of Omaha, Nebr.; "What About the Cause of Christ in Russia?" I. S. Prokhanoff, Leningrad, Russia, and John Johnson, of New York City; "A World Christian Fellowship," J. E. Thomas, Melbourne, Australia, and Cleveland Kleihauer, Seattle, Wash.

Special vocal selections were rendered at the morning session by Mrs. Daisy Maude Underwood, of Tulsa, Okla., known as Princess Pakanli, the Chickasaw Nightingale.

Church's Achievements Discussed.

The afternoon forum gatherings were devoted to a discussion of the church's achievements in various parts of the world. Speakers included Colby D. Hall, Fort Worth, Tex.; I. J. Cahill, Cleveland, Ohio; C. E. Lemmon, Columbia, Mo.; Willard M. Wicklizer, Des Moines, Iowa; H. O. Breedon, Oakland, Calif.; Warren Grafton, Los Angeles, Calif.; Mrs. Roy Rutherford, Little Rock, Ark.; Mrs. W. F. Rothenburger, Indianapolis, Ind.; B. A. Abbot, St. Louis, Mo.; C. C. Ware, Wilson, N. C.; S. J. Mathieson, Denver, Colo.; Howard Fagan, Los Angeles.

At a business session preceding the vesper service at 5 o'clock, reports were received from a number of committees.

Today the session theme will be "Pentecost Among the Nations." After hearing reports and addresses by representatives of more than 30 countries, the delegates will be received by President and Mrs. Hoover at the White House at 3 o'clock. At 4 o'clock they will join in memorial services at the Garfield Monument, before gathering for vespers at the National City Christian Church. The convention will close Thursday evening.

EAST ROOM PAGEANT TO BE GIVEN FRIDAY

Society and Official Order Unite for Presentation of Historic Events.

11 EPISODES PLANNED

Eleven episodes portraying historic events that have occurred in the East Room of the White House in past administrations will be reenacted Friday night in a pageant to be presented at the Willard Hotel under auspices of the Rectors Aid of St. Margaret's Episcopal Church.

Many Washingtonians prominent in society will participate in "The East Room," which was written by Mrs. William Wayne Wirgman, of Washington. The pageant opens with the reproduced inspection of the unfinished East Room by George Washington, Martha Washington, Nellie Custis and others, and ends with the scene of Mrs. Lincoln passing through the room on the way to the inaugural ball on March 4, 1861.

The floor committee is headed by Brig. Gen. William E. Horton and includes Rear Admiral Luke McNamee, Rear Admiral Ridley McLean, Lieut. Col. Owen Albright, Sheridan Blays, Edward Burke 3d, George H. Calvert, Jr., Willoughby Chesley, William Jeffreys Chewning, Philip H. Clarke, William Bowie Clarke, Walter D. Davidge, Charles Delmar, Benjamin Foster, Edward A. Keys, Paul H. Lutz, Francis B. Poe, Edward Burr Powell, Charles Mason Remey, Leroy Tuttle, Dr. Joseph Wall, Archibald C. V. Wells and Lieut. James C. White.

Cotton Belt Sale May Be Opposed

Competing Lines Insist on Maintenance of Traffic Routes.

Dallas, Tex., Oct. 20 (A.P.).—Possible opposition by competitive Southwestern railroads to the proposed purchase of the Cotton Belt by the Southern Pacific was indicated at an Interstate Commerce Commission hearing here today.

Representatives of the Southern Pacific said they were unwilling to allow the commission to prescribe that existing routes of traffic must be maintained after the sale. Officials of the Katy, St. Louis & San Francisco, Rock Island, and Texas & Pacific systems had promised to intervene unless they were guaranteed continuation of traffic now given the lines at Southern Pacific connections.

Hale Holden, chairman of the Southern Pacific executive committee, said it was not his road's intention to change any of the existing routes of traffic. He explained, however, that he was unwilling for any order to be entered which would bind the Southern Pacific. "We can not tell what conditions may arise in the future," he said.

URGENT TASKS FACE LONDON CONFERENCE

Imperial Group Has Only Three Weeks to Decide on Peace and Wheat Issues.

THREE OFFICIALS NAMED

London, Oct. 20 (A.P.).—With only about three weeks left to complete its work and many important decisions to be taken, the imperial conference today began what is likely to be an almost continuous committee session on interimperial relations and economic problems pressing both the dominions and the home government.

World peace and the disarmament movement occupied attention of one committee, whose aim was to shape up the program reconciling the existing disarmament convention in the League of Nations, which would permit war on occasions, with the Kellogg pact, which forbids it.

The most important question facing Canada and Australia was that of the disposal of wheat. The subject was gone over in all its phases. The committee is working on a "marketing plan the purpose of which is to give the dominions a guaranteed market in the United Kingdom," a spokesman said. He added that during the last five years an average of 47 per cent of the wheat imported into the British Isles came from the dominions, and the object of the present endeavor is to increase this to at least 50 per cent. Otherwise, the quota scheme is not likely to be worth while.

The plan so far considered applies only to control at ports. The government would announce what percentage of its total needs must come from the dominions and purchasers of grain would have to supply their needs accordingly. It was stated that the question of price fixing had not yet been discussed.

An announcement was made today that three new privy councilors had been appointed, they being R. B. Bennett, of Canada; George W. Forbes, of New Zealand, and Sir Richard A. Squires, of Newfoundland.

Two Kansas City Plants Will Give Jobs to 1,200

Kansas City, Oct. 20 (A.P.).—The Kansas City Star says resumption of full operation of the Chevrolet assembling plant and the Fisher Body plant here probably to be accomplished before the end of the week, will send 1,200 jobless back to work.

Surveying signs of business revival in this territory, the newspaper says the American Cigar Plant, employing 1,360, has made 500 new jobs in four months.

Quake Shakes Honolulu.

Honolulu, Oct. 20 (A.P.).—An earthquake which occurred at Hilo, Hawaii Island, at 8:25 a. m. (10:55 a. m., Pacific standard time) today rattled chandeliers and shook bottles from shelves, but did no damage. It had its center in the great Kilauea Volcano, a few miles from the city.

KINGSFORD-SMITH FLYING TO FIANCEE

British Ace Reaches Town Half Way on Journey Across Australia.

MISS POWELL TELLS JOY

Cloncurry, Queensland, Australia, Oct. 20 (A.P.).—Wing Commander Charles Kingsford-Smith, speeding on a 2,200-mile transcontinental flight to meet his fiancee, Miss Mary Powell, at Sydney, arrived here today with nearly half the distance behind him.

Flying over the wastes and deserts of northern Australia from Port Darwin, where he had completed his record-breaking England - Australia flight, the empire's hero of the air covered nearly 900 miles. He retired for the night eager to push on.

Tomorrow he will take off for Brisbane, seaport of Queensland, about 850 miles farther on. The last stage of his flight to the altar will be a 450-mile stretch down the coast from Brisbane to Sydney.

Felicitated by King.

As soon as he had landed here, he was handed a telegram of congratulations from King George to Lord Somers, acting governor general of Australia, which said: "Please convey to Wing Commander Kingsford-Smith my heartiest congratulations on his wonderful flight."

The Australian ace's countenance beamed with pleasure as he read this message, and another from Lord Somers himself, which concluded: "Australia is proud to own you."

Sydney, N. S. W., Oct. 20 (A.P.).—Mary Powell, the happiest and most excited girl in all Australia, tonight awaited here the arrival of her fiance, known to the world as Wing Commander Kingsford-Smith, but to her alone as "Chilla." He is hastening by air across the continent to meet her.

Not Going to Brisbane.

Miss Powell confessed today she was so thrilled by the record-breaking flight of the Australian ace she hardly knew what she was doing. Curbing her impatience, she has decided to wait for him here and meet him at the Mascot Airdrome on Wednesday. At first it had been reported she would go by airplane to Brisbane, where Kingsford-Smith is due tomorrow. He reached Cloncurry, Queensland, today.

She said today their marriage would probably take place during the last week in November. The service will be held in the Scottish Church of Melbourne, where she lives.

Dynamite in Fatal Crash Unexploded

Two Miners Killed in Shaft Train Wreck; 100 Escape.

Portage, Pa., Oct. 20 (A.P.).—Failure of a quantity of dynamite to explode probably prevented a major disaster today as two men were killed and more than a score injured when a mine train ran away down a 1,000-foot grade and was wrecked in the Sonman Shaft Coal Co. mine near here. Three of those injured are in a critical condition.

One hundred men were riding into the mine on the train which also carried 30 sticks of dynamite and a large supply of dynamite caps. Those who met death were George Suchala and Mike Hoschuk.

The train was on the way to the lower levels of the mine, where the men were to start the day's work. Company officials said a coupling broke, releasing twelve cars, which plunged down the grade into the walls of the mine after being derailed.

Sherman Whipple Dies; Widely Known Lawyer

Brookline, Mass., Oct. 20 (A.P.).—Sherman Whipple, 68, widely known lawyer, died suddenly at his home here this morning after a brief attack of heart disease.

Mr. Whipple attained celebrity in half a dozen cases and investigations of importance. He was special counsel to the congressional commission which investigated the proposed terms of peace at the conclusion of the World War and served as general counsel to the United States Shipping Board and Emergency Fleet Corporation and appeared in a number of other highly important cases.

Famous French Actress Dies.

Paris, Oct. 20 (A.P.).—Louise Silvain, one of France's most noted actresses, died today at the age of 56. She had been a member of the cast of the Comedie Francaise since 1901 and was the widow of Eugene Silvain, dean of the Comedie Francaise, who died August 21, 1930.

Shopping with Bab

I Can't Help Hearing Conversations

—here and there. In Mme. Florenz the other day a well known society matron was conversing with her. Said she: "Mme. Florenz, I have shopped all over town. I want to tell you frankly that your dresses are the most beautiful I have ever seen. They are original in style, made beautifully, most chic, and so inexpensive. I like the courteous treatment I receive here, too. Your type of shop is what we have needed in Washington for a long time."

This visitor evidently voiced the sentiments of every woman who learns to know the Madame Florenz Salon, and it is a real picture of the place.

I can only urge that every one who reads this will take time to visit this salon and see what beautiful gowns may be purchased. Prices range from $15 and $19.50 to $85.

Anna Jayne at 1359 Conn. Ave.

—has Volland books for children in a fascinating variety. I forgot to tell you last week that any of the books on the shelves may be purchased or ordered specially. The "C" library feature is convenient, because there is no membership fee necessary.

Georg Jensen silver is on exhibit in this shop. You know it, of course, and are familiar with the charming lines and beautiful designs in this handwrought silver.

Della Robbia and Ticcholo pottery in warm colorings make a tempting array from which to choose tea or coffee sets or bridge luncheon dishes. Florentine leather and countless other imports await you in the shop of Anna Jayne, 1359 Conn. Ave.

J. Rand Has Reduced Prices

—until Nov. 1. You will be surprised to know that there are certain little suits and dresses available now as low as $4. There are school outfits from kindergarten age to 9 or 10 years at cost and less. These are discontinued lines, but just as good and certainly wonderful looking. J Rand is the sole importer of Mastra-knit garments. They are made of pure wool or silk and wool, as well as mercerized cotton. The outdoor suits just arrived are in three shades of blue, or in two shades of rose.

Sister and brother suits are too cunning for anything. Of course, you have to have one boy and one girl to make them practical. J. Rand, 1702 Connecticut ave.

Elise Hats at The Mayflower

—may be found in the Gift Shop just off the lobby. Mrs. Elise G. Hume is making a specialty of attractive felt shapes at $1.65 each. This hardly seems possible. Wait till you see the pretty colors and the nice quality of the felt. Go in the De Sales street entrance of the Mayflower and there you are. Elise is still taking care of your pearl stringing needs, too.

Evening Gowns For Halloween

—are the next thing on the program. Delightful models in chiffons and silks and transparent velvet are priced from $25 up. A pretty velvet in a luscious shade of rose is only $29.50.

Tweed coats with fur collars, nicely tailored, are from $45 up. There is no reason why any one should wish for new autumn attire with such prices as this.

Schwartz, 1325 Conn. Ave. may be depended upon for quality and for style, and their prices are spectacular they are so moderate.

You'll Find the Prince of Ales

—is the beverage on most smart tables where a beverage seems necessary.

The Prince of Ales is a pale dry ale of delicious flavor and sparkle. You may buy it in all A. & P. stores, two bottles for 25 cents. Or you may buy by the case direct from the factory. Call Met. 0435. With every 30 bottles you receive free a handsome box with two decks of bridge cards. Drink the Prince of Ales.

The Baby Mode Prices Little Coats

—for children from $7.95 up. These are in the woolen materials you want for warmth and weight. The colors are good and the workmanship perfect.

The Baby Mode, 1770 Columbia Road, has little girls' dresses and suits for boys in a wide variety of styles and prices.

Affectionately,

Entertainment to Open New Shoreham Hotel

Harry Richman, noted night club master of ceremonies, and Lina Basquette, motion picture actress, will head the cast of entertainers who will participate in the formal opening of the new Shoreham Hotel Thursday night.

The Chester Hale girls, the Three Demons, and Layman and Kling, specialty dancers, will also be in the revue. Richman recently received a great deal of publicity when his engagement was announced to Clara Bow. The Shoreham Lowe-Nevins orchestra, headed by Paul Fidelman, will be supplemented by a 15-piece band engaged especially for the opening of the apartment hotel.

Peewee Golf May Answer Our Furnace Problem — By Talburt

HERE are two pictures. One is an imaginary cartoon; the other, an actual photograph taken right here in Washington.

The cartoon which shows a typical old-fashioned furnace room rigged up as a peewee golf course, seems ridiculous.

The actual photograph below, however, proves that the cartoon is not so far fetched after all.

The photograph shows the basement of John E. Halsey, 423 Allison Street N. W. Mr. Halsey's home is automatically heated with gas, the modern fuel. The former furnace room is now attractively furnished as a den. The Bryant Gas-fired Boiler, which does away with all ashes, dirt, dust, soot and vapors, has added another room to the house. Conceivably the furnace room might have been turned into a peewee golf course, as suggested by the cartoon. Apparently Mr. Halsey prefers his golf out doors as indicated by the golf clubs standing against the wall.

Heat Your Home With Gas

continue here.

The gas bill for heating this six-room brick row house last year was $93.70. Under the new low rates, now in effect, it would have been about $71. Automatic Gas Heat is now within the means of almost everyone. Ten per cent down on a Bryant Gas-fired Boiler or a Janitrol Conversion Burner and 30 months to pay, are terms so liberal that the original purchase price is no obstacle.

Call NAtional 8280 today for an accurate estimate of what Automatic Gas Heat will cost in YOUR home. It can be installed quickly and without any inconvenience to you.

Gen. Crozier Gives Peiping Tower Gifts

Completion of Wall to Be Made Through His Aid.

ON the fringe of ancient Peiping where moldering walls guard the secrets of the ages two towers are rising to completion and the old Chinese wall of the Forbidden City is being restored through the generosity of Maj. Gen. William Crozier, U. S. A., retired, whose interest in things Oriental has broadened through years of travel in the Far East. Within sound of temple bells the ring of hammers mingles with the chant of workmen engaged by Gen. Crozier to restore the two corner towers on the south wall of the old Chinese capital. The towers were falling into ruin but through the gift of Gen. Crozier they will be repaired and one more bond between the East and West will be forever forged.

Two years ago Gen. Chiang Kai-shek was impressed with the dilapidated condition of the Forbidden City and gave thousands of dollars for the restoration of the north walls but his gift was not sufficient for replacement of the towers on the south wall so Gen. Crozier will complete the restoration.

Gen. and Mrs. Crozier long have been interested in China, its people and its art, and have for the last year been in Peiping renewing acquaintance with the capital where he first went in 1900 as chief ordnance officer with the allied expedition which relieved the legation from siege by revolutionists during the Boxer rebellion. while there, 30 years ago, Gen. Crozier became interested in Chinese art and monuments and has pursued his study of Chinese affairs, revisiting the Orient many times. With Mrs. Crozier he has made a notable collection of old jades, bronzes, lacquers and paintings which they propose to present to a museum.

Since the general's retirement from active service in the Army he has traveled almost constantly in distant lands, always accompanied by Mrs. Crozier so that the popular couple who number so many friends in Washington have been absent from the social groups here for the last few years.

The Minister of South Africa, Mr. Erik Hendrik Louw, left last night for Springfield, Ill., where tomorrow he will address the Springfield Luncheon Club. The minister will return on Friday.

Representative and Mrs. S. Wallace Dempsey will give a dinner at the Mayflower on December 19 preceding the first of the Friday Evening Dancing Classes which will meet at the Willard. Their guests of honor will be the committee arranging the dances.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Hayorth have as their guests for ten days the former's father and mother, Prof. and Mrs. Erasmus Hayorth, of Wichita, Kans.

Mrs. Georgette Ross Howard will give the first lecture of her series on current topics this morning from 11 to 12 o'clock at the Carlton Hotel. Through the winter, from October 21 to March 3, Mrs. Howard will give 18 talks touching upon the affairs of the day.

Nicaraguan Minister Is Luncheon Host.

The Nicaraguan Minister, Senor Dr. Don Juan B. Sacasa, entertained at luncheon yesterday at the Carlton.

Among guests of Senora de Viteri, wife of the Minister of Ecuador, at the tea at the National Woman's Country Club yesterday was Mrs. M. de Clare Berry, who had as her guests Senora de Leiva, wife of the Minister of El Salvador; Mrs. Benjamin H. Fuller, and Mrs. James Orme.

Rear Admiral and Mrs. Luke McNamee, who have been in Washington for some time, have gone to Long Beach, Calif., where Admiral McNamee will command the fourth division of the battle fleet.

The United States Consul General at Shanghai and Mrs. Edwin S. Cunningham have sailed from China and will visit in Washington. Mr. Cunningham has been in Shanghai in his present post for many years.

Mrs. Robert Lansing, widow of the late former Secretary of State, is passing a few days in New York at the Madison.

Dr. and Mrs. Schacht End Stay in Capital.

Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, former president of the German Reichsbank, and Frau Schacht left Washington at 1 o'clock yesterday for the West. They will leave their son in Chicago, where he will become engaged in business, and continue on their tour of the country, stopping at various universities, where Dr. Schacht will give a series of lectures.

Mr. Franklin Mott Gunther, former Minister to Egypt, is staying in New York, where he expects to be joined later by Mrs. Gunther.

Former Senator and Mrs. Charles S. Thomas, of Denver, Colo., are in Washington on their way to New York. The former senator, who was also Governor of Colorado at one time, succeeded Mr. Charles J. Hughes in the United States Senate for his unexpired term in 1913 and was re-elected for the term 1915-21. He was special counsel to the Korean commission in Washington for securing the independence of Korea.

Mrs. James H. Barrett, of 4500 Seventeenth street, entertained at luncheon and bridge at Wardman Park yesterday.

Consul Group Will Observe Armistice Day

President Among Those Sponsoring Fete in New York.

The celebration of Armistice Day in New York will be heightened this year by interest reflected by high Washington officials. President Hoover is among the sponsors of the luncheon to be given on November 8 at the Commodore in honor of the Society of Foreign Consuls in New York and their wives. The Assistant Secretary of State, Mr. William R. Castle, will give the address.

On the honorary committee are Mr. Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of State; Mr. John W. Davis, former Ambassador to Great Britain; Mr. Bainbridge Colby, Secretary of State under President Wilson; Mr. James W. Gerard, former Ambassador to Germany; Mr. Odgen H. Hammond, former Ambassador to Spain; Mr. Henry Morgenthau, former Ambassador to Turkey; Mr. Ira Nelson Morris, former Minister to Sweden, and Mr. James R. Sheffield, former Ambassador to Mexico.

The British Ambassador, Sir Ronald Lindsay, and Lady Lindsay, will attend the tenth annual armistice ball of the British Great War Veterans of America at the Plaza Hotel in New York on Armistice Day, November 11, when they will be the guests of honor of the British Great War Veterans. The association is the American branch of the British legion, which is headed by the Earl of Jellicoe.

Mrs. Thomas Floyd Smith, of Louisville, Ky., is spending part of the week in Washington at the Mayflower. She is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Reed. The former is general counsel for the Federal Farm Board.

Mrs. Smith is the mother of Mr. Bruce Smith, who married Princess Bertha Cantacuzene, of Washington.

Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt entertained a few friends at luncheon yesterday at the Carlton.

Mr. and Mrs. Leiter Return to Capital.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Leiter have returned to their home on Dupont Circle, after spending a week with Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Gilpin at Scaleby Manor, near Boyce, Va.

Lieut. Frederick H. Smith, jr., U. S. Army Air Corps, is visiting his parents Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Frederick H. Smith, who make their home at 2800 Ontario road.

Mrs. George Hasbrouck, of New York, has announced the engagement of her granddaughter, Miss Helen Rumsey, to Mr. James M. Cox, jr., son of Mr. James M. Cox, former Governor of Ohio and Democratic Presidential candidate in 1920. Miss Rumsey is the daughter of Mr. Lee M. Rumsey, of St. Louis and Miami Beach, Fla. She attended the Masters School in Dobbs Ferry, N. Y.

Mr. Cox was graduated from Yale University. He is the great-grandson of Gilbert Cox, a pioneer of the West, and a grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Cox, the latter having been Miss Eliza Andrews. His father was three times Governor of Ohio.

No date was set for the wedding.

Mr. Arthur Bradley Campbell, son of the Marchioness Huntly who was well known in Washington as Mrs. James McDonald before her marriage to the Scottish peer, is spending some time in Paris. Mr. Campbell entertained recently at dinner at Ciro's. Among his guests were Prince and Princess Alliate de Montereale, Comte. and Comtesse Meniscalchi-Erizz, Mr. and Mrs. Deward H. Alsop and Miss Elsie Quinby. Mr. Campbell will sail for this country the end of this month, for a stay of several weeks in New York and will undoubtedly come to Washington to renew old friendships.

Mrs. Harold Smoot is at her home in Salt Lake City, Utah, and will remain for several weeks. Mr. Smoot will be in Washington until her return.

Mrs. Harry S. Black and her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald de Courcy May, arrived in Europe on the Majestic for a sojourn of several months.

Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Noble, of Florida, are guests at Wardman Park Hotel during their stay in Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Faust announce that through a mistake the name of their daughter, Miss Gertrude Faust, was included in the debutante list for this season. Miss Faust will not make her debut for two years, but will continue her studies at Dobbs Ferry, N. Y.

Mrs. Fred Dennett, who is convalescing from a long illness, is now at the Cairo Hotel, where she will spend the winter and where she is now able to receive her friends. Her daughter, Mrs. Patton Wise Slemp, of Cincinnati, is with her for the present.

Lieut. Rodney Dennett, U. S. N., and his family will join his mother for Thanksgiving.

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Lease Capital Home.

Mr. and Mrs. Hampson Gary are in New York, where they plan to make their permanent home. They have leased their house to Miss Helen Cannon, who will have with her for the winter her niece, Mrs. Le Seur Richardson. Mr. and Mrs. Gary's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Austin Moran, make their home in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Langhorne, who passed the summer in Bar Harbor, have come to Washington after passing the week-end in New York, and will make their home at the Anchorage.

Mrs. Aida de Acosta Breckenridge, assistant director in charge of public relations for the White House conference, will give a tea at the Washington Club tomorrow from 4 until 6 o'clock.

Irish Envoy Entertains Two Guests

Delegates Are Seeking to Arouse Interest in Exposition.

Were it not for frequent visits of statesmen from overseas Washington would lose a great part of its cosmopolitan atmosphere. Fortunately the daily arrival of notables from foreign lands lends constant variation to the calendar of events.

The Minister of the Irish Free State, Mr. Michael MacWhite, is acting in the role of host to two of his countrymen, Mr. Barry Egan and Mr. Sean French, members of the Irish Free State Parliament. Mr. Egan represents the party now in power in Ireland and Mr. French the opposition.

They came to this country to further the project of the Industrial Exposition, which will be held in Cork, Ireland, in 1932, with the task before them of arousing interest among American industrialists. During their Washington sojourn, which will terminate tomorrow, they have been staying at the Willard.

Today at 12:30 o'clock Mr. MacWhite will present them to President Hoover.

Mr. and Mrs. William Neal McCord, of Georgetown, are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son on Friday, October 17.

Mrs. Andrew J. White will entertain at luncheon at the Carlton on next Wednesday.

Rear Admiral Latimer To Live in California.

Rear Admiral Julian Lane Latimer, U. S. N., retired and Mrs Latimer, with their daughter, Miss Laura Latimer, and Mrs. Latimer's mother, Mrs. C. A. Richardson, of Washington, have arrived at Hotel del Coronado, Coronado Beach, Calif., for an indefinite stay. They went to the Coast from Newport, R. I., where they have been passing the summer, for a visit with their daughters, Mrs. Thaxton, wife of Capt. R. C. Thaxton, U. S. M. C., and Mrs. Deese, wife of Lieut. R. R. Deese, U. S. M. C., both stationed there. Admiral Latimer retired from the service on October 1, since which time the family have been traveling.

Mrs. Arthur Chichester, of Leesburg, Va., has returned home after a visit to Mrs. Edward S. Munford.

Dr. Wade H. Atkinson and Mrs. Atkinson, who have been visiting Dr. and Mrs. L. Schineckebier, left yesterday for North Carolina, where they will spend the next month on their way to Florida for the winter.

The League of Republican Women, with its president, Mrs. Edward A. Harriman, will be guests of Mrs. Thomas W. Sidwell at a meeting to be held at her residence, 3901 Wisconsin avenue, this afternoon in honor of Senator Simeon Fess, chairman of the Republican National Committee; Senator Robert H. Lucas, executive director, Republican National Committee, and Mrs. Lenna Low Yost, director of the women's division of the Republican National Committee. There will be addresses at 3:30 o'clock and Mrs. Franceska Kaspar Lawton will sing. Tea will follow in Mrs. Sidwell's beautiful garden.

Among those assisting will be Mrs. Swormstedt, Mrs. Branson, Miss Alice Hersey, Miss Alice Stuart, Mrs. William Fitch Kelly, Mrs. Samuel Brosius, Mrs. Robert McNeil, Miss Helen Yostman, Miss Meta Evans, Mrs. Clyde Kelly, Mrs. Howard Davidson, Mrs. Howard Leroy and Mrs. Murdock.

Senators Return To Washington

Among members of the Senate who have returned to Washington after being absent from town on personal or political affairs are Senator Pat Harrison, of Mississippi, who, accompained by his family, spent some time at their home in Gulfport; Senator Millard E. Tydings, of Maryland, who delivered an address at Providence, R. I., and Senator Claude A. Swanson, of Virginia, who made a short trip to New York.

Mrs. Radcliffe Agnew will entertain at dinner this evening at Wardman Park Hotel in honor of Miss Madge Kennedy, who is appearing in "Michael and Mary." After dinner Mrs. Agnew will take her guests to see Miss Kennedy play and later her guests will go to the Club Chantecler. Among those invited are Mrs. Helen Colbert Hite, Lieut. Comdr. R. O. Glover and his mother, Mrs. Glover; Mrs. Josephine Hancock, Lieut. Comdr. Ralph Ofty, Lieut. Comdr. Joseph Redmond and Lieut. Comdr. Frederick Ceres.

Lieut. Comdr. and Mrs. T. E. Chandler and children, who are traveling in the West, are now at San Francisco, where they will be for a short time.

Miss Martin Is Wed To Lieut. Pyne.

Miss Jane Louise Martin, daughter of Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Charles H. Martin, of Portland, Oreg., was married on Saturday, October 18, to Lieut. Schuyler Neilson Pyne, U. S. N., son of Capt. and Mrs. Frederick Glover Pyne, of Washington. The wedding took place at the home of the bride's parents at 9 o'clock in the evening.

The ceremony was performed by the Right Rev. Walter Taylor Sumner, Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Oregon. The bride's only attendant was Miss Marian Hostetter, of Los Gatos, Calif. The best man was Mr. Ellis Hughes Martin, brother of the bride.

Lieut. and Mrs. Pyne left immediately after the wedding for the East, where Lieut. Pyne has been ordered for duty at the Navy Yard, Philadelphia.

The debutantes of last season, who have dubbed themselves "girls of the shelf," to suit their role as hostesses to this year's buds at the tacky ball to be given at the Mayflower tonight, will stand in line to receive the guests.

Included in the group are the Misses Margaret Pilson, Lalla Lynn, Mary Martha Wren, Engracia Freyer, Helen Walker, Elizabeth Dunlop, Clara Bowling, Janet Murray, Virginia Yellott, Marjorie Talman, Frances Morse and the Misses Stringer.

Among those who will entertain at "tacky" dinners before the ball are Mrs. Bagley Wallace, Miss Freyer, Miss Eleanor Orme and Mr. Duff Merrick and the Misses Stringer.

Miss Gertrude Miller, second daughter of Mrs. Martha Miller and the late S. W. Miller, and Mr. Calvin McKown Hoke, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Hoke, were married at noon yesterday in Trinity Episcopal Church, at Martinsburg, W. Va., the Rev. John L. Oldham, rector, officiating.

Miss Miller was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. S. W. Kent Miller, and was attended by her younger sister, Miss Lucy Miller. Mr. John Boyd Hoke was his brother's best man. The bride wore a gown of brown transparent velvet, lace trimmed, brown velour hat and brown slippers. Her bridal bouquet was of Claudius Pernet roses and lilies of the valley. The maids wore ashes of roses flate crepe, with brown velevet hat and brown slippers.

Mr. and Mrs. Hoke left by motor during the early afternoon for Baltimore, sailing from there for New York. They will be at home at 1750 Harvard street northwest, Washington, after November 1.

Mrs. Hoke, who was graduated from high school in 1922, studied at Goucher College one year and was graduated from Miss Illman's School in Philadelphia in 1925. Since then she has conducted a private kindergarten in Winchester, Va. The marriage unites members of old county families and young people prominent in social circles of the city.

The out-of-town guests attending the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. Hargrave Cunningham, Washington; Mr. H. P. Harnsberger, Mrs. Gertrude Payne and daughter, Miss Elizabeth Payne, of Washington; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Engel, of Winchester, and Mrs. Burr Flagg and son, Burr Miller Flagg, of Cumberland, Md.

Tariff Board Aid Acquires Capital Home

Leland Harrisons Will Resume Residence in the City.

Busy getting settled for the winter, Mr. and Mrs. Leland Harrison and their children are established in their new home at 1735 Massachusetts avenue. The Harrisons may now be numbered among permanent residents of the Capital. Mr. Harrison recently resigned from the post of United States Minister to Uruguay and was lately appointed chief of the Tariff Commission's international relations division by President Hoover

The residence, which is owned by Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Crozier, was occupied last winter by Mrs. Dwight Davis, wife of the Governor General of the Philippines, who came to Washington to be with her daughter, Miss Cynthia Davis, who made her bow to society.

Spacious and attractive, the house will doubtless be a favorite gathering place for the many friends of the Harrisons in Washington, who remember with pleasure the hospitality which they enjoyed when Mr. and Mrs. Harrison lived here before, while he was serving as Assistant Secretary of State.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison came to Washington several weeks ago and stayed at the Mayflower while house hunting.

Mr. and Mrs. Waddy Wood are the most recent members of Capital society to join the "down in Virginia" set. They are building a new house on Lee's Ridge, in the picturesque hunting section near Warrenton, Va.

Mr. and Mrs. Wood already have broken ground for the house, which will be finished by early spring, when they will take possession. Following the traditions of the section, it will be colonial in style.

Mrs. Paul Mayo, formerly Miss Katherine Sutherland, daughter of the Alien Property Custodian and Mrs. Howard Sutherland, who spent the week-end in Washington with her parents, left for New York yesterday afternoon to remain for a few days before joining Mr. Mayo at their home near Denver, Colo.

Mrs. Sutherland accompanied her daughter to New York, where they will stay at the Ambassador.

Maj. and Mrs. Richard K. Sutherland, U. S. A., son and daughter-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Sutherland, have left for Fort Benning, Ga., where Maj Sutherland has been ordered for duty.

from the many foot-ills that you have "enjoyed" since girlhood. Practically all foot discomforts—whether bunions, corns, ingrowing toe-nails, grown-under toes, overlapping toes, or what-not—have been caused from ill-fitted shoes. Very likely this ill-fitting started in the old days when a shoe was considered a shoe just like an egg is an egg.

Shoes must be fitted conscientiously and a retailer must have a wide spread of sizes and widths in order to fit shoes conscientiously. In the old days he did not have them and some don't have them now

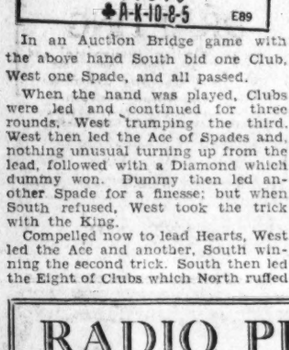
WORK ON BRIDGE

COULD YOU HAVE DONE BETTER?



In an Auction Bridge game with the above hand South bid one Club, West one Spade, and all passed.

When the hand was played, Clubs were led and continued for three rounds, West trumping the third. West then led the Ace of Spades and, nothing unusual turning up from the lead, followed with a Diamond which dummy won. Dummy then led another Spade for a finesse; but when South refused, West took the trick with the King.

Compelled now to lead Hearts, West led the Ace and another, South winning the second trick. South then led the Eight of Clubs which North ruffed with the Ten of trumps and led the Queen of trumps, drawing two for one. But Declarer had left a trump, two good Hearts, and two good Diamonds in dummy; so he took a total of eight tricks.

Could he have done better?

THE CORRECT PLAY.

South's bid was correct; but at either Auction or Contract West should have doubled instead of bidding. The hope would be that East would answer the double with Spades or Hearts; but if he answered (as was probable) with a Diamond or No Trump, West would bid Hearts and East would indicate his preference between Hearts and Spades, West having shown that neither Diamonds nor Clubs suited him.

This is what is known as a "two-suit double." At Auction East would have answered the double with two Hearts which would have ended the bidding; at Contract, East would bid three Hearts to show strength and West would have raised it to four.

Of course with Hearts the trump, the first two Clubs would be lost in just the same way as with Spades the trump; but Declarer could take all the Heart tricks by leading from East through South's King. With a Heart trump, Declarer would not lose more than one Spade in addition to the Clubs and consequently would score four-odd (game).

Dare Interprets the Mode

A lovely pale blue satin evening gown with strass trimmed decolletage, and an accompanying jacket of gold and blue lame collared and cuffed in gold and blue velvet. (Courtesy of Drecoll-Beer, Paris.)

New York, October 20.

I AM sure you want to know how America strikes me after a year's absence. So I'll tell you the most striking thing that strikes me, if you see what I mean—and that is, the perfectly astounding cheapness of wearing apparel.

Funny how people cling to ideas, isn't it? Four or five years ago, when the French franc was very, very much lower than it is now, when, in short, there were 40 French francs to one American dollar, instead of 25, as there are now, naturally it was a great saving to buy anything in the clothing line in Europe. Even though, as any American who is at all familiar with European goods knows, there were still some products that for style and quality could never excel American goods, just as there always are some French products which can never be excelled by any other country.

But that isn't the point. The point is the relative cheapness of clothes and accessories purchased abroad compared to the prices here. And as things stand this very moment, there is no article of feminine wearing apparrel which is cheaper in Europe than it is in the United States.

This is the most striking thing that I note after a year's absence from America.

* * * *

But we will still turn to Europe, and particularly Paris, for ideas! That's what I have done for you in this week's leaflet—filled it with costume party ideas I picked up in various European winter and summer resorts this past year. And they are original, and new, and very easily made, you know. Just send a self-addressed stamped envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the leaflet ready now, and see for yourself. Halloween is here next week, you know!

* * * *

As an improvement on "dip a string in perfume and tie it somewhere inside you gown" I suggest that you do as I have had to do with my grey gowns, that spot so terribly with perfume. I have an extra little piece of the material sewed inside the dress where it won't show—there always is a place, you know—and I keep that piece for perfume. In my coat right under the fur collar I have a piece of the woolen material that makes the coat, and on this I put perfume, to save both the coat and the fur trimming, because perfume ruins fur, you know!

* * * *

Still the ever popular little jackets with evening gowns, being there are so many, many informal occasions when a more elaborate wrap would not be in good taste! Drecoll-Beer, for instance, shows a wrap of blue and gold lame (lah-may) worn over a pale blue satin dress. The dress had the decolletage bordered in strass, and a clever tuck or two in its construction that made it, absolutely.

What? Why, pale blue gloves, of course! And let me warn you to try taking your jacket on and off a couple of times at home, with your long gloves on. Then you won't get hopelessly involved in tight jacket sleeves and long gloves that bunch down over the wrists, in public.

* * * *

Now we are back again to the weekly Dare fashion letter. You'll find it in The Sunday Washington Post each week.

Helping the Homemaker

By LOUISE BENNETT WEAVER.

Luncheon for Eight.

Jellied Tomato Salad, Cheesed Wafers
Crab Supreme, Served in Timbales
Browned Potatoes
Watermelon Sweet Pickles
Hot Biscuit Currant Jelly
Peach Parfait Coffee

Jellied Tomato Salad.

2 tablespoons granulated gelatin.
4 tablespoons cold water.
2 cups tomatoes.
1 cup boiling water.
2 slices onions.
2 bay leaves.
4 celery leaves.
4 whole cloves.
1 teaspoon sugar.
1 teaspoon salt.
2 tablespoons vinegar.
4 tablespoons chopped green peppers.

Soak gelatin in cold water. Mix all rest of ingredients, except the vinegar and green peppers, and cook slowly in covered pan twenty minutes.

Press through a strainer. Heat to boiling point and add gelatin mixture. Stir until thoroughly dissolved. Cool. Add vinegar and green pepper. Pour to thickness of 1½ inches in shallow pan which has been rinsed out of cold water. Set in cold place to stiffen. Unmold, cut in squares and serve on lettuce. Top with mayonnaise.

Crab Supreme.

5 tablespoons butter.
6 tablespoons flour.
1 teaspoon salt.
¼ teaspoon paprika.
2 cups milk.
½ cup cream.
1½ cups crab (fresh, cooked or canned).
2-3 cup cooked mushrooms.
3 tablespoons chopped pimientos.
1 egg, well beaten.

Melt butter and add flour. Blend and add salt, paprika, milk and cream. Cook slowly, stirring constantly, until sauce becomes thick and creamy. Add rest of ingredients. Cook one minute. Stir constantly. Serve in the timbale cases and top with chopped parsley.

Patty cases or home made pie crust cases can be used to hold the crab mixture, if desired.

Peach Parfait.

1 quart French vanilla ice cream.
2 cups sliced peaches.
1-3 cup sugar.
1½ cups whipped cream.
8 red cherries.

Place the cream in bottoms of tall glasses, add peaches and sugar and top with whipped cream and red cherries.

Leftover mashed potatoes can be reheated by placing in double boiler and adding a little milk or cream. Cover tightly and cook fifteen minutes. Stir to prevent lumping.

Prices realized on Swift & Co. sales of carcass beef in Washington, D. C., for week ending Saturday, October 18, 1930, on shipments sold out ranged from 11.00 cents to 21.00 cents per pound and averaged 17.09 cents per pound.—Adv.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

RESULTS OF FASTING.

ONE can fast for more than 40 days with no great harm to his organs individually, or to his organism as a whole. Dr. W. K. Harrison, one of the physicians in charge, sends a newspaper account of a 45-day fast indulged in by John Griscom 50 years ago.

When the fast began John wieghed 197½ pounds. When he took food after the expiration of the forty-fifth day, he weighed 147¾ pounds, a loss of slightly less than 50 pounds. The average loss in weight was 1.1 pounds per day. The greatest loss—5¾ pounds—was on the first day. The loss was greatest during the first week. It ranged through 1½ pounds on the seventh day, 2 pounds on the fourth day, 3 pounds on the second day, to the first day figure already given. After the first week the daily loss was slight, averaging only 8-10 of a pound. On two days there was a slight daily gain in weight, and on five other days there was neither loss nor gain.

The weight curve was, roughly, as follows: A sharp drop during the first week, followed by a very gradual but somewhat uneven downward curve. Toward the end of the fasting period the daily loss in weight decreased. Griscom drank no water during the first three days of his fast. This accounts for most of the rapid loss of weight during that first period. The amount of water consumed averaged one quart a day. During the first week in which he drank water he averaged less than 20 ounces a day. In the third quarter he consumed 3 pints daily.

During the first week his pulse was a little fast. After that it slowed down. During the last half his pulse beat was somewhat similar to that of a cold-blood animal coming out of a winter layup. The physicians certified that the faster ate no food and that he suffered no bodily harm. He was irritable and he lost weight, but beyond that they saw no ill effects of the experience. In the main, this experiment of half a century ago is in accordance with later, more scientific investigations of fasting.

A fast of about one week causes some loss of weight and some acidosis, and some increase in pulse rate. The loss in weight is not excessive, provided there is a considerable daily consumption of water. The body first burns stored glycogen and water, and then it consumes stored fat. During subsequent days it goes on a cold-blooded animal basis and if there be little mental and physical work done there is but little consumption of tissues and loss of weight. Life is not threatened until the period of fasting has gone much beyond 40 days. The proteins, and even the fats which form an essential part of important cells, are spared just as long as life can last without using them. Some scientists dispute this last statement, but the bulk of evidence is against them.

It all sums up as follows: Fasting as a method of treatment is of very limited value. On the other hand, it is a rather harmless procedure as long as it does not last longer than, say, one month.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"LIBRA."

IF October 21 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a. m. to 11 a. m., from 2:30 p. m. to 3:30 p. m. and 7 p. m. to 8 p. m. The danger periods are from 6 a. m. to 7:15 a. m. and 11 p. m. to midnight.

Fate will call forth your reserve forces on this date, and you will have to battle your wits against various kinds of enemies to your interests—onslaughts of envy, spite and underhandedness from so-called friends. Your fortunes reach an apex, which will be maintained with difficulty. Travel is indicated, on behalf of business.

Children born on this October 21 will have strong, forceful tempers, but they will not bear malice, and their dispositions will be kind and sweet. They will have firm and inflexible wills, and will not be easily turned back by obstacles which stand in their way. They will be conquerors.

You are not an aggressive man or woman, nor at all given to violent forms of speech or action. Uniformly suave and gentle in your modes, you are none the less firm, in view of the ends you finally attain, and prove that iron hands are found in silken gloves. You are a positive person usually clothed in negative outward attire. You do not elbow your way through the world; you seem to slip through in a quiet and orderly manner. You do not, however, take your castigations lying down.

You were born punctual, and you never arrive late at a rendezvous or business appointment. You do not try to cram more than 60 minutes in an hour, or two day's work in one. You are a meticulous worker, and a hard one. The world will pay you well, for it pays much to those who are of some use. Work to you is a pleasure, not a mere necessity. You make up your mind rather slowly—after you have given considerable study to all sides to a question—but you adhere to your decisions. An early retirement is not advisable for one of your make-up, for you have no other anchorage beside your job, and when this one hold on life is gone, you are apt to break up and go to pieces. Bereft of an occupation, life will become purposeless and stale to you, unless you acquire new hobbies.

Guiding Your Child

By MRS. AGNES LYNE.

Getting At Causes.

It perhaps will be some help to those mothers who are facing in their children the very common problem of enuresis to understand some of its possible causes.

The most usual and obvious one is faulty training during babyhood. There are several books on child care which give the routine measures for training the baby and for correcting a child's routine when the fault has become established and when competent medical examination proves that there is no physical basis for it.

Whatever the causes for enuresis, it is well to bear in mind that conscientious observance of routine measures is essential in its cure.

But routine measures alone, however faithfully observed, occasionally fail to cure the difficulty, once it has become established after the age of 3. In such instances the fault has come to serve for the child some purpose of which he is probably completely unaware.

The jealous child frequently uses this means of getting even with the parent who he feels is cheating him of his share of love. The unloved child frequently uses this means of getting attention, for even adverse criticism and correction are better than no notice at all.

Occasionally enuresis is caused by feelings of guilt arising from obscure causes. These make the child feel the need of being punished. Because he feels guilty about certain of his feelings or about some undetected wrongdoing he wants to bring retribution upon himself.

Having suffered punishment he feels that he has paid for his wickedness and thereby is absolved of his guilt.

These less obvious causes for enuresis indicate that in clearing up this type of difficulty it is sometimes necessary to alter our own attitudes toward the child so as to free him as far as possible from emotional burdens.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

THE TEETH OF BABIES.

(Children's Bureau, Department of Labor.)

There are 20 milk teeth, 5 in each half jaw. The teeth appear in groups. There are five of these groups, with intervals between their appearance. After the first group there is a pause of five to eight weeks; after the second, a pause of one to three months; after the third, one of from two to three months; after the fourth, one of from two to four months. Thus by the time a baby is 1 year old it may have six teeth; at 1½ years there should be twelve; at 2 years, sixteen, and at 2½ years the entire set should be cut. There is considerable variation, both as to the order in which they appear and in the time, so that the mother need not be alarmed if her baby does not follow the average above stated, but if he has no teeth at the end of the first year he can hardly be said to be developing properly. Probably the diet is at fault, or some disease is retarding growth. In such a case the doctor should be consulted. Racial and family traits account for some of the differences.

This set of teeth is replaced by the permanent set, beginning about the sixth year. A child should be taken to the dentist for examination of the first teeth. It sometimes happens that the milk teeth are so firm they do not fall out, but, remaining in the jaws, crowd back the second set and cause them to come in misshapen and irregular.

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

PLEASE tell me why my clematis paniculata does not bloom. It was purchased from a reliable firm this spring. It has formed buds twice, but in each case the buds have failed to mature. F. S. M.

The clematis paniculata requires a rich, well-drained soil and plenty of sunshine. Manure water should, if administered when the buds showed color, have caused them to open. Better mulch the plant after the first light frost with well-rotted manure. Also keep it well watered as long as the foliage stays green.

I have a friend who has a Jack rose, planted seven years ago, which develops most beautiful foliage, but never sets a bud. Can you explain the reason for this condition?

ELSIE C. B.

Lack of food, sun or water may be the cause of the plant's failure to bloom. Incorrect pruning may also be another reason. When pruning, all weak growth should be cut away. If quality rather than quantity of bloom is desired, all strong canes should be cut back to within 8 or 9 inches of the ground; but if quantity of bloom for garden effect is desired, leave these canes from 2 to 3 feet high, according to their strength.

Please tell me the name of the inclosed specimens. Please also tell me how to arrange the perennials in the list given in a rock garden. Letter without signature.

No. 2, variety of aster. No. 6, variety of xeranthemum (immortelle). The rest of the leaves were so wilted it was impossible to identify them. All the perennials you mentioned were entirely unfitted for rock garden use. Such varieties should be planted in a shrubbery border or in a plot by themselves.

Please tell me the name of the inclosed leaves. E. G. W.

The inclosed leaves were from the crasula, a plant quite popular for dish gardening.

Please tell me how to get rid of a borer that is ruining all my flowers. I understand there is a poison that may be mixed with bran which will cause the worm to cease his activities.

MRS. C. A. M.

There is a commercial preparation on the market that is said to effectively destroy this worm. If you care to write again, inclosing a self-addressed envelope, I shall be glad to send you the name of this preparation. As a borer is an internal feeder it is hard to poison it. The most effective method of control for any of the many kinds of borer to be found in the average flower garden is clean cultivation and the burning of all stems, roots and plant remains which are likely to harbor over wintering eggs. The growth of large weeds, especially giant ragweed, should be prevented, or they should be cut, raked together and burned before the caterpillars within their stems have an opportunity to migrate to other nearby plants. Removing the borer by slitting the stems lengthwise at the point of entry of the worm is a practical way to get rid of borers.

Please tell me when to transplant an otaksa hydrangea, also how to protect perennials grown from seeds sown this year. I find that my phlox plants are becoming dry from the ground up. Can you offer a reason for such a condition?

JOANNE McG.

Transplant your hydrangea after it has finished flowering. Perennials should be wintered in a cold frame or, if kept growing in the ground, should be protected by a mulch of pine boughs and straw or dead leaves. Phlox plants when crowded are apt to lose their lower leaves. Red spider or blight may also be responsible for this condition. Better spray the roots of all affected plants at this time and again in the spring. Bordeaux mixture is the best spray to use for this purpose.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

DEAR Miss McDonald—It seems that my life is just one disappointment after another. I'm hoping your advice can save me from any more heartaches.

Last September I met a boy several months younger than myself—just 17. We both fell deeply in love, and went together steady for several months. I knew by different things he said that he loved me. I met his parents, and they too seemed to like me.

Then something happened. He avoided me as much as he could, and when I finally got the chance to ask him the reason, he said he was through, that he just didn't love me any more. He wanted me to forget him!

I tried to forget. I went out with other boys, all my age or a little older, and very good looking, he was not a bit good looking. But I couldn't forget Tom. One of the boys I went with heard about my sorrow and tried to make me forget it. While I was with him I did, but when I'd get on the bus with Jim, I found out how miserable I really was.

After school closed I took pneumonia and almost died. I thought Jim would come to see me, but he didn't. Several times this summer I have seen him. He has said "Hello" but that is all. I told him one day I would like to see him sometime. He asked my girl friend later what I wanted, but she did not know. He then asked, "Can't she see I'm through? Why does she keep bothering me?"

I forgot to say that several months after we broke up he came to me and said he was sorry and that he "still did." I forgave him and we were friends again, but he soon lost interest and spoke only when the occasion necessitated.

I still love Jim and I would do anything in the world to get him back. My friends advise me to make him jealous, but that would be just what he wanted. Won't you tell me what to do? How can I make him love me again?

Thanking you, I am,
Sincerely,
"EDDIE."

Listen now to a few hard words. That little 17-year-old high school sheik will look like last year's hat to you some day, so come out of the trance now and spare yourself a lot of wasted energy. These affairs are all a part of growing up, just like the down on his upper lip which hopes some day to be a full-grown mustache or what have you. But no one in their right mind would look at that down and call it a mustache. So with these first love affairs. At best they are merely half-hearted promises of what life has in store. And any girl who takes a high school affair as her share of the world's romance is cheating herself, and is calling a downy lip a mustache.

No doubt this lad thinks well of himself. But he has small reason to do so. For even a baby of 17 should know better than to disgrace himself by sending any girl such a message as he sent you through your friend. He is an ill-bred, ill-natured bundle of infantile conceit.

Snap out of it, Eddie. Read the great romances of history and then tell me how the baby sheik measures up. Grow up gracefully.

IT WAS LOCKED

By JOHN HAWK.

READ THIS FIRST.

Robin Smith, young poet, accepts an invitation to a house party because Lady Gwendolen Winston, with whom he is desperately in love, will also be present. After quarreling with the Earl of Winston, Gwendolen's brother, and Donald Flint, her fiance, he locks the door of his bedroom and flees through the window back to his attic room. The Earl of Winston is missed, and on a search the earl's dead body is found under Robin's bed. The poet is arrested. Scotland Yard detectives return him to Alston Manor, the scene of the murder. He is questioned.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 16.

No, Robin Smith seemed from every point of view to be the guilty one. Inspector Linscott had been all morning gathering one damning fact after another, until the pile of accumulation of evidence against Robin was endless, it seemed. And that locked door could be explained in no other way. If only the door hadn't been locked. . . . But it was. There was no getting around that. And Robin had by his own admission locked it, and the key was found in his pocket. Lack of motive was a mere trifle as against that terrific, thoroughly overwhelming fact. The question of where the poet had obtained the knife was also relatively unimportant; that could be easily explained if Lord Winston had it with him, or had left it about the house. Unless some contrary evidence came up before the inquest, Inspector Linscott feared it would go hard with the young poet; and if he was guilty, this was as it should be. There was just that "if," and even as the inspector spun the web to catch him, he was not sure.

How he ever managed to live through the next 48 hours Robin never knew. After that ghastly attempt at a meal with the other guests, he had immediately retired to his own room, and never left it until he was forced to do so in order to attend the inquest, which was held in the square library in the Manor. During the two days of waiting Robin had seen only Lady Dorothy and the inspector. Linscott particularly had been his frequent visitor. The detective tried every finesse to trip him on his original story of his night's adventures, but when the time for the coroner's inquest arrived, the tale as he had first related it in his room in Mecklenburgh Square to the unbelieving Inspector Deemer was in no whit changed. As Robin reiterated: "It is the truth, sir; how can I add or change it?"

Two sleepless, distraught nights from which he awoke from the hour of early morning stupor of sheer exhaustion more weary than he went to bed; two days of interminably long hours were now at an end. It was Monday. The small enameled clock on his bedroom mantel pointed to ten minutes before 10. The inquest was set for 10.

Inspector Linscott had made his last appeal an hour before. He had urged him to think it over. This was his last chance, he had repeated. But Robin had only smiled quietly, secretly. And the inspector had left him more than ever convinced of his guilt. During the 48 hours no other clue had come up to divert the steady stream of suspicion from him. Robin had prayed that the stranger in the village might be located, but so far there had been no news of him. Again and again Robin had gone over the affair in his own mind, but he could see no light. It was as obvious to him, as to the others, that he was the natural, the inevitable suspect.

Robin had heard no news of Lady Gwendolen. He hesitated to ask, and neither Lady Dorothy, who was all that a sympathetic mother could have been to him, nor the inspector offered any information. Yet this lady of his desire was never far from his thoughts. Here his very life was in the balance, yet with an ardor which defied all explanation he found his tenderness for her growing with every passing hour; a sweet ecstacy filled him just because the same roof protected them. He prayed for her in her sorrow; and, above all, he prayed that he might be brave and strong in this his great trial, so that she should admire him as well as pity him. But he did not want maudlin pity, which was as distasteful to him as hostility; indeed, even more so. She might pity him, yes, but she must admire him, too. He must be a second Sidney Carton in her eye.

So, as the clock struck 10, Robin paused in front of the mirror to adjust his tie and give a final brush to his pale brown hair. Then, with a last look at the room which had been his for the last two days, he quickly ran down the stairs, and with brisk steps entered the library as if he were hurrying to keep an important engagement. He could even smile a little; it was easier now that the time had arrived. It was the waiting that had been so unbearable. Any known fate would have been better than that restless uncertainty. He might at least attain a decent, martyr-like resignation in the face of the worst. That was what he felt as the waiting eyes turned toward him, and he took his place beside the others: a martyr. And the role suited his poetic temperament.

The coroner is already in his seat when Robin makes his appearance. He is speaking to the twelve jurymen, who are ranged on his right in the high-backed mahogany dining chairs of Lady Dorothy's. The coroner has a writing table with a sturdy armchair on an improvised raised dais. There is an air of heavy solemnity which Robin finds oppressive. He hears the coroner shuffle his papers, and tell the jurymen that their first duty is to view the body; he sees them file out of a side door into the large sitting room which adjoins the library on the west, as one sees figures pass and repass in a dream. Lady Dorothy slips from her seat and bends over his shoulder to whisper some encouraging words. He raises thankful, troubled eyes to hers, but can not speak.

Then, quite suddenly, as he turns away from his kind hostess, his pale blue eyes look straight into the opaque black ones of his dreams, look deep into them and hold the glance for the fraction of a minute. Then the dark ones are lowered, and Robin finds himself staring at the adorable short black hair just where it turns so boyishly back from the high white brow. It is Lady Gwendolen just as he has dreamed of her; changed only in that her gaiety has been mixed with sadness, and there is an appealing wistfulness about her that was not there three days before. Robin's heart quite stops for an instant, then races on at a terrific pace. He thinks every one must hear it, and notice his reddening face.

But he is wrong. No one is looking at him. Every eye is on the twelve men who are filing back into their places. They are a singular group of persons, these good men and true, who are about to inquire into the death of Lord Winston. They are mostly farmers from the village below the Manor, with two or three small tradesmen and the local undertaker. Robin shudders involuntarily as he thinks that his life perhaps is in the hands of these twelve. What do they know? What can they know? God, to think that he, Robin Smith, the poet, should find his very life in the hands of such people. Honest, God-fearing subjects of the most gracious King, yes, but what could they know of poets? What chance would his fantastic story have of being believed by them?

As soon as they are again seated the coroner begins to address them in brief, concise sentences. He is telling them the nature of the matter which brings them to the Manor on this pleasant June morning. They do not listen attentively—gossip has already told them more than the coroner will see fit to tell today.

As Robin's eyes rove restlessly about, he encounters many strange faces; some belonging to gentlemen of the press, certainly. He had seen their kind before, and in what different circumstances! It had been his poems then, not his conduct, which was of paramount interest. Now they are here to inquire into his right to live. His right to live! Robin pales at the thought. And as he sits there with lowered eyes, so that he may not see the throng of faces about him, he hears the coroner coldly relating the finding of the body of the murdered lord. He dwells particularly on the locked door, or so it seems to Robin. How long and how deeply is he growing to regret that precipitate act, he wonders.

At last the coroner pauses in his steady flow of words, and sits back and stares speculatively at the people gathered about him. In everyday life he is the local chemist, friendly, smiling, gossipy to his neighbors; but today he is a person of consequence, a legal officer worthy of reverence. That he is conscious of the change is evident by his solemn, unbending air, as he views the assembled people.

"Lady Dorothy Alston!"

Lady Dorothy arises from the deep, comfortable chair behind Robin, and advances rapidly and nervously toward the coroner. She is dressed quietly in black, as on the two previous days. She stands in this her own library, her head thrown back imperiously, her dark eyes smoldering ominously, and waits for the questions which she knows she must answer.

Behind the Screens

—With NELSON B. BELL—

DESPITE the fact that "Up the River," at the Fox, has a very tough time trying to make up its mind whether it is a satirical comedy or a romantic melodrama, it turns out, in the large view, to be corking good entertainment.

It is bruited about that "Up the River" was originally planned by its producers to be a grim and grizzly drama of the less inspiriting aspects of life behind the bars, and Spencer Tracy, for that reason, was recruited from the leading role of "The Last Mile" to repeat for the films an approximation of his portrayal of "Killer" Mears. But just then "The Big House" came along to steal all of the thunder that the Fox opus might have caused to rumble across the screens of the world. So a quick decision to convert "Up the River" into a genial travesty was speedily reached and the Fox officials afforded the happiest moment of their executive lives by the discovery that Mr. Tracy, in addition to being a splendid delineator of serious roles, was a perfectly elegant comedian. And that Warren Hymer was, too.

It strikes me as delightfully droll that the ominous gray pile in which most of the action is laid should be called "Bensonatta," more suggestive of one of Mr. Cahill's flossy real estate developments, or a swagger Long Island estate, than of a place of penal servitude where restitution is made to society for transgression of the law; that the boys should retire their first night to the soft crooning of mellow and melodious voices; that the mascot of the penitentiary baseball team should be a zebra wearing vivid stripes; that one of the escaped "inmates" should have diverted himself listening to the radio while his pal cracked a safe in the adjoining room, and then been so cautious about closing the door quietly, and that Dannemora Dan should have thought the picture of Abraham Lincoln a likeness of his hostess' father!

If by any chance this might be accidental humor, evolved by Director John Ford on the spur of the moment to meet an emergency, it is to be hoped that others of the boys may meet with similar mishaps.

And since there is one more bouquet in stock, it might as well be hurled forthwith at the probably expectant brow of Sidney Franklin, for the excellence of his work in directing "A Lady's Morals," the medium of Grace Moore's debut upon the screen, now being accorded its world premiere at the Columbia.

There are only two minor defects that I can recall after having viewed the Jenny Lind film, and one of them was presumably not Mr. Franklin's fault. The first is so trivial as to be hardly worth mentioning, but still it seems to me in the blizzard scene, with which the picture opens, it would have been well to let a little snow blow into George Marion's modest inn, just to make it look like a storm. The other is the unbridled use of modern slang by Wallace Beery, in the role of P. T. Barnum. If they talked like that back in 1850 some of our present-day wisecrackers are not so hot.

Nevertheless, when the final score is cast up, "A Lady's Morals" assays 99.44 per cent pure artistry in its every visual quality. I am quite positive, however, that it is not light enough to float!

Although doing away with its orchestra under the new agreement recently arrived at with the Musicians Union, the Rialto Theater evidently intends to place itself in the van of those first-run houses featuring the pipe organ.

In addition to Morton Floodas, formerly featured at the Fox, the Rialto has engaged the services of Otto F. Beck, formerly at the Tivoli Theater and for many years one of the most popular radio artists taking the air through local stations.

The selection of these two would seem to betray keen sagacity on the part of Rialto management, since their conspicuous talents do not at all lie along an identical groove, although each is a consummate master of the intricacies of the console.

Speaking of the Rialto, James Carrier, managing director, makes known that Universal has just closed contracts for practically the entire output of Tiffany Pictures for the ensuing year.

Among the productions thus assured premiere presentation at the Ninth street house are "Circus Parade," a Jim Tully story, directed by James Cruze; Gene Stratton Porter's "The Girl of the Limberlost;" "Aloha Oe," an exotic and fiery love story of Hawaii, directed by Al Rogell; "Left Over Ladies," an original tale from the pen of Ursula Parrott, author of "Ex-Wife" and "Strangers May Kiss;" "The Barbarian," a thrilling yarn of North China by A. P. Younger; "The Unpardonable Sin," the Rupert Hughes novel already picturized as a silent film; "Moran of the Lady Letty," by Frank Norris; "She Got What She Wanted," a James Cruze production; "The Drums of Jeopardy," Harold McGrath's mystery story, and "Extravagance," to be shown in the near future with June Colyer, Lloyd Hughes and Owen Moore in the cast.

And from Mr. Olsen's daily budget we learn that:

A special Halloween program is being planned for next week at the Fox. Many unusual stage attractions will be added to the regular bill to lend the entertainment a distinctly witches-pumpkins-and-black-cat atmosphere, thus aiding the Police and Street Cleaning Departments by luring a few more confetti throwers off the thoroughfares.

Sam Jack Kaufman will inaugurate an indefinite return engagement as master of ceremonies on Friday, October 24, which is by way of being this week. Mr. Kaufman, it will be remembered, has more trick gestures in his blonde repertoire than Sousa has medals or Leon Brusiloff has hair!

The Fox Free Dancing School has knocked off the 18-year age limit and is now open to all and sundry who care to join. Miss Helen Kearney, chief instructress, I understand, will only insist that beards be trimmed to knee length and crutches checked in the hall.

And Eddie Cantor contributes this to the midget-car gags:

A chap was riding as the guest of a friend in one, when, turning to the driver, he suddenly remarked: "It's dark; we must be going through a tunnel."

"Tunnel, hell!" snapped the owner, "we're under a truck!"

Try to stop me if you've heard it!

Pajamas for Dinner Smart in New York

New York, Oct. 20 (A.P.).—Many smart New York hostesses have stepped out of skirts and into pajamas for informal dinner parties attended only by their family and intimate friends. One of the fashionable costumes seen this winter consists of canary-yellow satin trousers, flaring sharply from the knee; a cloth of gold vest and a white and gold brocade jacket edged with beaver.

Fifth Ave. Fashions

NEW YORK

This adorable French blue linen frock, adds two gathered ruffles for its brief skirt. And it tops the ruffles with a spotted blue and white grosgrain ribbon tie belt. A matching bow adorns the neck.

As wee maids of 2, 4 and 6 years love to be sleeveless, the armholes are finished with bindings of self fabric. However, a desire for long sleeves may be fulfilled as seen in miniature back view.

Style No. 511 takes but 1¼ yards of 39-inch material with 2¼ yards of 2-inch ribbon and 1½ yards of binding, for the 4-year-old.

Dotted Swiss, printed batiste, sprigged crossbarred dimity, gingham checks, pastel wool jersey and pin dotted cotton broadcloth are cute ideas for this beruffled model.

Is Mother of Eight

"The first year after I got married I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because I was so weak that the minute I would start to do something I would feel badly. It did me a lot of good. Since then I have taken the Vegetable Compound off and on whenever I needed it. I am now the mother of eight children and I still recommend this medicine for it makes me feel younger and stronger."—Mrs. Oreance Godfrey, 103 Cumberland Street, Woonsocket, Rhode Island.

Circus Performer Hit By Automobile Dies

Special to The Washington Post.

Lynchburg, Va., Oct. 20.—After living more than a week with the major part of his skull missing, Jack Talsmini, 39, a circus performer, died late Sunday at Lynchburg Hospital. He was hurt when struck by an automobile in Fort avenue and an operation at Lynchburg Hospital relieved brain pressure and consciousness returned.

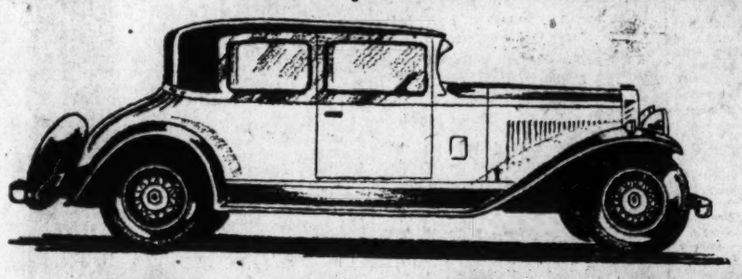
It was thought until Saturday night that he would recover. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Ida Bell Talamini, and a sister, Mrs. Angela Seavers, both of Lynchburg.

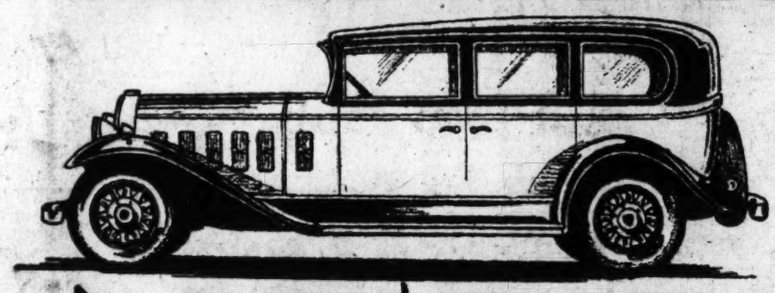
$22 Robbery Brings 30-Year Terms to Two

Clarksburg, W. Va., Oct. 20.—Sentence of 30 years each in the Moundsville Penitentiary was imposed today in Circuit Court at Harrisville by Judge S. O. Prunty upon James, 24, and John Boggess, 22, brothers, for walking into a chain grocery at Pennsboro five days ago, holding up the manager and two clerks with revolvers and escaping with $22.80 taken from cash registers.

The brothers were captured the day after the robbery, indicted by a special grand jury Saturday and sentenced this morning on their pleas of guilty.

What LaSalle is to Cadillac the NEW Orange AMERICAN GAS is to AMOCO-GAS





IF initial cost determines the car you buy, you can always obtain satisfactory performance in a lower price class. But if you want real luxury and still better performance, you'll have to pay a higher price.

It's the same thing with buying fuel for your car. If price per gallon determines your choice, there's Orange American Gas--giving the user of regular-priced gas the best performance in that price class. But if low cost per mile is your yardstick and you want the best possible motor performance, there's Amoco-Gas, sold at a higher price because it does more and is worth more.

The choice is yours. And whether you buy Amoco-Gas or Orange American Gas, you're going to get good, dependable performance because each is the best that the market affords at its respective price.

$144,968 ACCOUNTED FOR IN BOB'S ASSETS

Balance of $5,000,000 Paid to Chromium Firm Not Found.

MANHUNT IS PUSHED

New York, Oct. 20 (A.P.).—Records accounting for only $144,968 of more than $5,000,000 invested in stock of the Consolidated Chromium Corporation, an enterprise sponsored by Charles V. Bob, missing stock promoter, were discovered today by investigators of the State Bureau of Securities.

Watson Washburn, assistant attorney general, in charge of the bureau, said the $5,000,000 was turned over to Consolidated Chromium by Metal & Mining Founders Shares, Inc., another Bob project. A search to trace disposition of the balance of that sum has begun.

It was announced that application for an injunction to forbid further sale of stock by Metal & Mining Shares, Inc., and Metal & Mining Founders Shares, Inc., which was to have been filed today in Brooklyn Supreme Court would be made tomorrow.

Scrutiny of the incorporation papers of Consolidated Chromium, Washburn said, showed Louis P. Jubien, treasurer of Metal & Mining Shares, was also treasurer and secretary of the Chromium company. Consolidated Chromium acquired from Jubien claims on various Chromium properties in the Thunder Bay district of Ontario, Canada, in exchange for 500,000 shares of Class A stock and 1,000,000 shares of common stock of the corporation.

Washburn said he expected his investigation to disclose that the $5,000,000 was paid by Metal & Mining Founders Shares and Metal & Mining Shares directly for this stock. The $144,968 accounted for, he said, was spent on roads, camps, equipment and surveys of the Canadian properties.

Meanwhile State troopers and private detectives employed by the Bob family continued a search for the promoter, who dropped from sight October 5 in Chicago. He was accompanied by Frederick Russell, a business associate, and Dean Lamb, pilot of Bob's private airplane. The three flew to Chicago from New York, and although the plane has been found in the Chicago municipal hangar, no trace has been found of its passengers.

Doomed Slayer Kills Self With Crude Bomb

San Quentin Prison, Calif., Oct. 20 (A.P.).—William Kogut, slayer awaiting execution here, died today from self-inflicted injuries caused by the explosion of a crudely made steam bomb yesterday.

Kogut stuffed a hollow pipe, taken from his bed, with water and torn bits of playing cards. The ends of the pipe were closed with pieces of broom handle. He placed the pipe over an oil heater in his cell. Steam shattered the pipe and caused severe head injuries. The condemned man was convicted of slaying Mrs. Mayme Guthrie, Oroville, Calif., rooming house owner.

Famous French Flier And Aid Die in Crash

Liege, Belgium, Oct. 20 (A.P.).—Two French aviators were killed when the airplane in which they were flying was wrecked here just before noon today. Col. Happe, first French pilot of a bombing plane to achieve fame during the World War, was one of the victims. His companion, Roger Huet, was a military pilot.

Happe, of the Twelfth Regiment, French Flying Corps, at Rheims, and Huet, met their death just before noon when the wings broke off their airplane and the fuselage fell separately at a point called "the Gibbet." One of Happe's exploits was the destruction of a powder mill at Rottweil, Germany. He was commander of the Legion of Honor.

Flier Who Crashed Arrested.

Orshi, White Russia, Oct. 20 (A.P.). Felix Lojero, French flier, who cracked up his plane October 18 near here in an attempted flight from Paris to Ufa, was arrested today on charges of flying over Russia without a permit. He will be brought to Moscow for interrogation.

Celebration at Yorktown Hears Cramton's Address

Two Governors, D. A. R. Officials, Colonial Costumed Girls, Soldiers, Sailors, Mark 149th Anniversary of Cornwallis' Surrender.

Yorktown, Va., Oct. 20 (A.P.).—Yorktown, the little fishing village where Cornwallis surrendered to Washington, today harkened again to the tramp of soldiers' and sailors' feet and utterances of patriotism.

The scene of many a demonstration since the last military gesture of the Revolutionary War occurred here 149 years ago, Yorktown was host today to distinguished guests who came from up and down the Atlantic Coast and from remote sections of the land.

Two governors, Pollard of Virginia, and Tobey of New Hampshire, headed the group that made the pilgrimage. Including Virginia, there were representatives from 11 of the 13 original States present for the anniversary exercises, in addition to officials of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps, and patriotic organizations.

The exercises were held under auspices of the Comte de Grasse Chapter, D. A. R., with Mrs. Elizabeth Fox Madison, vice regent of the chapter, and Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart, of Ohio, president general of the National Society, D. A. R., presiding.

The hamlet presented a brilliant spectacle. Through the flag-draped streets trouped girls in colonial costumes, and uniformed officers and men of the three service branches, while at anchor in York River were the naval cruisers Trenton and Chester with parade colors run up.

Representative Louis C. Cramton, of Michigan, who sponsored the law making Yorktown, Jamestown and Williamsburg an interconnected shrine, exalted the hundreds assembled to a greater appreciation of their privileges and opportunities. He was the principal speaker of the day.

"The great need," said Mr. Cramton, "is to realize that democracy is not automatic, that today we are building tomorrow. We must realize that in a democracy law must be supreme; that when a people make their own laws, if they will not obey those laws, there will come a time when they will submit to a power that can enforce obedience."

He commented that persons in high stations are saying daily that the laws of the land, even the Constitution, are not enforceable.

The sesquicentennial celebration of the anniversary next year will be an international event. Invitations have been extended the major nations of the world to take part in the four-day ceremony.

REGISTRY CHARGES GIVEN GRAND JURY

Judge Moss, at Annapolis, Sees Perjury if Tales Told Him Are True.

CAPITAL MEN AFFECTED

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 20.—Controversy over alleged fraud in the recent registration of voters in certain sections of Anne Arundel County, in which a large number of Washingtonians are involved, came to a definite head today from two sources.

Judge Robert Moss, presiding in the local Circuit Court, charging the grand inquest at the opening of the October term, asserted that if reports brought to him are true, persons so registered, as well as those who swore to affidavits as to residence of applicants, are guilty of perjury, and he demands a thorough investigation.

Simultaneously, attorneys representing the Republican State central committee of Maryland and local Republican leaders filed a group of 325 appeals from the recent alleged illegal registration ruling, and these will be passed upon by Judge Moss within a few days.

Ninety per cent of the 325 are residents of the District of Columbia. Judge Moss directed attention to the State constitution and an act of the last General Assembly, which provides for one year's residence in the county and declaration of intention a like period in advance for persons desiring to vote in the county.

The judge said he had also been told that in some instances Washington voters had merely been introduced to residents, two in number, and the latter in turn, swore affidavits of alleged residence, as required by law, in order that names of applicants might be enrolled on the books.

In practically every instance of the alleged bogus registration, the registrants are persons owning summer homes in waterfront sections of the county. The law is plain, Judge Moss said, that one year residence must prevail.

The attorneys who filed registration appeals are Ernest Fadum, the Republican candidate for State's attorney of Baltimore; Wendell D. Allen, and Noah A. Hillman, also of Baltimore. They acted, respectively, for Orville W. McNamara, of the Seventh District; George H. McNamara, of the Seventh District, and Wilbur F. Petheridge, of the Eighth District, all Republicans.

15 Injured as Police Charge India Rioters

Bombay, Oct. 20 (A.P.).—Fifteen persons were injured, three seriously, when police charged into a crowd of demonstrators on the Chaupati sands today, breaking up a celebration to congratulate the civil disobedience leader Jawarhalal Nahru. Rearrested at Allahabad after his recent release from prison.

Prohibition had been placed upon such meetings. When the crowd refused to disperse the police charged with their staves. Several arrests were made. Among the prisoners were the vice president of the all-Indian congress war council and the head of the Nationalist militia.

Woman Dead, Husband Tied in Blazing Room

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 20 (A.P.).—The slaying of Mrs. John Turtado, 30, the finding of her husband, bound, gagged, and suffering from bruises and burns and what was believed to have been an incendiary fire in Furtado's apartment, yesterday was under investigation today.

Firemen were forced to break their way in. It was then the tragedy was discovered.

Furtado, at Cambridge Hospital, denied he knew anything of the cause of the fire.

GEN. KENNEDY'S RITES.

Late Officer to Be Buried in Arlington Today With Full Honors.

(Associated Press.)

The War Department yesterday announced that funeral services for the late Brig. Gen. James M. Kennedy, a native of Abbeville County, S. C., will be held today at 10 a. m. at the Fort Myer, Va., chapel. Full military honors will accompany the interment at Arlington National Cemetery.

Brig. Gen. Kennedy died at Letterman General Hospital in San Francisco, October 15. Honorary pallbearers are Maj. Gen. Merritte W. Ireland, surgeon general; Brig. Gen. C. R. Darnall, assistant surgeon general; Cols. A. E. Truby and W. L. Keller; Lieut. Col. E. R. Gentry and Maj. C. M. Reddig.

Filching of Apples Laid to Newlyweds

Special to The Washington Post

Luray, Va., Oct. 20.—Impressed by the expected rigors of the approaching winter, C. P. Campbell and wife, newlyweds, essayed to take charge of a carload of apples in the Roudabusch commercial orchards on the outskirts today. They had neither "leave nor license" for the confiscation.

They were overhauled with their load of apples on the northern suburbs of Luray, one mile from their home in the eastern part of the town. Campbell and his wife were landed in jail by local officers, whom they informed they were sadly in need of the fruit for apple butter, canning, etc. The couple was recently married, walking 14 miles from their home in the Massanutten Mountains of this county to Luray for a marriage license.

Fort McHenry Will Not Contain Jail for Wets

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 20 (A.P.).—Attorney General William D. Mitchell today informed Representative J. Charles Linthicum the Federal Government would not use the Fort McHenry property here as a jail for violators of the prohibition laws.

Following the suggestion a week ago that such a step would be taken to relieve the crowded condition in Federal prisons protests were voiced by several patriotic organizations. Opposition was voiced today by the legion auxiliary, the Federal Radio Service, now at the fort and William C. Atwood, Republican candidate for Congress.

« A CROSS-SECTION OF CURRENT CONVERSATIONS IN CONOCOLAND »

"LET ME TELL YOU: I CAN NOTICE A REAL DIFFERENCE SINCE I STARTED USING THIS GERM-PROCESSED OIL"

. . . and so it goes. At home, on the golf course, around the bridge table, people are talking about the new CONOCO Germ-Processed Motor Oil. Their comments are invariably friendly, and should you take a stand on some other lubricant, you will soon find a tinge of evangelism in the arguments that face you. For how can the use of any other oil be justified?

Conoco Germ-Processed oil is the first really new oil of this century. The first oil conceived to overcome the failings of all mineral oils. The first regular stock motor oil, under the Supervision of the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association, to prove its superiority in the Pike's Peak Tests against three other nationally known oils. And again, in the Indianapolis and Altoona Races first to "place" in the money where no other stock oil had previously placed, at speeds of from 92 to 120 miles per hour . . . and the only motor lubricant that provides "penetrative lubricity" for your motor.

Conoco Germ-Processed Motor Oil will serve you better, protect your motor more surely, and save you money withal. So why use a feebler lubricant, when this test-proven, sturdiest of all motor oils awaits you . . . at the Sign of the Red Triangle?

CONTEST BOARD AAA CERTIFIED TEST

Following the Pike's Peak Tests, where Conoco Germ-Processed Motor Oil was tested side by side with three other popular, nationally known oils, the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association issued Certificate of Performance number 2268, comprising 14 points, of which the point below is one.

POINT NO. 6

"That using the subject oil and during each test, greater gasoline mileage for economy was obtained than during the use of the comparables."

OCTOBER 21, 1905.

The engagement to Bishop Earl Cranston, head of the Methodist Church in Washington, to Miss Lucie Mason Parker, of Cincinnati, was announced.

More than a score of crooks, housebreakers, pickpockets and other undesirable characters, coming to Washington after plying their trade at the Winchester Fair, were met at the station by detectives who spotted them and chased them out of town.

Capt. Eugene Leutze assumed his duties as new commandant of the Washington Navy Yard.

Rear Admiral H. N. Manney, chief of the Bureau of Equipment of the Navy Department, left Washington for the Pacific Coast to inspect the coaling stations there.

Witnesses called to testify in the case of Sergt. William T. Anderson, of the Anacostia substation, told the Police Trial Board that they had been offered substantial bribes if they would falsify damaging evidence against the policeman on a vice charge. He was exonerated.

The Washington section of the Council of Jewish Women celebrated its tenth anniversary at the Eighth Street Temple, with a huge birthday cake, a musical program, and a general good time for all.

MILLS, IRKED BY TEAM'S SPIRIT, TO SHUFFLE LINE-UP

Westbrook Pegler Says

AT least one reason why I like Mr. Will Roper, the Princeton football coach, is that he lets fly so many arguments which I find it easy to make gay with and refute on midweek days when it is still 24 hours too early to tell of the miraculous convalescene of those athletes who were to have been out of the ensuing Saturday's big game due to major injuries, but who, somehow, will be able to struggle onto the field after all.

Mr. Roper recently denounced nocturnal football as a hippdrome, giving me occasion to point out that not only life and government but even death is pretty much a hippodrome, as witness the burial orgies of two of the presidents, who were dragged across the country with mournful eclat, as a party measure, and of Dion O'Banion, the gangster, and Rudy Valentino.

Now Mr. Roper predicts that intercollegiate football will die an unpleasant, lingering death because, among other reasons, the players are accorded or subjected to a volume of publicity which affects their perspective and handicaps them all the way through life.

Coaches, Not Players, Get the Publicity.

This is going to be fun because the people who get most of the publicity out of football are not the players but the coaches, of whom Mr. Roper is one, although he won't be long now, and the coaches are such shrewd masters of the art of hippodrome, which is a twin word for ballyhoo, that they no sooner find themselves well advertised at the expense of their players than they promptly turn to and market their reputations in strokes of commerce which the players themselves would regard as presumptuous, undignified, immodest and inconsistent with the ideals and purposes of amateur sport.

I am fairly conversant with newspaper names at the present time and I should say that there is not one player on Mr. Roper's own team at Princeton who will receive this year one-fiftieth of the publicity that Mr Roper, himself, will derive from his position as coach, and this at a time when publicity is not likely to warp his perspective but only to enhance his professional prestige in Philadelphia, where he is a minor statesman.

Thinking it over, I find that the football players are receding further and further toward blank anonymity as the coaches, of whom Mr. Roper has been one for some years, capitalize their positions and the reputation of the universities which they happen to be serving to a degree far beyond the most notorious commercialism of the most famous of the players.

Roper Slightly Aloof Toward Coaches.

As to Mr. Roper, himself, however, I would make this reservation that he has always maintained a somewhat clannish alliance with his players and a slightly aloof attitude toward those coaches who are coaches of his trade and nothing more. He has been a coach in fact without being a coach by vocation and I am sure that if he had been the commercial opportunist that some of the coaches have been he could have imposed on the fair name of Princeton to the extent of a fine practice in vaudeville, indorsements, sporting equipment, personally conducted tours to Europe and Florida, and journalistic giblets.

I am aware that he did, for a time, produce a weekly forecast of the football scores for syndication but, having a sense of proportion, he always seemed to take thought of the imponderables, and larded his predictions with so many ifs and ands that the stuff became a professional jest. He seemed ill-at-ease in this role, as though sensible that the royalties from such work were not properly earned income but pickings, and, on the whole, of all the big coaches in the country, I would select him as the least mercenary and the most idealistic.

Players Usually Unidentified.

Still, in any thought of the Princeton Team this fall, the name of Bill Roper is the first one to suggest itself and after his name you are likely to stammer for a time trying to think of the name of some player on the team, illustrating my point that the coaches are publicized beyond their best players by 50 lines of newsprint to 1. The ratio would be a thousand to one at some schools, such as Notre Dame, Stanford and New York University, but I am dealing in average cases, not extremes, and I hope I have shown that the football players, as a class, are just so many unidentified men, lumped together under such generic names as Coach So-and-So's team.

Sacrifice Fly Rule Hit by Barnard

League Head to Seek Change, Eliminating "Absurd" Rule.

Would Give Credit to Batter Only for Intentional Bunt.

CHICAGO, Oct. 20 (A.P.).—President E. S. Barnard, of the American League, today said he would seek elimination of the sacrifice fly from the major-minor baseball rules when the joint rules committee meets next December.

Under present rules, any fly ball that advances a runner one or more bases, whether intentional or not, is counted as a sacrifice. President Barnard seeks to eliminate it from the rules altogether and count only an intentional bunt, which advances a runner, as a sacrifice.

"The sacrifice fly is one of the most absurd rules in baseball," President Barnard explained. "Almost every time one is hit, it is merely a stroke of luck. The batter gets up and swings and if he is lucky enough to hit a long fly that advances a good runner one base, he is credited with a sacrifice and no time at bat."

For many years, only an intentional bunt was scored as a sacrifice when advancing a runner.

Paris Sports Emporium To Be Built in Spring

Paris, Oct. 20 (A.P.).—The cornerstone of the Paris Sports Palace likely will be laid next spring.

The idea, discussed here for many years, finally has reached the stage of realization.

Jeff Dickson, American boxing promoter, announces that he has raised the capital here in France.

The plan is to build a place large enough for ice hockey, indoor track and field sports, miniature golf, fencing and various other tournaments besides boxing.

Big Shift in Managers Looms in Texas League

Dallas, Tex. Oct. 20 (A.P.).—Sweeping changes in team managers in the Texas League next year are rumored here.

Two pilots have tossed in the sponge and it is considered likely not more than two of this year's leaders will retain their post.

Art Phelan of the Shreveport Sports, and Jake Atz, of Dallas, were the first to resign.

Phelan is expected to manage Fort Worth next year in the place of Frank Snyder, who may go to the International League

Hap Morse probably will replace Atz.

George Burns is reported to be through at San Antonio and Carl Williams has indicated he has had enough at Wichita Falls.

Dell Baker is regarded as a fixture at Beaumont for another year, and Texas League fans expect the St. Louis Cardinals to retain Joe Shultz as manager of their farm team, Houston.

GELBERT NOW MAGGIE.

Charley Gelbert, St. Louis Cardinal shortstop, now is called "Maggie." The boys found out from his father in the world's series that his real name is "Magnus."

Heston's Sons Meet; One Through for Year

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 18 (A.P.).—Two sons of Willie Heston, the Wolverines' great plunging back, collided here in scrimmage, and now one won't play any more football this season.

Willie Heston, jr., is one of the backs of the varsity team. Jack Heston is a freshman enrolled in the physical education department.

In a scrimmage between the varsity and freshmen teams, Jack threw his plunging brother for no gain. It was a hard tackle.

After the game, he discovered that the collision had opened the incision of a recent operation for appendicitis.

MD. EXPECTS TO DEFEAT CADETS

Byrd Drills Reserves; V. M. I. Lost Stars of Last Year.

WITH all of its regulars in good physical condition, Maryland looks forward confidently to the clash with V. M. I. in Richmond next Saturday. The Old Line expects to atone for a 7-to-6 beating received last year when the Cadet Eleven scored a late touchdown and added the extra point.

V. M. I. this season admittedly is weaker than a year ago. It lost ten out of nineteen letter men by graduation. The loss of Hawkins, one of the South's best backs, in this manner, was the biggest blow.

Coach Byrd plans to drill his reserves hard this week, for it was noticeable in the St. John's game last Saturday that they were not properly carrying out their assignments. The regulars performed in acceptable fashion and secured enough points to gain the decision in spite of the Johnnies' last quarter assault on the reserves.

Berger to Return To Line-Up.

Bozey Berger, flashy half back, will return to action against V. M. I. as a starter. He had been so much worn physically by the Yale and North Carolina tussles that Byrd ordered him to rest last week.

In all likelihood Bill Evans, Maryland's most dependable player, will continue in the starting line-up at full back. Prior to the St. John's clash Byrd had been keeping Evans on the bench to study the opposing team for the first quarter or half and then sending him into action with plans for attacking the enemy's weak spots.

PREPARE INDOOR GRID.

Atlantic City, N. J., Oct. 20.—It will take only two days to prepare the "field" for the unique indoor game between Lafayette and Washington and Jefferson here Saturday night, but preparations have been going on for a long time. Forty freight cars are required to haul the earth which will be used for the playing surface.

Boxer Is Found Dead After Collapse in Ring

New York, Oct. 20 (N.Y.W.N.S.). Carl Baldus, light heavyweight boxer of this city, collapsed in the ring of the New Lenox Sports Club tonight and when examined by the club's physician, Dr. Perry Lichtenstein, he was found to be dead.

Baldus was engaging in a scheduled four-round preliminary bout with Larry Hogan and dropped to the floor in the third round without being hit. To ringside observers the fight was even until the unexpected ending.

Van Liew, N. C. State Football Coach, Resigns

Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 20 (A.P.).—John M. Van Liew, head football coach at North Carolina State College, today tendered his resignation. It was accepted by Dr. E. C. Brooks, president.

Van Liew, a graduate of Grinnell College, came to North Carolina State this fall from Peru, where last year he directed a Government athletic program. He succeeded Gus Tebell, who joined the University of Virginia coaching staff.

After winning its opening game from High Point College, North Carolina State lost three games in a row. Last week college athletic authorities announced Dr. Ray Sermon, director of athletics, had been placed in active charge of the team, but that Van Liew would continue as his assistant. Dr. Sermon will continue as coach of the team.

WEDDING DAY CHANGED.

London, Oct. 20 (A.P.).—Miss Joan Fry, British international tennis player, will be married to Tom Ashley Lakeman, lieutenant in the Royal Tank Corps, on November 12 instead of December 10. The date has been advanced on account of the bridegroom's military duties.

Miss Fry won the British women's singles title in the hard court tennis championships last May and then with partners took the women's doubles and mixed double.

NORTHERNS CARD DRILL.

The Northern unlimiteds will practice tonight on the Silver Spring gridiron. A short session also will be held Thursday night at the same place.

G. W. SEEKING TO AVENGE DEFEAT

Pixlee Prepares Colonials for Dickinson Here Saturday.

GEORGE WASHINGTON will get its first opportunity of avenging one of a string of 1929 defeats when it engages Dickinson Saturday night in Griffith Stadium. Dickinson, which eked out a 7-to-6 victory over the Buff and Blue last fall, is the first of last year's opponents to be faced by Jim Pixlee's current edition.

That the Colonials will succeed Saturday in evening the score with Dickinson seems at this time almost certain, if any faith can be placed in 1930 performances to date. The records obviously favor George Washington.

In four games Dickinson has won only once, having beaten the Carlisle (Pa.) Army Team by a score of 19 to 7 at the beginning of the season. Losses have been incurred in games with Juniata, Ursinus and Muhlenberg, but none was overwhelming.

Defeated Last Week In Final Minutes.

Against Muhlenberg last Saturday Dickinson battled on even terms until the last five minutes, when the opposing team put over one touchdown and an extra point.

It is reported that Dickinson is slightly stronger than in 1929, but not to the degree that George Washington enjoys. The Colonial Eleven has won only once in three games to date (losing and tying in the others), but its most recent contest, that with South Dakota University, proved that Pixlee's team is improving steadily.

There is no doubt that South Dakota is above the level of Dickinson in a football sense; and George Washington, though unable to cross the Coyote goal line, did, however, take the ball three times into the visitors' 10-yard zone.

As a result of an injury to "Obie" O'Brien in the South Dakota game, Pixlee probably will shuffle his lineup a bit this week. Bob Galloway likely will take O'Brien's tackle position, with Lyle Sturtevant moving into Galloway's wing post.

Pixlee said yesterday that for the time being "Bugs" Bagranoff, husky lineman, would be retained in the back field, at full back, because of his superior line-crashing ability. Bagranoff started in at full back against South Dakota and registered several nice gains with his terrific plunging.

Golf Sponsors May Break With Pros

Coast Groups Refuse to Donate 10 Pct. to P. G. A.

Players' Body Says Stars Will Stay Out of Tourneys.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 20 (A.P.).—A revolt of open golf tournament promoters against the Professional Golfers Association of America Tournament Bureau was brewing today, having been started with the announcement by the Long Beach (Calif.) Junior Chamber of Commerce that the $3,500 Long Beach open had been canceled.

The Los Angeles Junior Chamber of Commerce, sponsor of the $10,000 Los Angeles open, defied the P. G. A. Bureau in a letter refusing to give 10 per cent of the prize money to the association.

Other members of the California winter open golfing group appeared ready to kick over the traces. Pasadena and Glendale tournament promoters signified their intention of standing by the Los Angeles Junior Chamber of Commerce. The California winter tournaments post a total of $61,000 in prizes.

Players Solicited Last Year.

Last year the Tournament Bureau, with headquarters in Chicago, asked professional golfers to contribute 10 per cent of their winnings to the upkeep of the bureau. This year, with Robert Harlow in charge of the bureau, the decision was made to request tournament promoters to give 10 per cent of the posted prizes, because certain winning golfers had failed to donate.

Harlow, in presenting his request to promoters, said the money was to be used to assist the financing of tournaments in other sections to fill out the open tournament schedule.

The Los Angeles Junior Chamber of Commerce, through Cliff Rawson, secretary manager, said it was not agreeable, after spending $3,000 annually to advertise its tournament and posting the prizes to contribute $1,000 to build up a string of money tournaments in other sections.

Ultimatum to Cities Which Do Not Pay.

Harlow in a letter to A. H. Painter, Southern California tournament director, said he had no intention of antagonizing the "Southern California gentlemen who have been kind enough to put up a large amount of the prize money for the professionals," but "we do not intend to do all the work and then take what the boys decide to give us." He added "those cities which do not wish to pay will simply have to get along without our services."

Long Beach tournament officials said the demand was "the last straw."

Rawson said "I have letters from Salt Lake City, San Francisco, Glendale and Pasadena, all of which I am sure are declining the 10 per cent. If Walter Hagen, Horton Smith, Tommy Armour and the others want to stay out, it is perfectly all right with us. The Los Angeles tournament will be held for those who will play."

Rawson said the Southern California tournaments had been organized to stimulate the game and advertise it in this district.

Rockne Drills Reserves After Darkness Falls

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 20 (A.P.).—Knute Rockne gave Notre Dame's regulars the usual Monday respite from work today, but busied himself with the reserves. The latter were drilled until after dark on Pittsburgh plays and it was necessary to employ the ghost ball.

Ike Voedisch and Heartly Anderson, a pair of Rockne's assistant coaches, who scouted Pitt last week, reported that the Panthers have a large repertoire of intricate stuff, and that it will require the whole week to prepare a defense. The Irish came out of the Carnegie Tech triumph in excellent condition.

Yale Star Undergoes Operation to Save Eye

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 20 (A.P.).—A delicate operation was performed in a hospital here today to save the left eye of Charlie Snead, Yale half back, who was hurt in practice and had the injury aggravated in the Maryland game two weeks ago.

Dr. Eugene M. Blake, describing the operation as "serious," said tonight that his patient was responding favorably and that he believed it would be entirely successful.

While no definite announcement has been made, it is believed that the football days of Snead, the only Yale man ever to win three major Y's as a sophomore, are over. He is a senior.

Besides football, he plays baseball and hockey. His home is in Montclair, N. J.

ON EASTERN GRIDIRONS

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 20 (A.P.). Princeton's football regulars had a day of rest today, but the reserves, including a few who played against Cornell, went through a long and hard practice. Langdon Lea and Stan Purnell, out since the Amherst game, were on the field and probably will play against Navy.

Army Drill Light For Yale Game.

West Point, N. Y., Oct. 20 (A.P.).—Calisthenics and limbering up exercises composed Army's drill today in preparation for the Yale game. There were no serious injuries in the gruelling battle with Harvard, although most of the regulars were nursing bruises.

Meehan Drives N. Y. U. For Fordham.

New York, Oct. 20 (A.P.).—With Fordham's unbeaten eleven next on the program, Chick Meehan wasted no time getting his New York University Team down to serious work. A two-hour workout was scheduled today with a dummy scrimmage the big feature.

75,000 to See Pitt Play Notre Dame.

Pittsburgh, Oct. 20 (A.P.).—Franklin Hood and Jesse Quates took such a pounding in the Syracuse game that they may not be able to play against Notre Dame. Pitt officials announced a sell out for Saturday's battle, with a crowd of 75,000 confidently expected.

Yale's Casuals On Field.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 20 (A.P.).—Vincent, Hare, Flygare and McLennan, all of whom have been expected to keep away from the football field for a few days to recover from injuries, appeared for Yale's practice today. Lindenberg, an end, however, will not play against Army. He suffered a wrenched leg in the game with Georgia.

Colgate's Reserves Given Workout.

Hamilton, N. Y., Oct. 20 (A.P.).—Colgate's reserves went through a perfunctory workout today as the regulars were given a holiday to recover from the losing game with Michigan State. Hard work for the Penn State will start tomorrow.

Two Changes Made By Penn State.

State College, Pa., Oct. 20 (A.P.).—Two changes were made in Penn State's line-up today, Bob Snyder returning to a varsity half back post and Martz to right end, replacing Edwards, hurt in the scoreless tie with Lafayette.

Old Dartmouth Stars Warn of Harvard.

Hanover, N. H., Oct. 20 (A.P.).—Four old Dartmouth stars, Jennings, Dorsey, Robinson and Donnelly, returned to Hanover today to warn the Indians that they have no better than an even chance to beat Harvard. Len Clark and Arnie Frigard, crack back field men, will not be able to play.

Brown Demotes Four Regulars.

Providence, R. I., Oct. 20 (A.P.).—Four Brown regulars, Horton, Schneider, Gillies and Schein, were demoted to the second eleven in today's workout for the Holy Cross game. Wiley, a center, went to center.

Harvard to Boast Full Strength.

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 20 (A.P.).—For the first time this season, Harvard will be at full strength for Saturday's battle with Dartmouth. Mays and Devens, star backs, will resume practice Wednesday, while Ogden and Talbot will rejoin the squad tomorrow.

Michigan State Students Strike for Celebration

East Lansing, Mich., Oct. 20 (A.P.). Michigan State College students today went on a strike and refused to attend classes the first two hours in celebration of their football team's 14 to 7 victory over Colgate Saturday. President Robert S. Shaw later declared all classes would be dismissed after 3 o'clock for a celebration in front of the State capitol. Informed of the president's ruling, students returned to their classes at 10 o'clock.

CENTENNIALS TO MEET.

Centennial players will meet on the corner of North Capitol street and New York avenue at 7 o'clock tonight to leave in a group for the Fourth street and Florida avenue field, where a short practice session will be held.

PURDUE HAS LARGE SQUAD.

Purdue has a squad of 76 men this year.

Hilltop Coach Threatens Changes

Charges Lack of Fight and Aggressiveness Against W. Md.

Praises Playing of E. Bozek, Dubofsky and Danieu.

By JACK ESPEY.

TOM MILLS, Georgetown head coach, intends to have a fighting team if not one that is highly proficient. This, Mills plainly indicated yesterday when he declared he was going to make changes in his line-up for the West Virginia game, based solely on the value of his charges from a standpoint of spirit.

Mills was greatly displeased, he said, with the spirit—or lack of spirit—shown by several of the regulars in the Western Maryland clash last Saturday. While he refused to name the guilty parties, he promised that these players will give way to others more aggressive. Perhaps, by studying the line-up that takes the field against the Mountineers in Griffith Stadium Friday night, one might learn just who Mills has indicted.

Questions Players' Fighting Spirit.

Emile Bozek, substitute half back; Maurice Dubofsky, left guard, and Russell Danieu, right half back, received Mills' approval of their efforts against Western Maryland. He stated in no uncertain terms that most of the other Hilltoppers had not evidenced a willingness to put their all into the battle.

"If all of our players had kept fighting all the way, I believe that we would have won," Mills averred. "I rate fighting spirit as important as mechanical ability," he added.

Mills has a different outlook this week. He expects Georgetown to win. Reports from Morgantown that West Virginia is strnoger than in 1929 are not worrying the Hilltop chief one whit.

Four Casuals To Return.

Four men who were incapacitated, or nearly so, last week are being counted on to be ready and fit for service Friday night. They are Bill Maczees, left half back, whose lip was deeply cut in practice; Aurel Tremblay, right guard, who suffered a sprained ankle; Dick King, second-string quarter back, who had a strained shoulder ligament, and Phil Mooney, reserve half back, who was hampered by a charley horse.

In practice yesterday Mills gave Tom Walace another trial at left half back. Wallace, a strong, speedy lad, has been accustomed to the right half position, although as yet he has not played regularly, and since he has displayed fine running ability and is a left-handed passer—a real asset to a football team—Mills hopes to develop all-around ability in him.

G. W.-G. U. Disagree; Cancel Freshman Game

The freshman elevens of George Washington and Georgetown Universities will not meet this year, it was virtually decided yesterday, after officials of the two institutions could not agree on conditions under which the game was to be played. The game was scheduled for Saturday.

Al Foreman Knocks Out Rose in British Match

Manchester, England, Oct. 20 (A.P.). Al Foreman, of Montreal, lightweight champion of Great Britain, knocked out George Rose, of Bristol, in the sixth round of a fifteen-round titular bout here tonight.

Al Foreman made his first bid for fistic fame when he knocked out Goldie Ahearn, Washington lightweight, in the first round of their bout at Berwyn, Md., several years ago. Foreman was then a soldier at Fort Myer.

PREPS IN PRACTICE.

The gridiron at Georgia avenue and Piney Branch road will be the scene of a practice session tonight for the Northern Preps. Manager Otte requests all players to attend in uniform, as several new plays will be given out.

Warner's "Petty Sleuthing" Blamed by California Coach

BERKELEY, Calif., Oct. 20 (A.P.). Bitterly denouncing developments causing Nick Bican, University of California tackle, to be declared ineligible, Coach C. M. "Nibs" Price today laid the blame to Coach Glenn Warner, of Stanford.

"It was the most unfortunate thing I have heard of," Coach Price said in referring to what he termed "Warner's petty sleuthing."

"If it takes such detective work to be a football coach at Stanford, I am glad I haven't got the job. And if Warner thinks it will do him and his team any good in the 'big game,' he is wrong."

Bican was declared ineligible on a transfer rule technicality. It was discovered he played freshman football at Willamette University before transferring to Sacramento Junior College, where he played a year before coming to California.

This made three years of football, which, with the loss of a year because of the transfer, made him ineligible under a conference rule passed last November.

Price said he was riled, not at the loss of Bican as a player, but rather that Warner's action had brought grief to the youngster.

Nothing to Do With It, Says Warner.

Stanford University, Calif., Oct. 20 (A.P.).—Replying to a verbal attack by Coach "Nibs" Price of California, Glenn Warner, football coach at Stanford, said he had nothing to do with Nick Bican, California tackle being declared ineligible.

Warner declared one of the men on his squad played with Bican at Willamette University in 1926, and this player brought the matter before Prof. William Owen, of Stanford, head of the Pacific Coast Conference. Prof. Owen in turned called the matter to the attention of California officials.

BUDDY BAUER SETS OWN PACE IN LAUREL FEATURE

Bradley Star 1½ Lengths In Front

William T. Beats Out Dr. Freeland for Second Money.

Bright Comet Pays $36 Mutuel After Winning First.

By J. B. SNODGRASS.
Special to The Washington Post.

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 20.—E. R. Bradley's 6-year-old horse, Buddy Bauer, led all the way in the Cabin John, the feature of a good Monday card, running the mile and one-sixteenth in 1:44 4-5. W. J. Salmon's Dr. Freeland forced the pace to the sixteenth, when W. E. Caskey's William T., the favorite, passed him and finished second, beaten a length and a half. A half length separated the second and third horses.

W. Cannon had the mount on the winner. It was the second victory at this meeting for the Bradley horse. Buddy Bauer paid $7.50.

The first line on the three horses that finished in the money was 2 to 1 on each. Then William T.'s odds shortened to 7 to 5. Dr. Freeland and William T. have met many times and Dr. Freeland earlier in the year was a shade better than the Caskey horse. The horses were regarded so close together on a handicap that it seemed the race was a toss-up, but Buddy Bauer was never in danger. Dr. Freeland was not away well and Buddy Bauer had the best of the start. William T. did not display his usual early speed.

Only Favorite to Win Takes Chase.

There was a large crowd out for a chilly, but lively day of racing, but the only favorite to win was in the steeplechase.

Admiral Cary T. Grayson's Bright Comet was on the winning end of a two-horse contest in the first race in which twelve started, getting a head decision over the favorite, the Audley Farm's Highland Belle. Five lengths back of the two leaders was W. W. Vaughn's Crimsal for third and the balance of the field was strung out.

It was always a two-horse affair from the instant the field was released until the finish. C. Cogan had the mount on the winner and hustled the Grayson filly along, a neck and a head in front, which narrow gulf Garner on Highland Belle never could bridge. The winner paid $36 on a $2 ticket.

Highland Belle was a close favorite. The time for the 5½ furlongs was 1:07 4-5.

Stoney Lonesome Is Chase Winner.

F. Ambrose Clark's Stoney Lonesome won the second race, a steeplechase, making the score of the mare perfect at this meeting. The early pacemaker, the Queen City Stable's The Red Knight, was second, beaten three lengths. The Brookmeade Stable's Friar McGee was third, although he stumbled badly at next to the final hedge. Jeffcott losing his balance and holding on to the horse's neck, but finally regaining the saddle.

J. E. Widener's Lorenzo fell on the back stretch with Lamber and the boy, in attempting to arise, was knocked flat again by another horse, but pulled through without serious injury. The winner was favorite, paying $5.50.

Coin Collector Improves, Beats Crystal Broom.

The Sagamore Stable's Coin Collector ran an improved race in winning the third, for which twelve competed, and, catching Crystal Broom in the stretch, drew away to win by a length and a half. Crystal Broom, the favorite, saved the place by the narrow margin of a nose, and First Mission, closing very fast, was third.

Crystal Broom led from the start with Gerard forcing the pace. Coin Collector, in the middle of the field, moved up at the far turn and displaced Gerard as second and outran Crystal Broom in the stretch. Time, 1:13. The winner paid $20.50. Bejshek had the mount on the winner.

Backgammon Defeats Magnifico by Nose.

The Sagamore Stable's Backgammon finished first in the fourth race for 2-year-olds, beating H. P. Whitney's Magnifico a nose. The two raced head and head down the stretch. Robertson went to the stand after the return to the scales, but the placing of Backgammon first and Magnifico second was confirmed. W. J. Salmon's Ladder was third.

Ladder led from the gate. Magnifico overhauled him at the far turn and down the stretch Magnifico led to within a few yards of the wire when Bejshek got Backgammon in front, putting Magnifico in close quarters. Time, 1:13 1-5. The winner paid $7.10. It made a double for the Sagamore Stable and Bejshek.

Belli Casus and Workman Score in Sixth.

Edward Kane's Bellicasus, Workman up, won the sixth race by a head from the Hastings Stable's Star Crest, both outsiders. Wrackell was third. Make Haste, the favorite, was virtually left at the post and also bled. Timon came in fourth. Star Crest led to the sixteenth. Then Workman made his rush to win. Wrackell and Star Crest were very close for place. The time was 1:47 3-5, for a mile and one-sixteenth. The winner paid $12.50. Star Crest was $12.20 for place.

The sixth favorite of the afternoon went down to defeat today in the seventh race, when the winner turned up in Night Signal, 3-year-old filly owned and trained by P. B. Codd, which won by a length and paid a $15.20 mutuel for $2 straight tickets. Tall Grass ran second, beating Mainsheet by a length and a half, with Upset Lad, the 3-to-1 favorite, fourth, another head back.

Upset Lad led for more than a mile of the mile and a quarter journey, but tired in the final sixteenth as the money horses swept by him near the wire. Night Signal worked his way up courageously under an energetic ride by Meade and finished with good courage after gaining the lead from Upset Lad. Tall Grass also came from far back to finish second. Mainsheet was always a contender.

MAJESTICS HONORED.

A banquet will be tendered the Majestic Radio Baseball Nine tonight at the New Ebbitt Hotel at 8 o'clock by the Eisenbrant Radio Co.

Mr. Eisenbrandt will laud the players on their record of 19 wins out of 27 contests during the season just closed. Plans will be discussed for 1931's team.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BRIGHT COMET, $36.00, $11.50, $6.60; HIGHLAND BELLE, $3.10, $2.90; CRIMSAL, $8.50.

BRIGHT COMET began quickly, saved ground after being displaced, continued with rare courage and came again to get up in the last sixteenth. HIGHLAND BELLE, hard ridden from the start, gained a brief advantage, but faltered in the final furlong. CRIMSAL, on the outside from start, held on stoutly. UNUSUAL showed a good effort. LOMA LINDA, slow to begin, was making up ground slowly at the end. IRISH MINT stopped badly.

STONEY LONESOME HAS NO COMPANY OVER JUMPS.

SECOND RACE—About two miles. Purse, $2,000. Claiming Steeplechase. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, easily. Went to post at 2:09½. Off at 2:12½. Winner, F. Ambrose Clark's b. m. (5), by Huon—Stone Chase. Trained by H. G. Gaither. Value to winner, $1,400; second, $400; third, $200. Time, 3:57.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—STONEY LONESOME, $5.50, $2.90, $2.80; THE RED KNIGHT, $3.60, $3.80; FRIAR M'GEE, $4.40.

STONEY LONESOME was crowded back badly soon after the start, went up on the inside to reach contention, followed THE RED KNIGHT while fencing boldly, displaced the latter at the tenth fence and was under pressure at the finish. THE RED KNIGHT, steadied along until challenged, continued with good energy. FRIAR M'GEE almost unseated his rider at the thirteenth fence, recovered and was best of the others. KING'S OWN had no excuses. HOE CAKE tired. LORENZO lost his rider at the fifth fence.

COIN COLLECTOR APTLY NAMED IN THIRD.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:45. Off at 2:47. Winner, Sagamore Stable's ch. g. (4), by Golden Guinea—May Lilly. Trained by J. H. Stotler. Value to winner, $900; second, $250; third, $150. Time, 0:23 2-5, 0:47 4-5, 1:13.

* Field

Two-dollar mutuels paid—COIN COLLECTOR, $20.50, $8.00, $4.80; CRYSTAL BROOM, $3.60, $3.40; FIRST MISSION, $6.30.

COIN COLLECTOR, sent into contention at once, reached the leaders when approaching the home stretch, wore CRYSTAL BROOM down and drew out steadily. CRYSTAL BROOM raced GERARD into defeat, saved ground and held on well for the final drive. FIRST MISSION finished with a bold rush the last half mile. VACATION, allowed to drop out of contention early closed willingly. CANDY PIG had speed in spots. ELIZABETH BOLLA finished resolutely. GERARD quit badly.

BACKGAMMON WINNER IN MAGNIFICENT FINISH.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,300; allowances. For 2-year-olds. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:20. Off at 3:25. Winner, Sagamore Stable's b. c. (2), by Wrack—Sandwich. Trained by J. H. Stotler. Value to winner, $900; second, $250; third, $150. Time, 0:23 2-5, 0:47 3-5, 1:13 3-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BACKGAMMON, $7.10, $4.10, $2.60; MAGNIFICIO, $4.00, $2.70; LADDER, $3.00.

BACKGAMMON, going in good fashion, followed close to the leaders, withstood a long tedious drive in faultless manner and outstayed MAGNIFICO. Latter, hard hustled all the way, saved ground and fought it out in determined fashion. FISCHER made a claim of foul which was not allowed. LADDER was hard ridden and held on well. DUNLIN'S LAD was gaining slowly at the finish. GREAT GUN was unruly at the post. UNCLE HENRY quit badly.

BUDDY BAUER LEAVES PALS BEHIND IN FEATURE.

FIFTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,500. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:56. Off at 3:57½. Winner, E. R. Bradley's ch. h. (6), by North Star III—Bed of Roses. Trained by H. J. Thompson. Value to winner, $1,000; second, $300; third, $200. Time, 0:23 3-5, 0:48 2-5, 1:13 2-5, 1:38 3-5, 1:44 4-5.

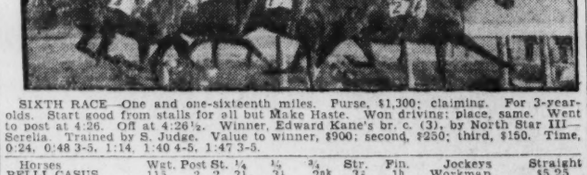
Two-dollar mutuels paid—BUDDY BAUER, $7.50, $2.90, $2.30; WILLIAM T., $2.40, $2.10; DR. FREELAND, $2.40.

BUDDY BAUER outbroke his field and drew away into an easy lead rounding the first turn. He was rated under slight restraint the remainder of the journey. WILLIAM T. dropped back rounding the far turn, but closed stoutly in stretch run. DOCTOR FREELAND broke well within himself to furlong pole. He pinned his ears back and sulked when Schaefer called on him in stretch run.

BELLI CASUS GETS HOME BY HEAD IN SIXTH.



SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good from stalls for all but Make Haste. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:26. Off at 4:26½. Winner, Edward Kane's br. c. (3), by North Star III—Serella. Trained by S. Judge. Value to winner, $900; second, $250; third, $150. Time, 0:24, 0:48 3-5, 1:14, 1:40 4-5, 1:47 3-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BELLI CASUS, $12.50, $5.90, $3.90; STAR CREST, $12.20, $6.10; WRACKELL, $7.90.

BELLI CASUS, going in improved form and kept within striking distance of the leaders, responded to severe urging and, finishing gamely, was up in the last strides. STAR CREST sprinted into a good lead, saved ground, but faltered fast in the last furlong. WRACKELL came again after dropping back. TIMON reached the leaders, but weakened. MAKE HASTE jumped into the air at the break and was away slowly, reached contention, but bled and was eased up.

NIGHT SIGNAL FIRST TO LOOK JUDGES IN EYE.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-quarter miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:00. Off at 5:02½. Winner, P. B. Codd's ch. f. (3), by Skyrocket—White Glade. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $900; second, $250; third, $150. Time, 0:24 1-5, 0:49, 1:14 2-5, 1:41, 2:06 2-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—NIGHT SIGNAL, $15.20, $9.90, $5.90; TALL GRASS, $7.90; $5.30; MAINSHEET, $7.20.

NIGHT SIGNAL, restrained off the pace for the first mile, came determinedly in the final stages, wore down UPSET LAD and held TALL GRASS safe. Latter, a trailer early, came around the outside and closed strong. MAINSHEET hung after making a bold effort. UPSET LAD tired in the closing test. VIMONT weakened under his weight.

Boots and Saddle's

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office.)

—Laurel Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 20.—The Cecil with a $2,000 purse, featured at Laurel, is another exhibition of Secretary Campbell bringing together a field so evenly matched in speed and weight that it is quite difficult to separate the top horse. In this mile and a sixteenth test MR. SPONG and NED O meet on equal terms of 113 pounds each. Both started in the Laurel Stakes Saturday, and Ned O, closing fastest of his field, ran third, while the J. E. Widener colt was unplaced, but MR. SPONGE had no chance to overcome the interference in this rough scramble, while NED O had free running after his first setback at the clubhouse turn. In this race MR. SPONGE takes off three pounds and NED O takes up five over Saturday's jam.

It is at a sixteenth of a mile farther than the Laurel, hence MR. SPONGE will have a better chance to show his withering speed. If MR. SPONGE falls in this test, he simply has retrograded and is not the horse he was a month ago. The race is strictly between these two. FULL DRESS should improve over his recent races and can hold the others safe for show money. VALENCIENNES is a fast filly, but the route seems beyond her speed. But she went the distance at Aqueduct and was beaten a head by Erin. BUCKEYE POET is out of his class. WOODCRAFT has not been out since spring.

FIRST RACE—FLY GUY is selected for the opening dash for 2-year-olds. He comes back in his own class. His last winning race was over Marcheur at Havre de Grace. He showed early speed against Mouthpiece in a mile race. REDOUBTABLE has had little racing since early spring and shapes up as the contender. She trimmed a large field in New York. PETABITHAS has been running close up. EARFUL was third to Dancing Mack at this track.

SECOND RACE—BROWN ERIN is picked for this race for maidens, 3-year-olds and upward. He has been third in his last three starts and was only a neck behind the winner, Nile Maiden, a very fast filly, at Havre de Grace, in better company than is found in this event. The longer route will give him ample opportunity to get a good position and he closes fast. EILONA showed good speed against Star Run last week, finishing third, and should be the contender. That was her first start of the year. BROWN MAID has had sufficient racing this year to be well seasoned and is rated next best in a large field.

THIRD RACE—The Peggy Stuart Purse for 2-year-olds has brought out a small but select field. Mrs. John D. Hertz's RISQUE, winner of five out of eight starts in which she has beaten Baba Kenny, Chene and others, appears to stand out in this dash of 6 furlongs. She was beaten in her last start, at Aqueduct, by Blind Lane, and is being pointed for the Selima Saturday. She has 119 pounds but should carry this impost to victory. BUCKUP has only to repeat her last race to be the contender. AVENGER will have CENTER STONE to beat for show money.

FOURTH RACE—W. R. Coe's SWEEP OUT should regain her best speed, after her defeat by Lost Agnes, to win the fourth race. FRENCH LASS, which closed very fast in her last race to run second to LADY CAPULET, is rated the contender.

IMPROVED CENTRAL ELEVEN TO OPPOSE WESTERN

Driscoll Aids Rauber as Coach

Former G. U. Guard Instilling Pep Into Central Team.

Western Offensive Is Strong; Also Boast Clever Ends.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

CENTRAL vs WESTERN, today at Central Stadium, 3:45 o'clock.

Two factors enter into the metamorphosis of Central High's football team from a big blundering bunch of boys in a fast squad eagerly awaiting today's whistle. Gene Driscoll, Georgetown's 1929 lineman and one of the fastest running guards a Hilltop team ever had, has been aiding Ty Rauber and supplying some much needed zip. Another thing Driscoll has given to Central is bellowing. Here is an acute psychological aspect in the life of schoolboy gridmen as important as shoulder pads. Driscoll roars with hardly imitable volumeand incoherency.

The weather seems to be the other factor. Ty's squad appears to have improved as many per cent as the thermometer had dropped in degrees. Tech will have played football of the first water variety if they retain their title.

Western Best On Offense.

Central is on its toes—way up on its toes.

In Western today the Hill Dwellers meet a foe bound to bring out the best in any local scholastic club. Western is not precisely a trial horse, nor just a string of tackling dummies. Western's best bet is its offensive work.

Webb, Amidon, Cochran and Lynham, Coach Ahearn's ball carriers, step high and fast and in a sure manner. Buscher and Reynolds on the ends look as good as any local coach's wingmen. Buscher is the popular conception of an end—tall, wiry, fast and sure-handed. Reynolds is small and comparatively chubby. But he can get in places which bar Buscher's bulk, and the oval, once caught, clings tenaciously to him.

Whitey Cumberland, Bud Black and Charlie Casassa, Central stalwarts, are definitely out of today's game. Just how long this dire condition will exist is problematical. Cumberland donned uniform yesterday and limped through a light workout. Casassa's dislocated shoulder will take at least three weeks to mend. Black, one of the two lettermen in the line, has a ligament-torn knee to nurse for at least a week more.

Colella to Return To Line-up.

District Schools Fare Poorly Away.

Last week-end's football results did little to relieve the conviction that once a District scholastic eleven has cleared the boundaries of the District of Columbia it is in immediate danger of receiving a fancy lacing. Emerson ran against a Staunton Military Academy aggregation when the Virginians were in a touchdown scoring mood. Result, 33 to 0. Gonzaga struck a bad impediment in LaSalle, of Cumberland, and came home on the short end of a 32-to-0 beating.

Alexandria High seems to be the only team we can win from. National Training School took them, 7 to 0, while Devitt rolled over them, 32 to 0.

In nine contests with out of town teams our local squads have amassed a total of 25 points. The foreigners more or less offset this with their total of 259 points.

Alexandria Sports

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Oct. 20.—Alexandria High School gridders will play their first conference game in the third district Friday afternoon at Warrenton, opposing the fast Warrenton High School football team.

Athletic Director Given today sent his boys through a hard drill, which included a short scrimmage. Capt. Jimmy Luckett and Gerald Turner, two front linemen, who have been out on account of injuries will see service.

Manager Les Deavers, of the Alpha Delta Omega team, announced today his gridders would oppose the Marion A. C. in a Capital City League game next Sunday. This contest will be played on Hunton Field.

The St. Mary's Celtics gridders hope to entertain the Catonsville Team, of Baltimore, in next Sunday's tussle at Baggett's Stadium. Arrangements for this game are now pending.

Coach Doggie Hamilton, of the Del Ray Athletic Club, has called an important practice for his gridders every night this week. The Del Rayans are now tied for leadership in the 150-pound class of the Capital City Loop.

Swavely Preparatory School Eleven, of Manassas, will be entertained by Hick Cardwell's Episcopal High School gridmen at Hoxton Field next Saturday afternoon. This is another one of the games booked for the "Hilltops" that will play an important part in deciding the preparatory school football championship in the State.

Manager Cleveland Shaw, of the Engine Company No. 5 Football Team, is endeavoring to book a game with the Alcova A. C. here for next Sunday. The smokeaters lost to Fort Washington last Sunday, 18—0.

"Speed King" Roland, former Cardinal A. C. pitcher, is recovering from a severe illness at Bluemont, Va. Dr. Taddy Shafer was his catcher when that pair starred for the Cardinals.

VIRGINIA GRID PRACTICE SPEEDED

Cavaliers Leave for Kentucky Thursday; Back Field Intact.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Oct. 20. Virginia has only four afternoons in which to prepare for the invasion of Kentucky. The Cavaliers must leave Thursday night for their fourth game away from home in a row. Consequently they'll be putting in fast licks in workouts on Lambeth Field this week.

Victory over V. M. I. has restored confidence in their own ability, which the Cavaliers lost two weeks ago when they played Duke. And the fact that Duke has wholeheartedly dumped the Navy makes the Virginians think that maybe their game in Durham wasn't such an upset after all.

The Cavalier line did not look good against V. M. I. in the first half, but in the third and fourth quarters it stood firm against the Cadet thrusts Near the end of the third period V. M. I. had a first down on Virginia's 3-yard line, but the Cavalier defense was so tight that when Thomas tackled Travers on the fourth down the ball went to Virginia on the 7-yard mark.

Coach Abell Drills Defense.

Coach Abell will continue to strengthen the Cavalier defenses this week. He knows they will need to be tightened to check the Kentucky offensive that rode over Washington and Lee in the final quarter.

At the same time Gus Tebell, Virginia back field coach, will be working on the attack to be used against the Wildcats. Bill Thomas, who will lead the back field men, covered himself with glory again in the game with V. M. I., especially near the end of the game when he started a drive on the Cadet 30-yard stripe and in six plays had the ball over the goal for a touchdown.

The same Virginia back field that worked so well against the Cadets—Frank Sippley at quarter, Thomas and Ward Brewer in the halves, and Herbert Bryant at full back—will probably be used against Kentucky.

Twenty Grand Broke World Mark Saturday

Louisville, Oct. 20 (A.P.).—Turf followers have discovered that Twenty Grand, Mrs. Payne Whitney's speedy brown colt, reduced the world's record time for 2-year-olds over the mile course by a full second as well as clipping one-fifth of a second off the Churchill Downs track record in winning the Kentucky Jockey Club Stakes.

As a result Twenty Grand's stock as a winter book favorite for the next Kentucky Derby has gone up several more points. Twenty Grand, with an impost of 122 pounds, stepped the mile in 1:36 to defeat the fleet Equipoise by a neck.

Swingalong, as a 2-year-old, raced the mile at Belmont Park September 13, 1924, in 1:37. Mars duplicated the mark at Aqueduct June 20, 1925. Swingalong carried 118 pounds and Mars 108.

Use of Electric Current Bars Australian Jockeys

Sydney, Australia, Oct. 20 (A.P.).—Small galvanic batteries, said to have come from America, have made their appearance on various Australian race tracks.

Two of the batteries have been found upon jockeys in Brisbane (Queensland) and Sidney (New South Wales) during the last week, and the jockeys have been disqualified from riding for life.

The batteries were carried in a shirt pocket beneath the riding jacket, the wires leading down through the riding boots and connecting with the spurs.

Some of the batteries are small enough to hide in the palm of the hand. Others have been found in riding whips.

LONG DRILLS STAGED BY WEST VA.

G. U. Is Second Foe Which Is Using Rockne System.

Special to The Washington Post.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Oct. 20. After a day of rest on Saturday and the usual Sunday layoff, the West Virginia University Mountaineer gridders put in a lengthy session here tonight getting ready to meet another team which uses the Notre Dame system of play, Georgetown University, at Washington, D. C., on Friday night.

The Mountaineers stopped Duquesne University in their opening game of the season after the Dukes had been prepared for the game by Elmer Layden, of Notre Dame fame, and in their fourth game of the season defeated Washington and Lee, taught by Gene Oberst, another Rockne pupil, but last Friday night they ran into trouble and were humiliated by Gus Dorais' University of Detroit Titans, a team which comes closer to resembling Notre Dame than any of the others the West Virginians have played.

Coach Dorais Played With Rockne.

This coming Friday night Ira Rodgers' Mountaineers will meet the Hoyas of Georgetown, now under their first season of the Notre Dame system as it is by Tommy Mills, another former Rockne student. Dorais, incidentally, was not a pupil under Rockne, but rather played with him at South Bend.

Both West Virginia and Georgetown were defeated over the week-end after both had been sailing along playing good football with frequent sprinklings of sophomores in their lineups. West Virginia dropped a 23-0 game to Detroit, while the Hoyas were topped by Western Maryland, undefeated since 1926, by a 10-0 count.

Honey Locust Winner In Latonia's Feature

Latonia, Ky., Oct. 20 (A.P.).—Honey Locust, carrying the colors of J. N. Camden, with Eugene James in the saddle, was first home in the Fort Mitchell Purse, the featured number of a good card at Latonia today. Chip, from Mrs. E. L. Skikard's Stable, was second, with Nellie Custis, the heavily played favorite from the Audley Farm Stables, third.

The race was an allowance affair for 3-year-olds and upward, over the mile and a sixteenth journey, and was worth $1,100 to the winner, which covered the distance in 1:45 2-5 on a track rated fast. Honey Locust paid off at $14.60 to $2 in the mutuels.

Going in her best form, and having the advantage of a good rider, Honey Locust was rated in closest pursuit of Nellie Custic to the stretch, where she responded gamely to urging and went into the lead, but was doing her best at the end to win by a neck. Chip was rated along close up to the stretch run, where he closed strong and was rapidly gaining on the winner to take the place money by two lengths. Nellie Custis set the pace to the stretch, where she failed to respond and was third, three lengths in front of Thistle Fyrne.

Cain Boys Called 'Finds' OfSouthernSophomores

Atlanta, Oct. 20 (A.P.).—The Cain boys, who live up to their name, are among the standouts in a crop of sophomore backs blooming in the Southern Conference this fall.

John, a lusty 180-pounder, has won his spurs as the regular full back for Alabama. Tom, an 185-pounder, dubbed "Sugar," has done the same for Georgia Tech.

C. U. TO FACE DUQUESNE FRIDAY

Cardinals, Lacking in Reserves, Have Little Chance.

ANOTHER defeat is all that Fate can hold out to Catholic University. The Cardinal Eleven plays Duquesne Friday night in Pittsburgh and faces a harder task than last Saturday, when it bowed to Loyola, 20-6, for its fourth loss in as many starts this season.

Unable to place its best foot forward on account of injuries, Coach Bergman's team runs into a stronger outfit in Duquesne than in Loyola; indeed, as powerful a team as Franklin and Marshall, which had little trouble disposing of the Brooklanders two weeks ago.

Three Regulars Injured.

And the unfortunate part of it is that Bergman has no capable reserves with whom he can plug up the holes created in the first-string lineup by the absence of Hugh Flynn and Ed O'Brien, tackles, and Frank Donaher, right half back, all of whom are on the injured list.

Donaher joined the hospital group last Saturday night, when he was carried from the field with a badly strained leg. Flynn has never been able to perform regularly owing to an injured leg, while O'Brien has been suffering with a shoulder ailment.

Tourney Strain Weakens Glory, Says Golf Star

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 20 (A.P.).—The strain of tournament play is hardly worth the glory of victory, believes Mrs. George W. Tyson (the former Miriam Burns), of Kansas City, women's Western golf champion.

Despite the fact Mrs. Tyson staged a comeback after virtual retirement for three years to win the Western title his summer, her victory has not encouraged her to reenter active tournament competition.

Mrs. Tyson had played in no major meets since she captured the national in 1927.

"There is never any rest or any time when one can be one's natural self on the course," says Mrs. Tyson.

The women's national at Los Angeles in October failed to draw the Western champion. Mrs. Tyson does not favor long absences from her home and family.

The Kansas City golfer, however, is not a "run-out" champion. She will defend her title next year and may play in other tournaments, if they are not too far from Kansas City.

Fort Dearborn Wins In Hawthorne Feature

Chicago, Oct. 20 (A.P.).—Fort Dearborn, from G. W. Ogle's Stable, was the winner of the fifth number, the best offering of an ordinary Monday card at Hawthorne track today. Blazing Cinch, from W. Emerson's Stable, was second with Play Ball, from J. Marsch's string, third.

The event, the best of a bunch of claiming events, was for 3-year-olds and upward over the mile and an eighth distance and was worth $850 to the winner. He ran the extra furlong in 1:53 flat and paid off at $12.56 to $2.

Fort Dearborn was rated closely behind the pace to the turn, where he quickly went into the lead and, drawing away in the stretch run, won easily by five lengths. Blazing Cinch, away slowly, closed an immense gap and was up to take the place money by a nose. Playball, away fast but outraced to the turn, closed fast to take the third money by five lengths from General Jackson.

PENN COACH SIGNS.

Wallace F. Johnson has been reengaged for three years as tennis coach at the University of Pennsylvania.

GETS TACKLE POST.

Ed Prondecki, sophomore tackle, was put on the Colgate varsity at tackle following an injury to Howard Crane.

LEADS WASHINGTON HUSKIES

Scalp of Palace Eleven Objective of Columbias

Capital City League Team, Organized in '20; Lost Title Last Season With Unbeaten Record; Won Honors in Lighter Classes.

(The following is the third of a series of articles concerning the 16 sandlot clubs entered in the 1930 Capital City Football League, which is sponsored by The Washington Post.)

By JOHN V. HINKEL.

TO go undefeated through a grueling eight-game schedule only to lose a championship because it played two tie contests to one for its closest rival is pretty tough on any team in any league. But to battle this rival to a scoreless deadlock and then to have it awarded the title is about the acme of hard luck. If any one doubts the veracity of this statement let them interview the Columbia A. C. gridders, who had that unique experience in the 135-pound division of The Post's 1929 Capital City Football League.

The Columbias and their greatest rivals, the Palaces, played to a 0-to-0 draw last fall in one of the most bitterly contested engagements ever recorded in the annals of District sandlot football. At the end of the season the Southwest Eleven was awarded the section championship because it had only one tie to stain its record, while the Columbias had two.

Both clubs have entered the 150-pound division of The Post's 1930 circuit and will clash on November 23 next. If they stop the Palaces on that date the Columbias will consider the season a complete success, even though they lose the remainder of their league contests.

"Buck" Pettit, genial Columbia pilot, succinctly expressed the feelings of his club when he told the writer, "Our one ambition is to beat the Palaces and decide that 1929 tie."

Columbias Organized In 1920.

The Northeast Eleven, like St. Stephen's, was organized in 1920 by most of this year's squad. The outstanding figures at that time were Jake Hengtsler, Jack Handiboe, and "Bo" Hancock. Of this trio Hengtsler is the only one still carrying on with the 1930 team.

In the year of their organization the Columbias competed in the 75-pound class, and for the first four seasons were just an average eleven In 1924, however, they forged to the front rapidly by annexing the 115-pound championship of the District. Stepping up a class, they copped the city title in the 125-pound division the following fall.

During the next three years the Columbias met with only fair success in their quest for championship laurels. In 1929 they all but had the league title in their grasp, walloping the Wolverines, Meridians, Notre Dame Preps, Brentwood Hawks, Mardfeldts, and Jannups, and tying with the Friendships and the Palaces.

By virtue of the fact that most of last year's near-championship squad is back for the present campaign, the Northeast Team is considered to be one of the stand-out candidates for the 1930 circuit title. In their two nonleague contests so far the Columbias whipped the Stantons, 14-0, and swamped the Alcovas, 33-0. Making their debut in league play last Sunday, the Pettitmen succeeded in battling a powerful Petworth Pennant aggregation to a scoreless tie.

In all three games the Columbias displayed a smooth-working machine. Pettit's forward wall compares with the best, and he has built a strong offense around Jake Hengtsler, veteran back and triple-threat artist.

Coach Pettit Expects Another Title.

Coach Pettit himself is the second big reason why Columbia supporters confidently expected their favorites to come through with this season's 150-pound title. A former Eastern High School and Maryland Frosh performer, Pettit also is a veteran sandlot player and manager. It was he who coached the Columbias to their 115 and 125 pound pennants. In 1929 he piloted the Notre Dame Preps to fourth position in the final league standings. When the Preps disbanded, Pettit accepted an invitation to return to his old charges with whom he has been always very popular.

Five former Notre Dame Preps have affiliated with the Columbias this season. They are Barr, Kertz, Van Horn, Parkhurst and Kober. The Shamburg brothers, former Fort Myer luminaries, also have signed up with the Northeasters, together with Daly, of the Palaces; Fowler, former Apache; Oden, formerly of the Mohawk Preps, and Harler, Ham and Beamer.

The complete eligibility list of the Columbia as follows: Linemen, Barnes, Barr, Kertz, Lamp, Harler, Wood, Oden, Robey, M. Shamberg, Beamer, Daly, Newman, Florimbo, Bruzbart and Ham; backs, Kober, Harper, Piffer, Van Horn, G. Shamberg, Smith, Hengtsler, Fowler, Healey and Parkhurst.

Talent in East Superior, Says Missouri Grid Coach

Boys in "Big Six" Average 2 Years Younger, Not as Well Coached in Prep Schools, Is View of Gwinn Henry.

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20 (A.P.).—Out in the Big Six Conference, where football teams would rather lose to a good eleven than beat a poor one, there are no controversies over the fairness of multitudinous substitutions or the practice of the mighty slaughtering the weak in early-season games.

The problem out that way is man power, according to Gwinn Henry, head coach for the last eight years of Missouri's Tigers, a team that has come East for three straight years to take a licking from New York University. Saturday the rampaging Violets socked one of the weakest elevens Henry has ever had, a team that hasn't won a game or scored a point so far this fall.

"I've got a gang of sophomores, big strong fellows, but they are not the kind of football material you find in the East," he said before the game. "They are an average of two years younger, for one thing, and they have not the football background of the Eastern boys coming into college.

No Question of Sportsmanship.

"Out in Missouri we can't pick and choose from the prep schools because high school football out there is at a low ebb. High school coaches in that section are poorly paid. Usually they are teachers from some other department getting something extra for handling the football team. They are not up on modern methods. On the other hand, high schools through the Southwest, particularly in Texas, are very strong and smart.

"It isn't unusual to have a freshman squad at Missouri of 150 boys, and you'd think that turnout would guarantee good teams year after year. But 75 per cent of the good prospects flunk out before they get to be sophomores and they're all young and inexperienced. A squad of 35 in the East is a far better proposition because most of them will have had smart high-grade prep school coaching."

High School Football At Low Ebb.

Henry was somewhat amazed at the idea that there might be any question of sportsmanship involved in the meeting of big and little teams and the unrestrained use of substitutes. "That's a question that just naturally doesn't arise in the West country."

"We play seven or eight major games each fall," he said. "The first one usually is a 'practice' game and we call it that and schedule it that way. No one has any idea but that we are going to use all the men we have against a weaker team for the sole purpose of testing the boys and trying out combinations to see what works best. The small college doesn't have to take those games unless they want to. I used 40 men in a game once and still I didn't find out much about them."

Henry believes that over a period of years no one section of the country will prove stronger than another in the development of national champions. The Middle West, he thinks, has a better average of good teams than any other region. He also is sure that football will be a better game for spectators and teams alike when all colleges stay in their respective classes throughout the season and every game is a major battle.

MRS. EYNON LEADS LINKS TOURNEY

Score of 90 Best in Qualifying Round at Columbia.

TWENTY-THREE women golfers yesterday battled against a cold northwest gale on hard ground, playing summer rules, in the qualifying round preliminary to the contest for the womens' championship of the Columbia Country Club. Weather and course conditions contributed to high scoring.

The field was led by Mrs. Everett Eynon, who last summer won the Rhode Island championship and whose husband is the club champion, with a card of 43—46—89, the only player to break 90. Mrs. J. Marvin Haynes, the defending champion, had a score of 96.

Match play will begin at 9:30 o'clock this morning, with the contestants starting in pairs at 5-minute intervals, as follows:

First flight—Mrs. Everett Eynon vs. Miss Elizabeth Brawner, Mrs. S. P. Colladay vs. Mrs. H. King Cornwell, Mrs. W. S. Corby vs. Mrs. H. R. Quinter, Mrs. Norman B. Frost vs. Mrs. J. M. Haynes.

Second flight—Mrs. John Poole vs. Mrs. J. R. De Farges, Mrs. Frank Tomlinson vs. Mrs. A. S. Gardiner, Mrs. Newman Little vs. Mrs. Herbert

VIGOROUS REBOUND STAGED BY STOCKS

3-to-11 Point Gains Made by Shares; Wheat, Corn and Cotton Rise.

RAILS MOVE UP SHARPLY

New York, Oct. 20 (A.P.).—The invalid stock market today confounded the prophets by casting off its crutches and hopping 3 to 11 points higher.

Wheat, corn and cotton likewise made encouraging gestures of strength, foreign exchanges soared and high grade bonds firmed, so that it was a day of progress in the financial sickroom.

Wall street went to work this morning in rather gloomy frame of mind. The heavy selling on Saturday seemed to foreshadow further liquidation today, so that the strong opening of the market was a surprise. Prices held to the advance throughout the session, meeting a little realizing near the close, but finishing near the high levels. Trading was quiet, as on the rallies early last week. Sales totaled 2,139,220 shares.

Numerous reasons for the upturn were advanced, among them the better outlook in Germany resulting from the Bruening government's success and the certainty of the $125,000,000 credit, the wide steps being taken in this country to combat unemployment and the fact that the best domestic stocks were offering better yields than bonds.

Technical Position Cited.

In addition, and perhaps of more direct bearing, was the market's own technical position, which, after last week's heavy losses, invited a rally.

The improvement in points was the largest since October 1 and was most impressive in the season stocks where investment buying might be expected.

American Can, United State Steel, Westinghouse, National Biscuit, American Telephone, General Electric and Allied Chemical offered strong leadership and were supported by the entire industrial, motion picture and amusement groups. Rails also moved up sharply.

The absence of pressure was a distinct relief to observers who have been anxiously watching for signs that liquidation was drying up. Bear operators, discouraged by the strength of the initial transactions, failed to press their cause and aided the advance by covering, although in few instances was there any resemblance of a squeeze.

U. S. Steel Gains 3⅞ Points.

Volatile shares rallied sharply. Allied Chemical's net gain was 11¼; International Business Machine rose 10¾, and Laclede Gas, an inactive, shot up 25 points on a single transaction. A generous list of favorites improved 5 and 6, including American Can, Westinghouse, Union Pacific, Eastman Kodak, Byers, Foster Wheeler and American Tobacco "B."

U. S. Steel touched 149¾, closing at 149¼, up 3⅞ net. General Electric, American Telephone, Consolidated Gas, North American, American Water Works, Radio, Radio-Keith-Orpheum, Gillette, DuPont and National Biscuit gained 2 to 3. Atchison showed outstanding strength with a 7-point advance.

The rally in wheat averaged nearly a cent and a half, reflecting a smaller visible supply and cold weather in Canada. Corn's gain ranged from ½ to 2⅛, while cotton finished 7 to 14 points higher.

European exchanges were strong in sympathy with the mark, which responded to the brighter situation in the Reich by rallying nearly 5 points. The Spanish peseta, which is being supported by the government, rose more than one-third of a cent.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Oct. 20 (A.P.).—Notable fresh upturns in grain values today went hand in hand with a substantial decrease of the United States wheat visible supply in total. Predictions of another cold wave in Canada, together with reports that a third of the crops in Alberta and Saskatchewan, two of the biggest wheat-producing provinces in Canada, remained unthreshed, served also to strengthen the wheat market here. Moreover, some buying of grain was ascribed to encouragement over upturns in quotations of securities.

Wheat prices in Chicago closed firm, 1@1¾c a bushel higher than Saturday's finish. Corn closed, 1⅞@2¼c advanced; oats, 5/8@⅝c up, and provisions varying from 5c decline to a rise of 17c.

A jump in wheat values at Liverpool preceded today's advance in wheat at Chicago. The Liverpool gains were accompanied by word that the amount of wheat available for delivery on contracts at Liverpool was very small and that Russian wheat was not tenderable on Liverpool contracts. It was added that Liverpool stocks of wheat were less than a third as large as a year ago, and that that amount of wheat on ocean passage has decreased 1,200,000 bushels in the last week. Need of rain for India, if crop damage was to be averted, was also stressed. It was likewise pointed out that offerings of wheat from India have come to a halt, and that Canadian country marketings have been reduced almost to nothing.

Highest prices of the day for wheat, however, were scored here after United States wheat visible supply figures were posted showing that the total had been diminished 1,029,000 bushels in the last week. The market effect on this announcement was heightened by reports showing that today's arrivals of wheat at all domestic points were comparatively meager. Meanwhile, intimations went around that a good-sized export demand over the week-end had developed for wheat from Canada. Traders here paid but little heed to advices from Rotterdam and Antwerp that large quantities of Russian wheat on hand were unsold and could not be disposed of except at 8c a bushel below replacement cost.

Corn and oats prices went higher owing to sympathy with wheat strength. Rural offerings of corn today lacked volume, notwithstanding that weather conditions were favorable for field work and for prevention of heating of corn in transit.

Despite lower quotations on hogs, provisions rose briskly when cereals made gains.

BOND PRICES RULED BY RAGGED COURSE

Industrials Still Slump as Brazilian and German Issues Move Up.

HIGH-GRADE RAILS RISE

New York, Oct. 20 (A.P.).—The bond market charted a ragged course today in which the rally in stocks and news from foreign countries attracted a moderate amount of buying. Some of the second and third grade rails moved to lower levels and industrials continued their downward trend.

At the start the bond market displayed the same characteristics of recent sessions, price movement being quiet and irregular. While the volume of business fell off sharply from recent sessions, highest grade issues were under accumulation in the afternoon coincident with the vigorous upturn in equity shares.

Special news was believed responsible for the bullish trend of Brazilian and German bonds. They registered gains of from 1 to 3 points, in active trading. Bond circles heard that revolutionary forces in Brazil had announced that investors' interests in Brazilian bonds would be protected by them if they gained control of the government.

German Bonds Advance.

Buying of German issues was inspired in part by the victory of the Bruening government in the Reichstag Saturday when the international credit bill was passed. German International 5½s rallied a point, while German Central Agricultural Bank bonds were up 2 and 3.

The reactionary trend of bonds in recent sessions which some persons in financial circles find inexplicable in view of the easy monetary conditions was responsible for the City of New York deciding to sell only $50,000,000 4 per cent bonds tomorrow instead of $75,000,000, as originally contemplated. The feeling was that in view of present conditions in the bond market, a better price could be obtained from bidders if the size of the offering was reduced.

While various opinions have been expressed as to the reasons for the setback suffered by the bond market, the consensus appeared to be that the revival of a strong investment interest in fixed income securities was contingent to a great degree upon the stock market showing a definite upturn. So far as the money market is concerned the opinion is expressed in financial circles that there will be no permanent firming of rates until after the first of the year, at the earliest.

Utilities Irregularly Higher.

The improvement in high-grade rails and other domestic issues accumulated by large investors was the best in many sessions although gains generally were confined to less than a point. Atchison General 4s advanced 1 point to lead the advance of prime bonds. Such bonds as Chicago & Eastern Illinois 5s, Chicago & Northwestern general 5s, International Great Northern adjustment 6s and Reading 4s reacted sharply. Utilities were irregularly higher. New York & Richmond Gas 6s reached a new 1930 high at 106½.

Stock privilege issues made an irregular recovery in sympathy with shares. Warner Bros. 6s rebounded 3½, but General Theaters 6s worked ½ lower and Allegheny 5s set a new low for the year.

U. S. Governments were fairly steady and dullness ruled all but Liberty 4th 4¼s. They sold within a small fraction of the year's peak price.

Offering will be made shortly of a $9,600,000 40-year 5½ per cent bond issue by the Ottaway Valley Power Co., it was learned today.

HOLDERS APPROVE OF BANKS' MERGER

Federal-American National, Merchants Trust Co. Move Ratified.

49 DIRECTORS PLANNED

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Stockholders of the Federal-American National Bank and the Merchants Bank & Trust Co. ratified consolidation of these banks as the Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co. at meetings held yesterday at the respective institutions. At the Merchants Bank, voters representing approximately 8,500 out of 10,000 shares approved consolidation. No votes opposed it. At the Federal-American Bank, stockholders gave unanimous approval to the merger. Yesterday's action confirms the agreement reached by the respective directorates in September.

The merger will be effective when Comptroller of the Currency Pole approves it, and it has been requested that it be made so as at close of business October 31, or opening of business November 1. This will give the new institution time to prepare new forms for checks, notes, &c., as well as for computation of interest and completion of other details. A meeting of Merchants Bank directors, excluding those serving as officers, with directors of the Federal-American Bank is planned for October 31. Under the merger arrangement, officers from the Merchants Bank have to be elected by the new directorate when the consolidation becomes effective. Federal-American Bank officers were elected to serve a year at the annual meeting in January. The combined directorate will have 49 members.

Injunction Request Set Aside.

Requests for an injunction to prevent the latest consolidation while legal action is pending against the Merchants Bank, was set aside by the court, it being shown that the new institution assumes responsibility for any action taken against either component.

President John Poole, of the Federal-American Bank, will become president of the consolidated bank and President Rolfe E. Bolling, of the Merchants Bank, will be manager of this bank in the Southern Building as a branch of the new institution. The present home of the Federal-American Bank at Fourteenth and G streets northwest will be the main office of the new bank. Consolidation with the Merchants Bank bring to the Federal-American three of the former's branches, at Dupont Circle, in Brookland and at Pennsylvania avenue and Twentieth street northwest. The new bank will have resources of $25,000,000.

At a meeting of the directors of the American Storage & Transfer Co., held yesterday, R. H. Adams, jr., was added to the board and elected vice president of the company.

The American Storage & Transfer Co. is located at 2801 Georgia avenue northwest.

Monroe Machine Co. Business.

S. L. Shanks, manager of the Washington district of the Monroe Calculating Machine Co., Inc., with offices at 1104 Vermont avenue northwest, reports that despite the general prevailing business conditions, the sales of his district have been very satisfactory throughout the year, averaging above his district's quota even during July and August, and showing a large increase during September.

For the fifth time this year the Washington district won the monthly sales pennant, which is awarded to the district having the highest percentage of sales quota of any district of its size in the country.

After four years in Philadelphia as a special representative of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., Nelson E. Perin has returned to Washington to associate himself with the firm of G. M.-P. Murphy & Co., at its Connecticut avenue office.

Reopens Capital Home.

Mr. Perin was for many years the successful head of the Berkeley Glass Sand Co., of Berkeley Springs, W. Va. During that time he spent most of the winters at his residence, 1824 R street northwest, which he has just reopened.

He is a member of the Metropolitan and Chevy Chase Clubs of Washington, the Maryland Club of Baltimore, the Rittenhouse Club of Philadelphia and secretary of the Misquamicut Golf Club of Watch Hill, R. I., where he has spent his summers.

A change in banking hours on and after November 1 is announced by the Munsey Trust Co. The company will be open for business from 8:30 a. m. to 3 p. m., except Saturdays, when the closing hour will be noon. On Federal pay days and the day following closing hour will be 5:30 p. m. Its safe deposit department will be open until 5 p. m. except on Saturdays.

Profits Reported By Westinghouse

Third Quarter Earnings of $2,995,244 Shows Decided Slump.

New York, Oct. 20 (A.P.).—The Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co. reported today net earnings for the third quarter of 1930, after all deductions, of $2,995,244, or $1.12 per share of preferred and common stock. The net income for the quarter represents a substantial drop from previous periods of this year and of 1929, which was the banner year in the company's history.

Orders received and sales billed also suffered by comparison with previous periods of 1930 and 1929. The company stated that orders received for products other than radio, the manufacture of which was transferred January 1, 1930, to the Radio Corporation of America, represented a 17 per cent decrease from the third quarter of 1929, but was 8 per cent higher than the corresponding period in 1928.

Net income for the third quarter of 1929 amounted to $6,413,330, or $2.40 a share, and the total for the June quarter of the current year was $5,810,744, or $1.43 a share, for the nine months, net earnings totaled $11,882,244, equal to $4.75 a share, against $19,544,211, or approximately $7.59 in the first nine months of 1929.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, Oct. 20 (A.P.).—The visible supply of American grain shows the following changes, in bushels: Wheat decreased 1,030,000; corn increased 45,000; oats increased 588,000; rye increased 4,000; barley increased 67,000.

Arrangements were announced today for the sale of a New York Stock Exchange membership at $217,000, the lowest figure since 1927, when the price of seats ranged from $170,000 to $305,000. Sale of three seats was arranged today. The first was announced at $230,000, a decrease of $15,000 from the previous sale. The other two were announced simultaneously, one at $217,000, the low figure, and the other at $220,000. Arrangements also have been made for the sale of a New York Curb Exchange membership for $82,000, a decrease of $3,000 from the previous sale.

Cotton goods opened firm today, with demand fair in the gray goods division. Burlaps showed little change at the opening. Raw silk stiffened and more buying is reported. New lines of spring and winter resort silks are being shown by mill agencies. Fair demand was reported for spot deliveries of small lots of overcoatings and clean-up lots of women's wear for quick cutting. Spring trade was light. Clothing manufacturers reported better advance sales.

Raw silk futures closed firm: Sales, 650 bales; December, 222; March, 220; May, 220. Open market quotations (60-day basis), Shanghai, steam extra, B, 280; Canton double extra A, 14-16s, 186; Japanese crack, double extra, 255.

CLAIRVOYANT THE MAN WHO KNOWS

608 12th St. N.W.

Over Woolworth's 5c & 10c Store

This strange man sees the way and tells it all. Just what your life has been, just what it will be. Tells you when and whom you will marry; whether husband, wife or sweetheart is true or false. Tells as to changes, travel, lost or absent friends, divorce, wills, deeds; whether it is best to buy or sell. He tells the good and the bad. A visit will convince you of his wonderful power.

Something tells you this is the man. You feel the impulse to call. Do not delay.

Capital Chauffeur Is Freed by Judge

Baltimore Justice Rules Manslaughter Charge Not Proved.

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 20.—Edward R. Downey, one-legged and one-eyed Washington chauffeur, who was tried in the criminal court last week on charges of manslaughter and assault with intent to murder, was found not guilty today by Judge Robert F. Stanton, who presided at the trial.

Downey was the driver of an automobile that struck a taxicab August 24, hurling it against a light post, killing Dr. Charles W. Chapman, of Bangor, Me. The other two occupants of the cab, one the driver, were injured. Immediately after the crash Downey allegedly fled the scene in his automobile. During a chase two patrolmen fired several shots, and Downey was alleged to have fired in return.

Judge Stanton held that the prosecution had not proved Downey guilty of criminal recklessness in the accident. He declared that such proof was necessary to find him guilty of manslaughter. He also held that the State had not proved the assault charge. While on the witness stand, Downey denied that he had fired at his pursuers. A search of his clothing and of his car at the time of arrest failed to reveal a pistol.

MONTGOMERY CHILD PERISHES IN FLAMES

Heroic Gaithersburg Fireman Nearly Gives Own Life to Save Boy.

WOLFE RITES TOMORROW

A colored child was burned to death and two firemen distinguished themselves in fighting fires which kept the Volunteer Fire Departments of Montgomery County busy over the week-end.

James Duke, 8 years old, colored, was trapped in the bedroom on the second floor of his home, 2 miles from Gaithersburg, when members of the Gaithersburg-Washington Grove Fire Department arrived. The stairway of the two-story frame house was wrapped in flame and the boy's bedroom was enveloped in stifling smoke. The only means of entry was the lone window.

As the ladder from the fire truck was swunk into position beneath the window Fireman William Bohrer sprang up the rungs and started through the window. Just as he had almost cleared the sill the window sash dropped and caught him. His head within the smoke-filled room, he could not breathe, but he did not forget his mission. When other firemen, after strenuous efforts, managed to free Bohrer, he was clutching the boy in his arms.

In the meantime, Fire Chief Merle Jacobs had summoned the Kensington Volunteer Fire Department rescue squad. Squad members worked for more than two hours in an effort to revive the boys, but their efforts were futile. He had been asphyxiated by smoke and flame and is believed to have been dead when he was taken to the room.

Fireman Bohrer was revived, but again fainted after a few minutes and had to be again revived. After taking a short rest he rejoined his comrades in saving the house from destruction. The damage to the house was estimated at several thousand dollars. The fire is believed to have been started by an overturned lamp. There were fourteen persons, all colored, in the house at the time, all of the other thirteen escaping without injury. Several children who had been asleep in the same room escaped without injury, apparently forgetting the Duke boy.

The firemen were greatly handicapped by a lack of water. Each of the engines had to run to Gaithersburg several times and fill its booster tank with water, then return to the scene of the fire. The three engines were run in rotation, one leaving the scene of the fire as another arrived.

In another locality Fireman J. E. Stillers, of the Bethesda Volunteer Fire Department, also was covering himself with glory. When the firemen reached a two-car garage in the rear of the home of E. S. Ryan, 100 Auburn avenue, Bethesda, the garage was enveloped in flames. One car apparently had not been seriously damaged. Stillers called to his companions to cover him with the hose and went into the middle of the flames to release the brake on the car and start it rolling to safety. The roof of the car was burned and the other car in the garage was badly damaged.

The origin of the fire was not determined, although it is believed to have been caused by a short circuit in one of the car's wiring system.

The Silver Spring Volunteer Fire Department had a busy day Sunday, with thre calls arrriving within a short time of each other. The first alarm summoned the department to a stable near Wheaton owned by Paul Curren. The Kensington and Takoma Park Departments also answered the alarm, but the three departments could not save the structure because of lack of water.

While the engines were at Wheaton, an alarm came from Linden, where a defective flue had caused a fire in the home of Ira Jones. The firemen managed to extinguish the fire with chemicals. Lack of water again was a major handicap. A cupola on the roof was destroyed, causing a loss of approximately $1,000.

The fire apparatus was just being backed into its house when the third alarm sounded for a fire in the home of Louis Tucker, on the road between Wheaton and Four Corners. The fire was extinguished with a loss of about $50.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock for George E. Wolfe, 13 years old, of Capitol View, Md., who was killed Sunday when a motorcycle he was riding crashed into a fence and threw him onto a railroad track 20 feet below. Requiem mass will be said at the Catholic Church at Forest Glen and burial will be in the church cemetery.

The boy was killed while testing out an old motorcycle he had rejuvenated on a field next to his home. His father was looking on. The body was taken to the undertaking establishment of Warner E. Pumphrey at Rockville, but no inquest was deemed necessary, the death having been judged accidental.

The Wolfe boy is not related to the Charles N. Wolfe, also of Capitol View, who left home a week ago to seek his fortune in the West and who has been heard from in Dayton, Ohio. It was reported at first that he was a brother of the wanderer, but this was denied yesterday by relatives.

Robbery of two stores yesterday was reported to Montgomery County Police of the Silver Spring substation, in both of which the method of entry and the loot was the same.

The store of Clarence Wright, at Fairlands was entered by prying a lock from the front door and cigarettes valued at approximately $15 stolen. The front door lock of Gidding's store at Burnt Mills also was pried open and cigarettes valued at $40 stolen. Sergt. Guy L. Jones and Corp. D. L. Snyder are investigating.

Retention of the present county and State government was urged by speakers at a Democratic rally held last night at Damascus. Efficiency and ability of the present administration was declared to have been proved by its actions in office, and a change of administration was declared to be fraught with possibilities of mismanagement.

Police Judge Charles W. Woodward, State's Attorney Robert B. Peter, jr., Robert G. Hilton, candidate for State senator, and Capt. Joseph C. Cissel were the principal speakers at the meeting, which was well attended.

William Ruse, of Canton, Ohio, narrowly escaped serious injury last night when his car was in collision with one operated by Ernest W. Duley, of Rockville, Md., and was overturned at the intersection of the Rockville pike and the Old Georgetown road.

Ruse was headed for Washington when the side of his car was struck by Duley's car, which was entering the pike from the Old Georgetown road, and turned over on its top. Ruse suffered injuries to his thumb. Both cars were wrecked.

Army Plans Tests On Ft. Eustis Field

35 Officers and 600 Enlisted Men to Be Established at Virginia Post.

Special to The Washington Post.

Fort Eustis, Va., Oct. 20.—Approximately 35 officers and 600 enlisted men will comprise the force here in pursuance of the War Department announcement to make a permanent laboratory at Fort Eustis for testing and developing mechanical devices used by the land forces in general warfare. Today 250 officers and enlisted men arrived as the first unit to be established on the Virginian Peninsula post.

According to Maj. Burke, the other units to arrive will make up the personnel of the laboratory. Camp Eustis grounds will be used for testing motor cars, motorcycles, armored cars, tanks and all other motorized machinery in use by the Army.

Soldiers working under their officers will correct defects in machinery and it is expected new types of battlefield equipment will be developed in time.

Vaccinations Given To Check Smallpox

20 Cases of Disease Found in Shepherdstown, W. Va.; College Not to Close.

Special to The Washington Post.

Hagerstown, Md., Oct. 20.—Wholesale vaccinations were being made today at Shepherdstown, W. Va., just across the Potomac River, in an effort to stem a smallpox epidemic, which was discovered late yesterday in the Negro section of the town. Approximately 250 students of Shepherd College are to be vaccinated.

As Jefferson County, in which Shepherdstown is located, has no health officer, the health officers of the adjacent counties of Washington, Maryland, and Berkeley, have taken charge of the situation. Dr. Edwin Cameron, of Berkeley County, and Dr. W. Ross Cameron, of Washington County, were in Shepherdstown today with a limited amount of vaccine. More is being rushed from Pittsburgh.

Approximately twenty cases of the disease had been found by noon today. Prof. W. H. S. White, head of Shephard College, which is a coed school, said there were no cases among the student body and that he did not plan to close the institution.

Mrs. Alice Burchinal Dies in Chestertown

Special to The Washington Post.

Chestertown, Md., Oct. 20.—Mrs. Alice Burchinal, member of one of the oldest families in Kent County and wife of the late Burton Burchinal, of this town, died early this morning at her home here in her seventy-ninth year, after a lingering illness. She had recently returned from a Baltimore hospital. She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Merrick Clements, of this town.

Prior to her marriage, Mrs. Burchinal was Miss Alice Lambert.

West Virginia Farmer Kills 257 Groundhogs

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Oct. 20.—Anthony Lantz, Peel Tree farmer, is out for the West Virginia groundhog slaying championship, which he already claims. Since last February he has killed 257 of them.

The season is now over, he reports, as the groundhogs are sleeping far back in their holes and are no longer edible.

600 IN MT. RAINIER HEAR GOV. RITCHIE

Reelection Aspirant Waves Aside Suggestion That He Run for President.

TYDINGS ALSO SPEAKS

Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, waved aside the question of his nomination for the presidency in 1932 after he had been suggetsed for the post by one of his running mates at a Democratic meeting in Mount Rainier last night.

William Preston Lane, candidate for State's attorney general, had expressed his opinion that the governor would be reelected, would serve two years, and would then head the national Democratic ticket in 1932." If the good people of Mount Rainier," the governor said, "will stick by me in the election for governor, I will let them off on the question of the presidency."

The Mount Rainier meeting was held jointly with a Democratic rally in Hyattsville. Others to speak at the two meetings were Mr. Lane, Stephen S. Cambrill, candidate for reelection to the House of Representatives, and Senator Millard E. Tydings, who discussed the national Senator Tydings claimed that the espect of the campaign.

1928 promises of the Republicans had not been fulfilled. He also stated his opposition to anything more than limited revision of the tariff at any one session of Congress. Wholesale changes in duties have the effect of causing business depression, he maintained.

Lane takes the place on the Democratic ticket of a previous candidate who died suddenly last week. Due to his late entry in the race, Lane's appearance last night will be his last in Southern Maryland. He also brought out the fact that the Democrats show an increased registration in 21 of the 23 counties in Maryland.

Gov. Ritchie stated that one of the Federal drought aids, the road building program, had failed, and that another the lower freight rates for farm produce, had been worked out by a Democratic representative. He also outlined the work of the Maryland Drought Corporation which will lend to reputable farmers without collateral. The Governor made a particular plea for the election of the county tickte to the State Legislature.

J. Enos Ray presided over the Mount Rainier meeting which attracted about 600 persons. Approximately 800 attended the Hyattsville meeting and many were turned away. Officiating at the latter meeting was W. D. Porter. County candidates, present at both meetings, were introduced, but did not speak.

Huguenot Society Makes 1932 Plans

Group to Join in Program Because of Descent of Washington.

Because of George Washington's descent from a Huguenot, one Nicholas Monteau, the Huguenot Society of Washington, Virginia, Maryland and Delaware will cooperate in the bicentennial celebration in 1932, it was announced last night at the first fall meeting of the organization at 1705 K street.

Frank B. Steele, secretary general of the Sons of the American Revolution, spoke on "The Huguenots and America," dwelling particularly upon the part that early Huguenots played in the Revolutionary War.

Following the transaction of routine business, the meetrng became a social affair. About 50 members and friends gathered for the session in the offices of the president. Samuel Hertine business, the meeting became a the library.

Fire Razes Two Homes And Threatens Forests

Special to The Washington Post.

Lynchburg, Va., Oct. 20.—Two mountain dwellings, located sereval miles apart in Nelson County, were burned yesterday afternoon and national forests adjoining them were set on fire. Lookouts picked up both fires and they were controlled before more than five acres of land were burned over.

The cabins belonged to Emmeline Hite and Rodney Fitzgerald. Most of their furnishings were burned. Origin of the fire is unknown.

Prayers for Rain Said By Berryville People

Special to The Washington Post.

Berryville, Va., Oct. 20.—The drought situation became so serious in Clarke County, with ground too dusty for seeding, and many farmers hauling water great distances, churches were appealed to for a union service of prayer for rain. Such a service was held this afternoon on the courthouse lawn, which was well attended by 500 men and women from throughout the county. All places of business were closed during services.

The Rev. R. L. Eutsler, pastor of the Methodist Church, presided. Other ministers who assisted were the Rev. J. McL. Carr, pastor of the Presbyterian Church; the Rev. Dr. Tucker, pastor of Grace Episcopal Church, and the Rev. Dr. Parker, pastor of the Baptist Church, all of Berryville.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE WASHINGTON TABLOID

THE Republican National Committee is publishing an Administration newspaper. The alarming note is the fact that it is a tabloid. Pictures of Administration notables in bathing suits are seen as a probable feature. With an array of true stories, confessions, horoscopes, and a "Your White House and Mine" column.

We may discover Senator Smoot running a department on matrimonial happiness, and Congressman John Q. Tilson running a how-to-keep-well column and assuring readers that nothing they get from the Republican party can make them sick.

SAMPLES

DEAR DR. TILSON: For a long time now I have been feeling very low. I have rheumatism, gout, vertigo and a touch of hay fever. I have no appetite and feel miserable all the time. It is years since I have had a good night's sleep. Doctors have failed to help me. What would you advise?

A FAITHFUL READER.

A.—Vote the straight Republican ticket and all will be well.

DEAR MR. SMOOT: I am a young married woman, but am not happy with my husband. He is good to me and provides me with a comfortable home, but he wants to stay home every night and listen to the radio, while I want to go out to the theater or to dances. We do not openly quarrel, but I find we are drawing further apart all the time. Some of my friends say I should leave him. Mother tells me I should try to talk it out with him and get him to take me around more. What do you think? MINERVA.

A.—I am sending you a copy of the tariff bill. A careful study of the section dealing with jute (raw), fish sounds (except in bulk), and grindstones (when not used for musical purposes) will clear up all your troubles.

IT'S A HARD LIFE.

("All the glory is gone, all the glitter is off."—Mayor Walker, of New York, in speaking of his job.)

Gone is the glory,
All the glitter, too;
That, sir, is my story
When I'm feeling blue.

Birds have ceased their trilling
Bees no longer buzz;
Nature seems unwilling—
Nothing as it was.

Gone are all the flowers,
Hidden is the sun;
Gloomy are the hours,
Nothing's any fun.

City Hall's a cold place,
Bleak and drab and bare;
If I have an old face,
It's the wear and tear.

Mayor? Well, what of it?
What's the office mean?
Once I seemed to love it,
Now I'm not so keen.

Lots of pink confetti,
Speeches and a band;
Scandals big and petty,
Juries known as "grand."

Public life's a phoney
Trail that's dull and flat;
Everything's baloney—
Take my word for that.

Full of woe and pain, boys,
I have had my fill;
Will I run again, boys?
Betcher life I will!

MR. SIDNEY FRUMKIN (Franklin to you!), the Brooklyn bull who made good in the bull ring, is back in his native city and has already been gored six times in subway rushes.

If Mr. Franklin thinks bull fighting dangerous, it would be interesting to note his demeanor being chased back onto the sidewalk by a taxicab.

WITH APOLOGIES.

There was a bull fighter named Sidney
Who was gored by a bull in the kidney;
Getting gored day and night.
But he got a swell ad from it, didney?

PILOT LOSES SUIT FOR $1,217 AS PAY

Prince Georges Jury Decides Aviator Was Paid in Full by Air Legion.

VACANCIES IN SCHOOLS

A circuit court jury in Prince Georges County yesterday decided that the D. C. Air Legion, of Washington, had fully paid Lieut. W. A. Brooke for his services as instructor in the Legion school. Brooke had sued the Washington organization for $1,217.50, which he claimed was due him for his work in the ground school during 1928 and 1929.

At the time of Brooke's service, the flying field of the school was at College Park, Md., though it now has been moved to Hybla Valley, Va. Brooke is at present a pilot for the Pen-American Airways, flying the South American route.

The legion agreed to pay Brooke a certain sum per month as ground school instructor, and later paid him a certain sum for each hour of flying. Pay for the flying time took the place of the ground school salary, the lawyers for the legion claimed, but Brooke alleged that both were due him. Robert W. McCullough and Waldo Burnside appeared for the legion.

One feature of this suit was the attachment of the school's plane by Brooke. Sheriff Charles J. Early said that the plane was the most unusual article he has ever attached, and that it gave him the most trouble, as it could have been so easily removed from his jurisdiction, without possibility of pursuit.

There now are three vacancies in the Prince Georges County school system, according to Nicholas Orem, county superintendent of schools. Two of them, in the Glendale and Ardmore institutions, are caused by the increased enrollment, which authorizes the employment of additional teachers. The third is caused by the resignation of Miss Clara R. Garland, teacher of arithmetic and geography in the Bladensburg Junior High School.

Week-end disorders in Prince Georges County resulted in two arrests for fighting and two for driving while drunk. George P. Duvall, of Takoma Park, Md., was arrested by State police on the Defense highway near Bladensburg when he was alleged to have been driving on the wrong side of the road. He was charged with driving while drunk and reckless driving. He obtained his release by posting bond of $100 on the former and $1 on the latter charge.

Arthur Chambers, of New York City, also was arrested, and on the same charges. Lawrence Peterson, of Somerset place near Sixth street northwest, and Henry J. Norris, of E street near Eighth street northwest, were arrested after a fistic battle in one of the Bladensburg restaurants. Both posted bond of $100 on disorderly conduct charges.

All four of those arrested will appear before Judge J. Chew Sheriff in police court on Wednesday.

Republican candidates and the G. O. P. State central committee for Prince Georges County will meet today in Upper Marlboro at 1 o'clock It is understood that the schedule of Republican rallies and campaign plans will be discussed.

Five of the six colored boys who escaped from the reform school at Cheltenham Sunday have been recaptured. Three of them were caught the night of the escape, only a few hours after they fled, and two others were retaken yesterday. Yesterday's prisoners were both found near Upper Marlboro by deputy sheriffs. They said they had slept out in the woods in spite of the recent cold snap.

Those recaptured are George Johnson, 16 years old, of Kent County; Thomas Bond, 17 years old, of Baltimore; Melvin Thomas, 19 years old, of Baltimore; Samuel Simms, 20 years ol, of Frederick County, and Albert Gaskins, 18 years old, of Baltimore. The one still at liberty is Benjamin Diggs, of Prince Georges County.

ALL IS IN READINESS FOR FREDERICK FAIR

Walter Johnson, Famous Baseball Pitcher, Will Show Poultry and Attend.

TO CONTINUE FOUR DAYS

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., Oct. 20. — Plans were complete today for the seventieth annual Frederick County Agricultural Fair, which will begin tomorrow and continue four days Carloads of machinery, cattle, race horses, and farm and garden exhibits have been entered. Today about 5,000 pure-bred chickens, ducks, turkeys, and other fowl were entered in the poultry department.

Scores of tents, booths and sales stands have been erected on the grounds. The sale of building and ground space is large.

Among those who will exhibit poultry is Walter Johnson, well-known baseball figure, of Washington, who also will attend the fair. Many of the birds will be entered in the Madison Square Garden Show, in New York, in January.

Competition Is Keen.

Notwithstanding the drought, the farm and garden display will be very large. Competition will be keen for special prizes for grain and fruit. Some of the finest cattle in Maryland, including Holsteins, Jerseys, Herefords and short horns have been entered. The machinery department, including all kinds of labor-saving farm implements, will be larger than usual. Space has been taken for exhibits of the extension service, University of Maryland; chamber of commerce, health department, Maryland State School for the Deaf, Hood College and many business firms.

One of the features will be the exhibit of the Federation of Rural Woman's Clubs, which will occupy almost the entire space of woman's building. The 24 clubs of the federation, with a membership of 675, will give demonstrations of cookery each day from a platform made to resemble a kitchen. The receipts will be distributed and the products will be displayed. Teams from each club will demonstrate its own recipes. The Federation of 4-H Girls Clubs will exhibit canned goods, preserves, homemade garments and paintings.

Many 4H Clubs.

Four-H club boys from a dozen counties in Maryland will hold poultry judging contests. Teams from each county will compete for cash prizes and silver cups. The winning team will be selected to represent Maryland in the Madison Square Garden poultry show judging contest.

About ten counties will send high school vocational judging teams to take part in the cattle and corn judging contests for cash prizes and silver cups. More horses have been entered in the races for each day than for a number of years. Owners and trainers have been exercising their horses on the half-mile track for two weeks.

About 100 judges have been appointed who will award thousands of dollars in prizes. Hundreds of persons from Washington, Baltimore and other large cities attend the fair each day. It is the last of the county fairs on the Eastern circuit embracing New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Maryland. A number of special police and deputy sheriffs went on duty tonight on account of the large influx of persons who follow fairs.

FOUR EASTERN STAR CHAPTERS TO MEET

Worthy Grand Patron to Make Official Visitation in Alexandria Tonight.

G. W. U. STUDENT KILLED

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 623.

The first meeting of the Order of the Eastern Star to be held in the new George Washington Masonic Memorial Temple will be that of four chapters in northern Virginia, who will unite in ceremonies to receive the worthy grand matron, Mrs. Emma Huddleston, of Roanoke, and the worthy grand patron, Harry F. Kennedy, of Alexandria, at 8 o'clock this evening. This will be the official visitation of the two grand lodge officers.

Martha Washington Chapter, No. 42, of Alexandria, will be the host at this affair, and other chapters represented will be the Jessica Callahan, No. 91, of Potomac; Mary Washington, No. 50, of Clarendon, and Arlington, No. 39, of Cherrydale. Mrs. Susie V. Cassidy, worthy matron of Martha Washington Chapter, will be the presiding officer, and is in charge of the entertainment program.

The plans call for conferring degrees on a large class of candidates, to be known as the "temple class," this being the first time the degree work has been conferred in the new temple.

More than 1,000 members of the Eastern Star are xpected to attend. After the business session and degree work, refreshments will be served in the blue lodge room of the temple.

William Fealy, 24 years old and unmarried, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Fealy, of 236 Kentucky avenue southeast, Washington, came to his death by being struck by an electric train, accidentally, according to a verdict rendered by Coroner T. Marshall Jones yesterday.

William Roney, of the Alexandria-Washington Trolley Line, reported to the police early yesterday morning that the body of a man was lying on the trestle of the company, known as Hooffs Run bridge, at the head of King street. Policemen Jones and Bayliss responded and found the body of a young man, later identified as that of Fealy, lying on the northbound track. Fealy's identity was established through the Washington authorities.

It was learned later that
